More Than 1,000 Are Quizzed in Estes Case

Many Others to Be Questioned Before Senate Investigators Start Hearings

By G. MILTON KELLY

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate investigators disclosed today their agents have questioned more than 1,000 persons in the widening Billie Sol Estes case.

And, said the informant, many, many more will be questioned before the Senate Investigations subcommittee is ready to start its hearings into whether Washington influence helped Estes build his rickety business empire.

FBI Moves In

The report came after President Kennedy related at a news conference Wednesday that the FBI has moved into the investigation of the mysterious death of Henry Marshall, a Texas farm official, shot to death a year ago while checking into Estes' dealings under the government cotton program.

The FBI declined to comment on the unusual circumstance of its entry into what normally would be a local police case.

Last June, when Marshall was found dead, shot five times, his death was written off as suicide. But under the pressure of the Estes investigation, his body was exhumed Tuesday for an autopsy in Franklin, Tex. Later the county medical examiner told county grand jurors his preliminary finding was murder.

Final Report Due

The examiner, Dr. J. A. Jachimczyk, was expected to make his final report today.

The FBI also had no comment on the case of Howard Pratt, 31, Chicago office manager of Commercial Solvents Corp., found dead in his car Wednesday of carbon monoxide poisoning. The company's financial relations with Estes, who bought great quantities of liquid fertilizer from the chemical firm, are under investigation.

The Senate subcommittee, headed by Sen. John L. McClellan, D-Ark., said it had no evidence of any link between Estes and Pratt, but would look into the death because of a cryptic note found in Pratt's car which said in part "the burden of guilt is on my shoulders."

Doubt Connection

Investigators said they doubted Pratt had any connection with Estes.

A House subcommittee headed by Rep. L. H. Fountain, D-N.C., plans to start hearings Monday on the Estes case, with political controversy already swirling about its ears.

Sen. Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois, the Senate Republican leader, accused the subcommittee's staff of leaking to the press what he called politically inspired "petty hinting and subtle innuendo" about two brothers of former President Dwight D. Eisenhower.

His statements were prompted by a New York Herald Tribune story published Wednesday which quoted an expert on the House subcommittee's staff in connection with reports that the names of Edgar Eisenhower and the late Arthur Eisenhower might figure in the hearings on matters completely unrelated to Estes.

Try at Shift, He Says

In Tacoma, Wash., Edgar Eisenhower, a lawyer, declared "the whole purpose of this is to take the heat off this administration, to take the heat off this Bil-

DONALD SIMEK

Is Elected New Jaycee Leader; Succeeds Carlzon

The Kingston Junior Chamber of Commerce has elected Donald Simek president for the coming year. Simek, pledging sincerity and enthusiasm, emerged victorious in the election held Wednesday night at the Gov. Clinton Hotel.

James Bishopp was chosen internal vice-president and W. Jack Kahn was elected external vice-president. Allan Levinson will take over the duties of secretary and Charles R. Carpenter will become treasurer. Albert Trowbridge was elected state director. Elected for two years to the Board of Directors were Raymond W. Borg and for one year Joseph Marro and Richard L. Goetsch.

Simek is employed by IBM. He and his wife, Barbara, reside in Kingston with their four children. He has been an active Jaycee for three years and is a past director of the group. He is also a director of the Kingston Boys Club, a member of the Committee on Fluoridation and secretary of the Commission of Education.

Last night's meeting was presided over by outgoing internal vice-president George Mine. Robert Stedge, chairman of the nominating committee, presided over the election. Robert Carlzon is the retiring president.

Carpenter Welcomed Duty Shift

By HOWARD BENEDICT

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) —When Malcolm Scott Carpenter was selected in 1959 as one of the seven Mercury astronauts, he was thankful to be rescued from what he considered a grueling assignment—a two-year tour of duty on an aircraft carrier.

On the carrier, he would face long periods away from his family and the disappointing prospect of a nonflying job. The Mercury orders arrived just two days before the ship was to depart San Diego.

Predicted Today's Ride

When the carrier commander asked him what he was going to do, Carpenter replied: "Ride the nose cone of an Atlas three times around the earth."

"I remember being a little amazed at my own words," Carpenter said recently. "I knew little about the program then. By now, I know a good deal more, but the whole idea fills me with awe."

Carpenter, 37, a Navy lieutenant commander, was thrust suddenly into the pilot role for the second U.S. manned orbit flight last March 15 when it was disclosed that the chosen astronaut, Air Force Maj. Donald K. Slayton, had minor heart trouble. Carpenter had been backup pilot for Marine Lt. Col. John H. Glenn Jr.'s orbital flight on Feb. 20.

The handsome, crew-cut Carpenter has been a vital member of the astronaut team. His speciality is navigation and communications and he has worked extensively with engineers and technicians to develop a foolproof communications system for the Mercury capsule.

Changed From Drifter

Carpenter is an exemplary citizen now, but it took him a little time to find himself. He said recently that in his youth he was a drifter and "sort of a no-good" in his home town of Boulder, Colo., where he was born May 1, 1925.

"I didn't study hard and I had to quit high school football because I couldn't devote myself to learning the plays," he said. "I stole things from stores and I was just drifting through, sort of a no-good."

After high school graduation in 1943, he enlisted in the Navy and got a start on his flying career in the Navy V-5 flight training program.

After World War II, he entered the University of Colorado but had trouble adjusting and twice was flunked out of school.

Mishap Changed Life

He became a laborer in Boulder. But not long afterward, when he was 20, he had an auto accident, which changed his whole life. He was unconscious for four days, and during a two-week convalescence in the hospital he decided to return to college.

He came within three credit hours of earning a degree in aeronautical engineering from Colo-

Radio Contact Lost After Three Full Orbits; Fuel Was Concern for Time

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — The mercury control center here reported today that the capsule carrying astronaut Malcolm Scott Carpenter apparently landed in the Atlantic some 1,000 miles southeast of Cape Canaveral—or 200 miles beyond its intended landing point. Because of loss of radio communication, there was no indication of Carpenter's condition.

Planes 120 Miles Away

Officials reported the nearest aircraft was 120 miles from the point where it was estimated the spacecraft landed.

The plane, an Air Force sea rescue craft, flew toward the scene with a team of para-rescue men.

There was no immediate estimate how long it would take the plane to reach the scene.

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) —In a masterful display of cool courage, astronaut Malcolm Scott Carpnter completed his second orbit of the globe today and kept going for a third circuit.

Rapid fuel consumption in his Aurora 7 spaceship caused great concern during his second orbit.

But after consultation with the pilot, the Mercury control center reported:

Had to Limit Consumption

"We see no reason why he shouldn't continue into the third orbit. But we emphasize that he limit his automatic fuel consumption."

The latter was an order sent from the control center at Cape Canaveral to the tracking station at Point Arguello, Calif., for relay to Carpenter when he passed overhead.

If a decision had been made to bring him down after two orbits, his reverse rockets would have been fired over Point Arguello and he would have descended gradually over the United States to a landing in the Atlantic 500 miles south of Bermuda.

Officials detected fast consumption of the fuel shortly after the second orbit began and told Carpenter to begin using his manual control system at that time to conserve the valuable hydrogen peroxide which is used to control the attitude of the craft.

Apparently he did not hear the original order, which came from the Canary Island tracking station, and it had to be repeated by two posts in Australia, Muchea and Woomera. As he crossed the Pacific toward the west coast of the United States, Mercury officials made checks with Carpenter on the status of his fuel.

Could Be Dangerous

Should Carpenter use up all his fuel, he would have no way of controlling the attitude. This would be particularly dangerous during re-entry if atmospheric pressures and stresses caused the capsule to start tumbling. There might be danger that the heat shield would not be in a forward position to protect the craft from the 3,000-degree re-entry heat, and it would burn up, killing the astronaut.

He reported there was enough to complete a three-orbit mission and the order was given to proceed. As he passed over Point Arguello, Carpenter told astronaut Alan B. Shepard Jr. who is stationed there that he again noted "snowflakes." He first reported seeing them in small numbers on the first orbit at about the same relative time—during sunrise.

"There are more of those white particles," Carpenter told Shepard. "They appear to be traveling exactly my speed. There's one drifting off and it appears to be going even faster.

He said he did not see them in the great numbers that John H. Glenn Jr., America's first man in orbit, saw his famous fireflies. Carpenter said his snowflakes were in a sort of rambling pattern.

Says Water 'Very Good'

Carpenter said he also had been getting a little warm, and drank some water over Canton Island in the Pacific. He said it tasted very good.

As he passed over Cape Canaveral just before entering the third orbit, he attempted to jettison a balloon which he had towed behind the capsule for one whole orbit. However, he reported the jettison switch failed to operate and he was unable to release the 30-inch sphere.

Technicians assured him that the balloon would in no way affect the mission and that it would

JFK Is Emphatic On Medicare in Social Security

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy has made his no-compromise stand on medical care for the aged more emphatic than ever. He insists on weaving it into the Social Security system. He says the public wants it that way.

Firing another broadside at the American Medical Association Wednesday, Kennedy repeated his prediction that Congress will adopt his plan this year if it reaches the House and Senate floors. And he contended that despite AMA opposition, "more and more doctors are supporting it."

Strongly Attacks AMA

Kennedy heatedly attacked the AMA and Republican critics of his medical care program at his news conference—a conference dominated by his strong views on the big legislative controversy of 1962. The questioning elicited these comments and charges:

Kennedy said he does not plan to follow up his current proposal for payment of hospital, nursing home and outpatient bills with a plan to cover doctors' bills. He accused critics of talking through both sides of the mouth. They criticized it one day, he said, for "going too far in limiting the relationship between doctors and their patients, and on another day attacked it for not including doctors."

Denounced as Hoax

AMA spokesmen have denounced the plan as "a cruel hoax." Kennedy said the association used the same words in unsuccessfully opposing Social Security in the 1930s. The AMA may not support this bill, he said, "but I think the American people will, and I think more and more doctors are supporting it."

Would he accept a compromise

Church, Business Destroyed

Bolts Likely Cause Of Buffalo Blazes

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Two fires of major proportion, apparently triggered by lightning strikes during heavy thunderstorms, caused momentary concern among city officials over available equipment and manpower in the event of other possible fires Wednesday night.

Speed Eases Strain

But quick action in recalling off-duty personnel and a summons for mutual aid eased the strained situation as forces battled flames at a church near the downtown section and a business building on the West Side.

The 94-year-old St. Michael's Roman Catholic Church, a city landmark, was destroyed. The loss was set by church officials at $2 million.

The church fire was discovered while several units of the city's fire department were fighting a five-alarm blaze at a six-story brick business and storage building on the West Side.

Three civil defense units were pressed into service and a like number of suburban fire companies responded to a request for mutual aid.

170 Bolts Recorded

The fires broke out during a two-hour period in which two severe electrical storms blasted through the area. A total of 170 lightning bolts from cloud to ground were recorded by the local power company. The company and weather bureau officials agreed that the number was un-

Final of 3 Cop Killers Surrenders

NEW YORK (AP)—Police have their hands on all three ex-convicts accused of the holdup-murders of two city detectives in Brooklyn.

The one who hid out the longest —Jerome Rosenberg — Surrendered Wednesday night to the New York Daily News in its Manhattan headquarters.

Quizzed Through Night

Notified by the News, Assistant Chief Inspector Raymond V. Martin picked up Rosenberg in the editorial department and had him taken under heavy guard to a Brooklyn police station.

Police booked Rosenberg on a homicide charge shortly before dawn, after he had been questioned through the night and early morning and viewed by witnesses of last Friday's holdup. Detectives said he said he is innocent.

Rosenberg's surrender — described in a copyright story in the News—came five days and a few hours after the murders, and on Rosenberg's 25th birthday.

Police revealed last Monday that they knew the identities of

Lions of District Elect J. W. Tinney as Governor

J. Wilson Tinney of Port Ewen has been elected governor of District 20-0 of the New York State Lions Clubs by Lions delegates from the district which encompasses five counties and more than 50 Lions clubs.

The announcement was made Wednesday at the completion of the four-day New York Lions Convention in South Fallsburg. More than 2,500 Lions attended the convention.

Tinney, a past president of Kingston Lions Club, will take office immediately succeeding Walter S. Eckel as governor of a district with more than 6,000 members. Among his first duties will be a trip to Nice, France, to attend the International Convention of Lions Clubs June 20 through 23.

The new district governor is married and the father of one child. He has a perfect attendance record in the local Lions Club for the past 11 years.

Tinney has been tail-twister for three years, second and first vice-president, zone chairman, deputy district governor, district membership chairman, and chairman of the 1957 Kingston Lions Exposition and Home Show. He was president from 1957 to 1958.

He is a World War two veteran, past commander of Town of Espous American Legion Post 1298, a member of the Port

8 Divisions to March

List Memorial Day Service Program

Eight divisions will be in the line of march for the annual Memorial Day parade Wednesday which will step off from Governor Clinton Hotel, Albany Avenue, following memorial services in front of the hotel starting at 1:45 p. m.

The annual Memorial Day observance in Kingston is sponsored by Kingston Veterans Association. Sidney Lane is chairman.

Grand marshal of the parade will be Col. George F. Chandler of Kingston, first superintendent and founder of New York State Police.

Color guards from all units will mass in front of the hotel during the memorial service. Immediately following the service, the parade will start down Albany Avenue to Broadway, continue on Broadway to Delaware Avenue, left on Delaware to Hasbrouck Avenue where the marchers will disband.

William W. Watts of Joyce-Schirick Post 1386, Veterans of Foreign Wars will be parade chairman and Robert P. Heaney, past commandant of Ulster De-

Steeley Retires From Troopers, Viehl Gets Post

A native of Rosendale, who has been a member of the New York State Police System since 1925, has retired on disability. He is Capt. Joseph A. Steeley who will be succeeded by State Inspector Louis C. Viehl, of Pawling.

State Police Superintendent Arthur J. Cornelius Jr., said Viehl has been promoted to the rank of captain, effective immediately. The post pays $12,350.

Captain Steeley was injured on May 19, 1961 in a traffic accident at Wilton. He was unable to return to duty because of injuries suffered in the headon collision with another car which happened while on his way to Glens Falls for the opening of a section of the Northway.

Steeley, 57, requested accident disability retirement. He entered State Police service in 1925 and rose through the ranks to captain. Since 1957 he has commanded Troop G at Troy where he resides at 897 Hoosick Road with his wife and daughter.

Captain Viehl, a native of New York City, joined the troopers in 1940 after serving with the Marine Corps. He was promoted to corporal in 1947, sergeant in 1950, lieutenant in 1956. He resides in Pawling with his wife and two sons.

PAGE ONE QUEEN FINALISTS—One of the three finalists (above) chosen Wednesday night at a reception in Governor Clinton Hotel, will be named Page One Queen of 1962 at the seventh annual Page One Ball and dinner of Kingston Newspaper Guild Saturday night at the hotel. A panel of five judges narrowed down a field of 19 Ulster County young ladies to the three finalists, (l-r) Jane Markovsky, 16-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alex Markovsky of 188 Washington Avenue, Saugerties; Sara Imhoff, 17-year-old daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. Frederick Imhoff of Mt. Astronaut Glenn Is Father of Year

NEW YORK (AP)—A man acclaimed for doing a good job above the earth today was honored for doing a good job on it. Marine Lt. Col. John H. Glenn Jr. was named the nation's "Father of the Year."

Although Glenn, as the first American to orbit this planet, has been as far away from his family as any man ever has been, he was rated tops as a family man by the National Father's Day Committee.

He and his wife, Anna Margaret, have two children, John David, 14, and Carolyn Ann, 13.

NEW YORK (AP)—Police have their hands on all three ex-convicts accused of the holdup-murders of two city detectives in Brooklyn.

The one who hid out the longest —Jerome Rosenberg — Surrendered Wednesday night to the New York Daily News in its Manhattan headquarters.

Quizzed Through Night

Notified by the News, Assistant Chief Inspector Raymond V. Martin picked up Rosenberg in the editorial department and had him taken under heavy guard to a Brooklyn police station.

Police booked Rosenberg on a homicide charge shortly before dawn, after he had been questioned through the night and early morning and viewed by witnesses of last Friday's holdup. Detectives said he said he is innocent.

Rosenberg's surrender — described in a copyright story in the News—came five days and a few hours after the murders, and on Rosenberg's 25th birthday.

Police revealed last Monday that they knew the identities of

List Memorial Day Service Program

Eight divisions will be in the line of march for the annual Memorial Day parade Wednesday which will step off from Governor Clinton Hotel, Albany Avenue, following memorial services in front of the hotel starting at 1:45 p. m.

The annual Memorial Day observance in Kingston is sponsored by Kingston Veterans Association. Sidney Lane is chairman.

Grand marshal of the parade will be Col. George F. Chandler of Kingston, first superintendent and founder of New York State Police.

Color guards from all units will mass in front of the hotel during the memorial service. Immediately following the service, the parade will start down Albany Avenue to Broadway, continue on Broadway to Delaware Avenue, left on Delaware to Hasbrouck Avenue where the marchers will disband.

William W. Watts of Joyce-Schirick Post 1386, Veterans of Foreign Wars will be parade chairman and Robert P. Heaney, past commandant of Ulster Detachment, Marine Corps League, is co-chairman.

COL. GEORGE F. CHANDLER

The program for the pre-parade ceremony will include the following:

Lions of District Elect J. W. Tinney as Governor

J. Wilson Tinney of Port Ewen has been elected governor of District 20-0 of the New York State Lions Clubs by Lions delegates from the district which encompasses five counties and more than 50 Lions clubs.

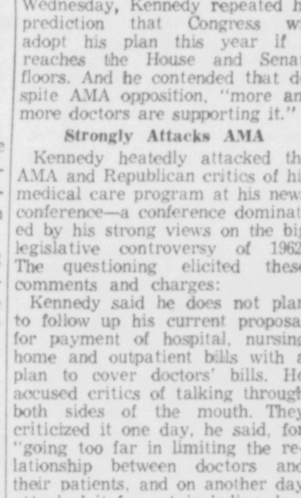
The announcement was made Wednesday at the completion of the four-day New York Lions Convention in South Fallsburg. More than 2,500 Lions attended the convention.

Tinney, a past president of Kingston Lions Club, will take office immediately succeeding Walter S. Eckel as governor of a district with more than 6,000 members. Among his first duties will be a trip to Nice, France, to attend the International Convention of Lions Clubs June 20 through 23.

The new district governor is married and the father of one child. He has a perfect attendance record in the local Lions Club for the past 11 years.

Tinney has been tail-twister for three years, second and first vice-president, zone chairman, deputy district governor, district membership chairman, and chairman of the 1957 Kingston Lions Exposition and Home Show. He was president from 1957 to 1958.

He is a World War two veteran, past commander of Town of Espous American Legion Post 1298, a member of the Port



J. WILSON TINNEY

Ewen Fire Department for the past 27 years, has served on the Port Ewen school board and has been a director of the Cancer Society.

According to George Svirsky, chairman of the Kingston Lions Convention Committee, 26 Kingston Lions attended the convention in South Fallsburg.

The local club has been acclaimed throughout the nation as one of the most outstanding examples of "Lions at Work."

Astronaut Glenn Is Father of Year

NEW YORK (AP)—A man acclaimed for doing a good job above the earth today was honored for doing a good job on it. Marine Lt. Col. John H. Glenn Jr. was named the nation's "Father of the Year."

Although Glenn, as the first American to orbit this planet, has been as far away from his family as any man ever has been, he was rated tops as a family man by the National Father's Day Committee.

He and his wife, Anna Margaret, have two children, John David, 14, and Carolyn Ann, 13.

Steeley Retires From Troopers, Viehl Gets Post

A native of Rosendale, who has been a member of the New York State Police System since 1925, has retired on disability. He is Capt. Joseph A. Steeley who will be succeeded by State Inspector Louis C. Viehl, of Pawling.

State Police Superintendent Arthur J. Cornelius Jr., said Viehl has been promoted to the rank of captain, effective immediately. The post pays $12,350.

Captain Steeley was injured on May 19, 1961 in a traffic accident at Wilton. He was unable to return to duty because of injuries suffered in the headon collision with another car which happened while on his way to Glens Falls for the opening of a section of the Northway.

Steeley, 57, requested accident disability retirement. He entered State Police service in 1925 and rose through the ranks to captain. Since 1957 he has commanded Troop G at Troy where he resides at 897 Hoosick Road with his wife and daughter.

Captain Viehl, a native of New York City, joined the troopers in 1940 after serving with the Marine Corps. He was promoted to corporal in 1947, sergeant in 1950, lieutenant in 1956. He resides in Pawling with his wife and two sons.

One Body Still Missing in Crash, Probe Continuing

UNIONVILLE, Mo. (AP)—One body was still missing today in the fatal crash of a Continental Airlines jet plane. The other 44 bodies were in an improvised morgue here.

Search for the missing, unidentified victim and for the cause of the accident that tore the big plane apart in the air over southern Iowa continued with teams of federal investigators on hand.

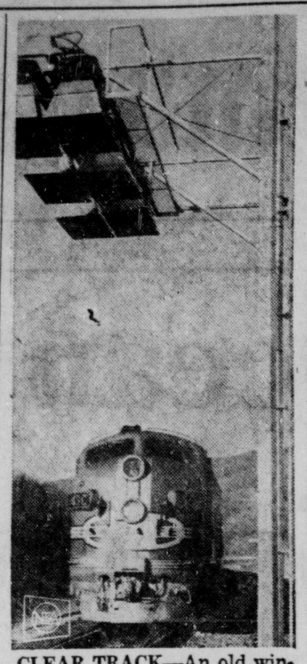
The $5½ million Boeing 707 plane left a trail of wreckage for 60 miles Tuesday night before its main fuselage plummeted into a Missouri farm.

The plane had been advised of thunderstorm turbulence as it neared Kansas City on its flight from Chicago.

Officials hoped that the taped flight record, salvaged from what was left of the main fuselage and sent to Kansas City, would afford some clue.

Federal Aviation Administrator Najeeb Halaby said there was not a shred of evidence that the airliner had collided with a small plane or had been ripped apart by a bomb. He also said there was nothing to show that it may have been caught in a tornado.

The only person who might have been able to tell what had happened died in a hospital soon after he was removed alive. He was one of the 37 passenters, a Japanese-born engineer. All eight crew members, including four hostesses, died in the crash.



CLEAR TRACK—An old winter problem of railroaders—frozen switches—may be licked with a new device hanging over Santa Fe track in picture above. It's an infrared heater, fueled either by natural gas or propane, which warms the switch without warming the surrounding air. At first sign of snow or ice, the heater turns on automatically and keeps going until the storm is over. The railroad plans to install the heaters in problem areas in Arizona and New Mexico.

Your small fry will appreciate that raw carrot salad if it's sprinkled with shredded coconut.

Situation Similar to Dewey Campaign

Upstate Republicans Critical Of Rocky, But Will Vote Him

By ROBERT T. GRAY

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP) — Upstate Republicans are grumbling over the course of state government under Gov. Rockefeller but there is no proof of any significant defection to the Democrats.

While many Republicans talk about staying home in preference to casting votes for Rockefeller or his Democratic opponent in November, political history support those who doubt such widespread action.

The Indications

Talks with individual voters Upstate indicate that:

1-Republican leaders are wrong in holding that the governor has enthusiastic support across Upstate New York.

2-Democrats are equally wrong in saying that Upstate Republicans have become so disenchanted with the governor they will either turn to the Democrats or not vote at all in this year's gubernatorial race.

When the chips are down, Upstate Republicans have demonstrated their voting support of candidates they have criticized. This happened during the re-election of Gov. Thomas E. Dewey both in 1946 and 1950. Dewey was an aggressive governor, who often antagonized both rank and file voters and GOP leaders. Many Republicans grumbled, but cast their votes for Dewey.

Democrats, anticipating their usual, large majorities in New York City next November would consider a Republican vote not cast as a plus in the election.

But prospects now are that most Upstate Republicans will maintain their traditional political allegiance this year, with misgivings in many instances.

Milk Dating Hurt

In rural areas, farmers feel the governor let them down when he sponsored and signed a bill restoring milk-dating authority to New York City.

The city quickly implemented the authority, passing a local requirement that the day on which the milk was pasteurized appear on containers of milk sold at retail.

Farmers had long opposed milk-dating on the ground that dealers cut back on orders of milk, rather than risk being overstocked on outdated supplies. The farmers won in 1960 under their new Republican governor, Rockefeller.

But New York City Democrats quickly made a political issue out of discontinuance of milk-dating. They held there had been an increase in the amount of sour milk sold.

Potent in Gotham

Rockefeller, while not agreeing with the charges, recognized that the milk-dating issue could be a potent one against him in the New York City campaign and, reversing himself, brought about restoration of the dating requirement.

Dairy farmers now faced with increasing supplies of milk and declining demand, are quick to blame Rockefeller and the milk-dating for their plight.

But is the dairy farmer mad enough to vote Democratic or not vote at all this November? "I'm a Republican and I'll always vote that way," said a Cortland County dairy farmer who had just finished castigating Rockefeller on the ground the governor was more interested in New York City than Upstate.

Taxes remain a matter of prime concern to Upstate voters. The increase in personal income taxes imposed in 1959 at Rockefeller's request has given him a high-tax reputation, an acquisition not considered an asset among conservative Republicans.

To Run Strong Upstate

But GOP voters still complaining about the tax boost of three years ago recoil from the idea that they would turn to a Democratic candidate in protest.

Current indications are that Rockefeller will run strong in Upstate New York, as Republican candidates traditionally do, and the independent vote in New York City will have a major, if not decisive role, in determining the outcome.

MAGIC WAND: EDUCATION

The number of Americans gainfully employed hit a new high in April, the government reports. Accompanying this good news was the better news that unemployment had finally dipped below the four-million mark.

Let's take a breather, rest a moment on these laurels and peer into the future a bit.

In recent years, a persistent hard core of unemployment has marred a situation of generally high prosperity in this country. Signs point to the continuation of this "hard core," and its probable enlargement, in the years ahead. Automation, which is still just beginning, is probably the most frequently mentioned of these signs.

There are other straws in the wind, however, which show there is more challenge than threat to America's economic future. It is becoming increasingly apparent that the problem will not be so much one of finding jobs for new people but finding people who can fill the new jobs that are coming into being.

Two instances illustrate this:

A survey of 157 property and casualty insurance compaines, with a total of 225,000 employes, revealed that they would be seeking 3,000 college graduates this June.

These are not just salesmen's jobs but include claims adjusters, underwriters, accountants, actuaries, etc.

The same companies last year hired 2,470 male graduates—yet 1 out of every 6 positions available went unfilled.

In another field, that created by automation itself in the form of high-speed computing or data processing machines, School Management magazine estimates that during the coming decade 500,000 jobs will be open for high school graduates.

The categories include programmers, technicians, operators, maintenance experts, etc. Higher up in the echelons of this new industry is a growing list of exotic careers like "systems analyst" and "operations researcher."

The story could be repeated in many other fields—some old, some unheard of a few years ago, like the two above.

For the next generation, the magic word more than ever is "education"—in the broadest sense: specific training, informed counseling, awareness of the trends shaping the America of tomorrow.

"Monkeys Subject to Schizophrenia," says a headline. Another indication that they resemble people.

TIME FOR PRECAUTIONS

Summer brings a dramatic increase in the variety of hazards that threaten children. There is the whole broad category of water accidents. Children tend to cross streets more casually in the course of their play. They are more venturesome than during the winter months, poking into unexpected places, "getting into things" in a way that can result in harm.

One of the things they get into, quite literally, is the old, abandoned refrigerator forgotten on someone's back porch. Such an object can be a death trap for little tots. Every spring and summer there are stories in the news about such incidents; little children crawl in and then suffocate when the door swings shut.

Simple precautions can avert such tragedies. Old refrigerators can be disposed of instead of being kept about, or their doors can be fixed so that they will not entirely close. It is the same with other potential hazards of childhood. Pools can be fenced or guarded, children can be trained not to run in the street, boys can be sternly enjoined not to venture onto the pond on wobbly rafts. Such measures do not, obviously, guarantee safety. They do reduce the chances of tragic accident.

Man has succeeded in shining a light on the moon. Back in prohibition days the best he could do was make moonshine.

More attention to boys' clothing fashion has been proposed—but by the head of a department store, not by the boys.

THE ANTI'S

Received in the mail a mimeographed letter with a mimeographed signature, Sylvia Kraus, the address being "The Carriage Antique Shop," 131 East 70 Street, New York.

The letter says that the Communists have an unpublicized conspiracy for world conquest. Having read considerably in Communist literature, I find that their desire for world conquest is fully publicized; it is, in fact, to them a matter of inevitability.

Miss or Mrs. Kraus, in whichever condition she finds herself, has, however, discovered a new one. Her knowledge is that they are underhandedly using arsenic on their enemies. This makes no sense to me because they are plentifully supplied with caviare, having the best of these fish eggs. If they feed them enough caviare, their opponents will fill their arteries with lipids, particularly cholesterol, and will sooner or later die of a coronary thrombosis, a stroke or some other fatality.

Miss Kraus has further pertinent data. She writes:

"On April 28, 1957, Senator Joseph McCarthy entered the hospital for treatments of an old knee injury, however, five days later he died, supposedly of 'hepatitis.' On November 28, 1961, Senator Styles Bridges died in his sleep, cause of death? Mr. Sam Rayburn had a simple backache, the next thing, he was declared with a cancer, seven weeks later, we buried him."

Joe McCarthy entered no hospital for old knee injuries. He suffered from a herniated diaphragn and subsequently from liver ailments. His illness lasted a long time. Senator Bridges, for several years, had suffered from heart ailments. The widows of these fine men know what happened. As Mr. Sam was a bachelor, there is no kindly widow to tell Miss Kraus that she is not a physician and that her diagnosis suffers from big ears which are receptacles for unpleasant rumors.

Miss Kraus further says:

"At the very threat of our liberty, Communists are using our FBI for their indoctrination center, plus the overwhelming of party members in the Central Intelligence Agency, therefore, I propose that we begin, with the impeachment of J. Edgar Hoover. . . ."

Apparently Miss Kraus has superior facilities than the FBI at checking facts. Constantly one meets all sorts of persons who feed their self-importance by rolling their eyes, pulling in their stomachs and saying, "I can't tell you where I got the information but I have the facts. I know what is going on." Occasionally such persons quote a private eye or a former FBI operative or one of those hungry, excited men on both sides of the fence, who, for a contribution, prepare elongated data, even mentioning names. Unfortunately, just as they do not check their data, no one else can check it, because often it does not exist.

Miss Kraus ends her mimeographed letter:

"I desperately seek your assistance in exposing the Communists' unpublicized merciless onslaught, before it is too late."

Oh! Dear! I fear that we shall all die of arsenic poisoning if we do not assist in this exposure. I am not a psychiatrist and cannot discuss seriously the psychotic effects of fear. That the fear is real, I know from observation and conversations. Just as on the Left, there is fear of such things as black-lists; so on the Right, there is a fear that in our concentration upon the factual imperialism of Soviet Russia and Red China, we shall lose interest in the activities of the Communists in the United States.

Often Rightists use the arguments of the Leftists to prove their point. In a word, just as in Italy, the Fascists became Communists and found themselves quite comfortable in their altered positions, so in this country many of those who for years have been shouting that Russia should be punished for her misdeeds, now say that it is not Russia or Red China that are important, but that we must concentrate on the home-grown Commies and they are angry at J. Edgar Hoover because he does not lend himself to their emphasis on the lesser evil.

For all American Communists are, in one manner or another, agents of Soviet Russia. If Russia were defeated, either politically or militarily, the American Communists would dry up on the vine for lack of sustenance.

It is Russia that must be the target and whenever I find a sufferer from the psychosis of providing inside dope, which "even J. Edgar Hoover does not have," I wonder whom he is working for?

Dietary Report Abounds in Cheer for Ulcer Patients

By HAROLD T. HYMAN, M.D.
Written for Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Some medical eyebrows may be raised and some shrieks of protest from die-hard nutritionists may be heard as a result of an ulcer report recently published by the Council on Foods and Nutrition of the American Medical Assn. The views—which correspond with my own, gained through years of experience—will free many peptic ulcer (stomach and duodenal) sufferers from unnecessary hardships of rigid diets.

The report, in summary, says:

Ulcers are not healed by diet, injections, nor by medications alone, but because the man with the ulcer comes under the care of a physician who is able to transmit to the patient some of his own confidence in the tendency of the ulcer to heal.

Rigid dietary treatment does not hasten peptic ulcer healing. Satisfactory healing of an ulcer can be obtained on a liberalized diet in which the choice of foods is more or less left to the patient provided that the chosen foods are made readily available, are attractively served and are eaten under favorable and pleasant conditions.

Dietary restrictions need not be placed on certain foods thought to be irritating unless they cause immediate distress to the particular patient.

The rate of recurrence of peptic ulcer is determined by its natural history in the particular patient. Even under virtually ideal conditions of management (as in the personnel of the Royal navy), the natural rate of recurrence is little influenced.

The intelligent patient will obviously avoid those foods he knows from experience cause him to have heartburn, pain or other digestive symptoms. He will avoid coffee and alcohol. He will thoroughly chew all foods. And he will take some simple antacid tablets or powders that experience has shown him serve to prevent or relieve distress.

Even so-called indigestibles (onions, garlic, turnips, parsnips, radishes, mustard, pickles, etc.) do not produce any more irritation to the stomach of the ulcer patient than to those whose stomachs are normal. Provided that "roughage" foods (fruit skins, lettuce, cabbage, kale, nuts, celery, etc.) are thoroughly masticated, they scarcely ever injure a peptic ulcer. Certainly, before prescribing limitations to the diets of persons with peptic ulcer, we need better evidence that ordinary foods are either stimulating or irritating to the stomach.

And, finally, "a temperate and common sense approach to the diet should provide for essential nutritional and acid-reducing features without making the diet an end unto itself or the patient a dietary cripple."

To which I add a chorus of Hallelujahs!

Washington News

BY PETER EDSON
Washington Correspondent
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — Politics is modernizing to the extent of joining the electronic computer age, anyway.

Republican National Committee headquarters here just has inaugurated a service contract with the Radio Corporation of America data processing center to handle a mailing list.

The old mailing list consisted of some 700,000 cards and stencil plates. They contained names and addresses of people who have corresponded with GOP headquarters some time or other. But many of the people whose names are on the list have moved since last heard from and some may be dead. So the lists are being revised.

As confirmed names and current addresses are determined they are being put on magnetic tape at the data processing center. There are now about 9,000 listings on the tape. It can be processed in 45 minutes. The first mailing using address labels printed from this tape has just gone out.

This is only a first step in feeding GOP political data into electronic brains. Ultimately it is expected to put donor accounting on tape. This will record every gift made to the party by every individual and how all the money is spent. Computers will then be able to provide data needed for filing reports on political contributions required by election laws.

This system probably won't be in full operation in time for use in this year's congressional elections, but it should be ready for the 1964 presidential campaign.

By that time the tape could be expanded to over 100,000 names of party donors on tapes which could be processed to provide five reports a year on all contributions.

UP TO NOW, political committees have found it practically impossible to keep accounts on contributions of less than $10. By the magnetic tape method it is claimed that even $1 gifts can be accounted for, with 81 cents actually being used for campaign expenses. The other 19 cents would go for accounting, handling, overhead.

Actually, the GOP taped mailing list is being handled electronically at a cost of 7/10 of one cent each on the first 10,000 names. The cost per name goes down as the size of the mailing list goes up.

Electronic processing of mailing lists is also being used by individual political candidates. Rep. Peter Frelinghuysen, R-N.J., and several other Congressmen have already contracted with RCA to handle their mailings.

Other computer centers like C-E-I-R, Sperry-Rand, Philco and Control Data Corp. offer similar equipment and services that can be useful to political organizations.

Democratic National Committee headquarters has an International Business Machines punch card accounting system in use and will probably stick with it for some time.

THERE ARE PRACTICALLY no limits on how far electronic political accounting can go. If a state organization or even a national party wanted to, it could keep records on every one of its registered voters.

Forty million names could be put on about 100 reels of magnetic tape. The lists can be maintained by geographic regions, which would simplify the handling of bulk mailings, as required by postal regulations. Corrections can easily be made as people move, or even as they change parties, though political leaders won't admit any voter would ever do such a thing.

If all this sounds like a lot of unnecessary trouble and expense now, it may not seem so goofy in a few years, if the election laws should be changed.

President Kennedy now has under study the report from his Commission on Campaign Costs. One of its recommendations is that a $10 tax credit or a $1,000 tax deduction be granted for political contributions. The President will ask Congress for legislation on this and other political contribution practices, possibly government campaign financing.

The only way such accounting can be handled — as Internal Revenue Service already has discovered—is by magnetic tape recordings and electronic data processing.

Airing the Medicare Case: Kennedy Free, AMA Pays

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON—The American people want fair play—they like to get both sides of controversial questions, did the television people make a mistake when the three principal networks—after giving free time to a speech by President Kennedy in which he attacked the American Medical Association's position on "medical care for the aged"—refused to let the people hear the other side unless the AMA paid for it.

One large station in Boston even declined to broadcast the AMA's reply to the President, although payment was offered through the network for the use of the station's facilities. The explanation given was that the station doesn't sell time to organizations for the discussion of controversial subjects. The President's speech from Madison Square Garden, however, not only was controversial but it attacked the AMA specifically. Hence, the right of reply was ignored by a station which is heard by a large segment of the population in the President's home state of Massachusetts.

Shouldn't all the networks have made some provision for free time so that the AMA could make its rebuttal of the President's charge that it was misinforming the public? This question goes to the heart of the issue of fair play over the country's communications systems.

For, while the government should not in any way influence the decisions of the television companies, the public will begin to believe that fear of losing their licenses motivates the broadcasters when they all join in giving a President full time without charge and refuse to give similar facilities to the organizations which he attacks.

The television stations have every right to broadcast what they please—even a one-sided presentation. There is no law which compels any branch of the press to present anything that the editor or director of a station or a publication may choose to reject. Government control or influence over broadcasting media or the newspapers is a violation of the principles of a free press under the Constitution.

So the responsibility for the presentation of the "other side" rests on the broadcasting stations or the newspapers, as the case may be. Public opinion is the only available form of protest against a refusal to give "both sides."

The AMA was lambasted by the President of the United States over three networks embracing a big percentage of their 425 stations. When the request for equal time was refused, the AMA spent from $75,000 to $100,000 to get time for its own speaker, Dr. Edward R. Annis, on one network of about 190 stations.

But even this privilege of reply would be restricted if some members of Congress had their way. One of them already threatens to introduce a bill prohibiting the AMA from using for "Congressional lobbying" the dues collected from doctors who are members of the organization. This is a move in the wrong direction. For some day a tough-minded Congress mighet decide to prohibit labor unions from using their dues in certain political campaigns and also to prevent officers of labor unions from making speeches in political campaigns or from conducting mail campaigns on public issues.

Every President of the United States has a tactical advantage over his political adversaries because the radio and television networks, as well as the printed media, give him space for almost every pronouncement he makes to the public. Yet during political campaigns there is a tendency to draw a line and require that political broadcasts be paid for. Mr. Kennedy last Saturday night made another speech—in Madison Square Garden—at a fund-raising affair—in which he announced, in effect, that the Congressional campaign of 1962 has already begun. He spoke of the coming Congressional election and appealed for the support of his audience.

The law covering broadcasts of a political nature requires that "equal time" be given to opposing candidates. But who is the opponent of a President? he isn't running for Congress this year. Yet he is in a position to help elect a party majority. The opposition gets a chance now and then to express itself, but in the past two weeks former President Eisenhower has had two news conferences—one with a group of Republicans in Gettysburg and one in Washington after a meeting with Republican leaders in Congress, at both of which he talked on current issues, including Mr. Kennedy's attacks on his Administration. Not one of the three principal networks gave him a half-hour in which to present the "other side." Only the newspaper printed this.

Do You Remember by Sophie Miller

I see there is still an interest in Civil War items according to the antique dealers who exhibited at the Temple Emanuel Antique Show and sale May 15, 16 and 17.

T. Emmett Henderson a book dealer of 170 West Main Street, Middletown, showed me "The Great Rebellion" an original and a bound copy, by J. T. Headley. He also has "The Soldier in Our Civil War" and Heston's Civil War by Abbott and many other interesting books.

Nellie Elmendorf, a local antique dealer had a fine copy of Schoonmaker's local history. Lock, Stock and Barrel Shop of Route 28, one mile west of Kingston had a Brady war photo collection, a first edition in 16 parts, and a number of others. He showed me a picture of the Commodore, an old ferry that ran near here.

I also had a chance to thank Pauline Stone Summers, antique dealer from Woodstock for the use of the Gazetteer of Ulster County of 1871-1872 which she had loaned to attorney Martin F. Comeau and who loaned it to Captain Andrew Hickey (USN retired), who in turn loaned it to me.

I used material from it in this column and it brought interesting response. Some of the readers wonder where I find my material the above may answer some of their questions. Sometimes it goes through many hands before it finds its way here.

I received an interesting note from the Rev. John V. McGuire of Mt. St. Alphonsus of Esopus. He was interested in material I used from the Gazetteer on the Robert Pell estate, part of which they now occupy. Now Father McGuire could make direct contact with Pauline Stone Summers of Woodstock for direct copy of the material from the book. I have never seen such a remarkable collection of children's books, toys and educational items of old times as she has, so many in perfect condition.

The Temple Emanuel show had some 17 exhibitors besides a private display.

It is difficult to describe them all, many having beautiful silver, china, jewelry like Rose Netburn, Sonia Rice and Marionne L. Boeckel, the last thing being from Poughkeepsie.

Donald Johnson of Woodstock had a three masted schooner. He said it was about 85 years old. Mrs. Lewis of the Junke Shoppe of Woodstock had a display of many items among which were tremendous keys. It must have been something to carry such large and heavy keys in those days

I like antique shows, because of the interesting people, many I know from previous shows, and also the items which show the type of world our folks lived in long before us.

The Town House of Woodstock had a fine oriental display. The exhibitor was not there at the time but I understand from other exhibitors that he has a vast knowledge about oriental items and is able to give information to other exhibitors.

After you visit one of these displays you wonder what you should keep and cherish and what is not worth anything when you clean house. They gave a little newspaper called "Collectors News" which in its 28 pages tells what people want to sell and what is wanted by collectors.

One item wants "anything old on Albany, N. Y. books, cards, pictures, maps etc." Another wants entire collections on Civil War. Another one wants two pieces of old carpet to upholter an old carpet rocker. He is Walter F. Geroldsek of Kingston, N. Y.

Items on the Columbian Exposition are wanted and for sale. There are no end of items besides, old coins, stamps, military insignia, etc. There are still many items on Ulster County and Kingston which I run across at these exhibits, I have never seen before. They had Picturesque Ulster, and Olde Ulster but I did not see Clarwater's history at this exhibit. Robert Matthews of 201 E. Union Street had loaned me his copy some time ago and I had returned it.

Just as on the Left, there is fear of such things as black-lists; so on the Right, there is a fear that in our concentration upon the factual imperialism of Soviet Russia and Red China, we shall lose interest in the activities of the Communists in the United States.

Often Rightists use the arguments of the Leftists to prove their point. In a word, just as in Italy, the Fascists became Communists and found themselves quite comfortable in their altered positions, so in this country many of those who for years have been shouting that Russia should be punished for her misdeeds, now say that it is not Russia or Red China that are important, but that we must concentrate on the home-grown Commies and they are angry at J. Edgar Hoover because he does not lend himself to their emphasis on the lesser evil.

For all American Communists are, in one manner or another, agents of Soviet Russia. If Russia were defeated, either politically or militarily, the American Communists would dry up on the vine for lack of sustenance.

It is Russia that must be the target and whenever I find a sufferer from the psychosis of providing inside dope, which "even J. Edgar Hoover does not have," I wonder whom he is working for?

Dietary Report Abounds in Cheer for Ulcer Patients

By HAROLD T. HYMAN, M.D.
Written for Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Some medical eyebrows may be raised and some shrieks of protest from die-hard nutritionists may be heard as a result of an ulcer report recently published by the Council on Foods and Nutrition of the American Medical Assn. The views—which correspond with my own, gained through years of experience—will free many peptic ulcer (stomach and duodenal) sufferers from unnecessary hardships of rigid diets.

The report, in summary, says:

Ulcers are not healed by diet, injections, nor by medications alone, but because the man with the ulcer comes under the care of a physician who is able to transmit to the patient some of his own confidence in the tendency of the ulcer to heal.

Rigid dietary treatment does not hasten peptic ulcer healing. Satisfactory healing of an ulcer can be obtained on a liberalized diet in which the choice of foods is more or less left to the patient provided that the chosen foods are made readily available, are attractively served and are eaten under favorable and pleasant conditions.

Dietary restrictions need not be placed on certain foods thought to be irritating unless they cause immediate distress to the particular patient.

The rate of recurrence of peptic ulcer is determined by its natural history in the particular patient. Even under virtually ideal conditions of management (as in the personnel of the Royal navy), the natural rate of recurrence is little influenced.

The intelligent patient will obviously avoid those foods he knows from experience cause him to have heartburn, pain or other digestive symptoms. He will avoid coffee and alcohol. He will thoroughly chew all foods. And he will take some simple antacid tablets or powders that experience has shown him serve to prevent or relieve distress.

Even so-called indigestibles (onions, garlic, turnips, parsnips, radishes, mustard, pickles, etc.) do not produce any more irritation to the stomach of the ulcer patient than to those whose stomachs are normal. Provided that "roughage" foods (fruit skins, lettuce, cabbage, kale, nuts, celery, etc.) are thoroughly masticated, they scarcely ever injure a peptic ulcer. Certainly, before prescribing limitations to the diets of persons with peptic ulcer, we need better evidence that ordinary foods are either stimulating or irritating to the stomach.

And, finally, "a temperate and common sense approach to the diet should provide for essential nutritional and acid-reducing features without making the diet an end unto itself or the patient a dietary cripple."

To which I add a chorus of Hallelujahs!

Washington News

BY PETER EDSON
Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — Politics is modernizing to the extent of joining the electronic computer age, anyway.

Republican National Committee headquarters here just has inaugurated a service contract with the Radio Corporation of America data processing center to handle a mailing list.

The old mailing list consisted of some 700,000 cards and stencil plates. They contained names and addresses of people who have corresponded with GOP headquarters some time or other. But many of the people whose names are on the list have moved since last heard from and some may be dead. So the lists are being revised.

As confirmed names and current addresses are determined they are being put on magnetic tape at the data processing center. There are now about 9,000 listings on the tape. It can be processed in 45 minutes. The first mailing using address labels printed from this tape has just gone out.

This is only a first step in feeding GOP political data into electronic brains. Ultimately it is expected to put donor accounting on tape. This will record every gift made to the party by every individual and how all the money is spent. Computers will then be able to provide data needed for filing reports on political contributions required by election laws.

This system probably won't be in full operation in time for use in this year's congressional elections, but it should be ready for the 1964 presidential campaign.

By that time the tape could be expanded to over 100,000 names of party donors on tapes which could be processed to provide five reports a year on all contributions.

UP TO NOW, political committees have found it practically impossible to keep accounts on contributions of less than $10. By the magnetic tape method it is claimed that even $1 gifts can be accounted for, with 81 cents actually being used for campaign expenses. The other 19 cents would go for accounting, handling, overhead.

Actually, the GOP taped mailing list is being handled electronically at a cost of 7/10 of one cent each on the first 10,000 names. The cost per name goes down as the size of the mailing list goes up.

Electronic processing of mailing lists is also being used by individual political candidates. Rep. Peter Frelinghuysen, R-N.J., and several other Congressmen have already contracted with RCA to handle their mailings.

Other computer centers like C-E-I-R, Sperry-Rand, Philco and Control Data Corp. offer similar equipment and services that can be useful to political organizations.

Democratic National Committee headquarters has an International Business Machines punch card accounting system in use and will probably stick with it for some time.

THERE ARE PRACTICALLY no limits on how far electronic political accounting can go. If a state organization or even a national party wanted to, it could keep records on every one of its registered voters.

Forty million names could be put on about 100 reels of magnetic tape. The lists can be maintained by geographic regions, which would simplify the handling of bulk mailings, as required by postal regulations. Corrections can easily be made as people move, or even as they change parties, though political leaders won't admit any voter would ever do such a thing.

If all this sounds like a lot of unnecessary trouble and expense now, it may not seem so goofy in a few years, if the election laws should be changed.

President Kennedy now has under study the report from his Commission on Campaign Costs. One of its recommendations is that a $10 tax credit or a $1,000 tax deduction be granted for political contributions. The President will ask Congress for legislation on this and other political contribution practices, possibly government campaign financing.

The only way such accounting can be handled — as Internal Revenue Service already has discovered—is by magnetic tape recordings and electronic data processing.

Airing the Medicare Case: Kennedy Free, AMA Pays

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON—The American people want fair play—they like to get both sides of controversial questions, did the television people make a mistake when the three principal networks—after giving free time to a speech by President Kennedy in which he attacked the American Medical Association's position on "medical care for the aged"—refused to let the people hear the other side unless the AMA paid for it.

One large station in Boston even declined to broadcast the AMA's reply to the President, although payment was offered through the network for the use of the station's facilities. The explanation given was that the station doesn't sell time to organizations for the discussion of controversial subjects. The President's speech from Madison Square Garden, however, not only was controversial but it attacked the AMA specifically. Hence, the right of reply was ignored by a station which is heard by a large segment of the population in the President's home state of Massachusetts.

Shouldn't all the networks have made some provision for free time so that the AMA could make its rebuttal of the President's charge that it was misinforming the public? This question goes to the heart of the issue of fair play over the country's communications systems.

For, while the government should not in any way influence the decisions of the television companies, the public will begin to believe that fear of losing their licenses motivates the broadcasters when they all join in giving a President full time without charge and refuse to give similar facilities to the organizations which he attacks.

The television stations have every right to broadcast what they please—even a one-sided presentation. There is no law which compels any branch of the press to present anything that the editor or director of a station or a publication may choose to reject. Government control or influence over broadcasting media or the newspapers is a violation of the principles of a free press under the Constitution.

So the responsibility for the presentation of the "other side" rests on the broadcasting stations or the newspapers, as the case may be. Public opinion is the only available form of protest against a refusal to give "both sides."

The AMA was lambasted by the President of the United States over three networks embracing a big percentage of their 425 stations. When the request for equal time was refused, the AMA spent from $75,000 to $100,000 to get time for its own speaker, Dr. Edward R. Annis, on one network of about 190 stations.

But even this privilege of reply would be restricted if some members of Congress had their way. One of them already threatens to introduce a bill prohibiting the AMA from using for "Congressional lobbying" the dues collected from doctors who are members of the organization. This is a move in the wrong direction. For some day a tough-minded Congress might decide to prohibit labor unions from using their dues in certain political campaigns and also to prevent officers of labor unions from making speeches in political campaigns or from conducting mail campaigns on public issues.

Every President of the United States has a tactical advantage over his political adversaries because the radio and television networks, as well as the printed media, give him space for almost every pronouncement he makes to the public. Yet during political campaigns there is a tendency to draw a line and require that political broadcasts be paid for. Mr. Kennedy last Saturday night made another speech—in Madison Square Garden—at a fund-raising affair—in which he announced, in effect, that the Congressional campaign of 1962 has already begun. He spoke of the coming Congressional election and appealed for the support of his audience.

The law covering broadcasts of a political nature requires that "equal time" be given to opposing candidates. But who is the opponent of a President? he isn't running for Congress this year. Yet he is in a position to help elect a party majority. The opposition gets a chance now and then to express itself, but in the past two weeks former President Eisenhower has had two news conferences—one with a group of Republicans in Gettysburg and one in Washington after a meeting with Republican leaders in Congress, at both of which he talked on current issues, including Mr. Kennedy's attacks on his Administration. Not one of the three principal networks gave him a half-hour in which to present the "other side." Only the newspaper printed this.

Do You Remember by Sophie Miller

I see there is still an interest in Civil War items according to the antique dealers who exhibited at the Temple Emanuel Antique Show and sale May 15, 16 and 17.

T. Emmett Henderson a book dealer of 170 West Main Street, Middletown, showed me "The Great Rebellion" an original and a bound copy, by J. T. Headley. He also has "The Soldier in Our Civil War" and Heston's Civil War by Abbott and many other interesting books.

Nellie Elmendorf, a local antique dealer had a fine copy of Schoonmaker's local history, Lock, Stock and Barrel Shop of Route 28, one mile west of Kingston had a Brady war photo collection, a first edition in 16 parts, and a number of others. He showed me a picture of the Commodore, an old ferry that ran near here.

I also had a chance to thank Pauline Stone Summers, antique dealer from Woodstock for the use of the Gazetteer of Ulster County of 1871-1872 which she had loaned to attorney Martin F. Comeau and who loaned it to Captain Andrew Hickey (USN retired), who in turn loaned it to me.

I used material from it in this column and it brought interesting response. Some of the readers wonder where I find my material the above may answer some of their questions. Sometimes it goes through many hands before it finds its way here.

I received an interesting note from the Rev. John V. McGuire of Mt. St. Alphonsus of Esopus. He was interested in material I used from the Gazetteer on the Robert Pell estate, part of which they now occupy. Now Father McGuire could make direct contact with Pauline Stone Summers of Woodstock for direct copy of the material from the book. I have never seen such a remarkable collection of children's books, toys and educational items of old times as she has, so many in perfect condition.

The Temple Emanuel show had some 17 exhibitors besides a private display.

It is difficult to describe them all, many having beautiful silver, china, jewelry like Rose Netburn, Sonia Rice and Marionne L. Boeckel, the last thing being from Poughkeepsie.

Donald Johnson of Woodstock had a three masted schooner. He said it was about 85 years old. Mrs. Lewis of the Junke Shoppe of Woodstock had a display of many items among which were tremendous keys. It must have been something to carry such large and heavy keys in those days

I like antique shows, because of the interesting people, many I know from previous shows, and also the items which show the type of world our folks lived in long before us.

The Town House of Woodstock had a fine oriental display. The exhibitor was not there at the time but I understand from other exhibitors that he has a vast knowledge about oriental items and is able to give information to other exhibitors.

After you visit one of these displays you wonder what you should keep and cherish and what is not worth anything when you clean house. They gave a little newspaper called "Collectors News" which in its 28 pages tells what people want to sell and what is wanted by collectors.

One item wants "anything old on Albany, N. Y. books, cards, pictures, maps etc." Another wants entire collections on Civil War. Another one wants two pieces of old carpet to upholter an old carpet rocker. He is Walter F. Geroldsek of Kingston, N. Y.

Items on the Columbian Exposition are wanted and for sale. There are no end of items besides, old coins, stamps, military insignia, etc. There are still many items on Ulster County and Kingston which I run across at these exhibits, I have never seen before. They had Picturesque Ulster, and Olde Ulster but I did not see Clarwater's history at this exhibit. Robert Matthews of 201 E. Union Street had loaned me his copy some time ago and I had returned it.

Fine Acquitted Of Tax Charges, Facing Another

LEWISBURG, Pa. (AP) — John S. Fine, Republican governor of Pennsylvania from 1951 to 1955 and a prominent figure in the 1952 GOP presidential convention, was acquitted by a jury Wednesday night of charges of evading $38,446 in personal income taxes for the years 1955-56-57.

The U.S. District Court jury of nine men and three women also returned an innocent verdict for co-defendant Donald P. Morgan, 50, of Malvern, brother of Fine's deceased first wife, who had been charged with preparing the allegedly false returns. Fine dabbed at tears behind sun glasses when the verdict was returned, ending a 10-day trial.

The 69-year-old Fine, however, still faces charges in connection with the alleged evasion of more than $20,000 in 1957 corporate taxes of the Newport Excavating Co., a Nanticoke, Pa., coal firm in which he held a one-third interest. He was also its general counsel.

matter of Fact

In the middle of winter Easterners can eat fresh, California fruit. This, of course, would not be possible without refrigerated boxcars. The earliest known use of refrigeration by the railroads was in July, 1851. In that year several tons of butter were shipped from Ogdensburg, N.Y., to Boston in a wooden boxcar insulated with sawdust and stocked with ice.

Brown, Carey, Jacob Guests

Legion to Honor Three Life Members June 9

Kingston Post, 150, American Legion will honor three of the Post's long and faithful members with a silver gift life membership awards Saturday, June 9, during a dinner at the Legion Building, West O'Reilly Street.

Honored guests will be the Rev. Clarance E. Brown, chaplain of the Legion; former Mayor Eugene B. Carey and Roy E. Jacob, Commander George Heppner reports. The June 9 dinner program will start at 7 o'clock with Dick Matthews again serving as chef.

Active Since 1920

Chaplain Brown has been an active Legionnaire since joining the Legion at Clifton Springs in 1920. He enlisted in Dec., 1917; in January, 1918, he was commissioned as a first lieutenant in the Coast Artillery Corp and in August, 1918, he transferred as chaplain of the 62nd Ammunition Train and was honorably discharged on Feb. 5, 1919.

His first experience as an officer of the Legion was as commander of the Clark F. Simmons Post in Cooperstown in 1922. He later moved to Catskill where during the years 1929 and 1930, he was Greene County Commander and was honored with the highest percentage of membership to that time.

During 1930-1931 he was vice-commander of the Third District, which comprises Albany, Columbia, Rensselaer, Greene, Ulster, Schoharie and Sullivan Counties. He was chaplain of Post 110 at Catskill, from 1928 to 1932. In 1932 he moved to Kingston, where he joined the local Post and in 1933 was selected chaplain and has faithfully served in this capacity for 26 years. The years of 1939, 1940 and 1943 were the only ones he did not serve and in 1943 he was honored by being chosen commander. This was the 25th Jubilee year of Post 150.

In 1953 and 1954 he served as Ulster County Commander and has been county chaplain from 1940 to the present date, missing only one year — 1954.

Served as District Chaplain

During 1954, '55, '61 and '62, he also served the Third District as its Chaplain. When the Legion Post Drum Corps was at the heighth of its popularity, he found time to be an active member of this famous playing outfit.

After 43 years of active Legion service, the committee feels proud to honor such a member.

Chaplain Brown graduated from high school in 1910 and attended the University of Rochester and in 1914 the Colgate-Rochester Divinity School. He served as pastor of several Baptist Churches. He was called to the local Wurts Street Baptist Church, where he served for a number of years. He was active in other fraternal organizations, being a past master of a Masonic Lodge, past president of Cooperstown Rotary Club, past secretary of both the Catskill and Kingston Rotary Clubs and was selected as an honorary member of the Roxbury Rotary Club.

The Rev. Mr. Brown, with his wife Adelaide E., now resides at 106A Fairmont Avenue. They have a daughter Helen, who is a lieutenant colonel in the Army Nurse Corps, having been associated with the Walter Reed Hospital for a number of years and reecntly transferred to the hospital in Okinawa. Another daughter, Marsha, is a writer with studios in New York City and is now in Italy. A third daughter, Mrs. Maly, is a teacher in Averill Park High School.

Play Highlights Ladies' Night of 1st Baptist Men

A two-act play, The Red Lamp, highlighted the annual Ladies' Night program of the Men's Club of First Baptist Church Wednesday night in the church parlors.

The play, written by Hilliard Booth, was produced through special arrangement with Samuel French, Inc.

Members of the cast included Miss Lucille Clark, Mrs. William More, Mrs. George W. Chase, William H. Williams, Edward Safford and Charles R. Walters.

Mrs. James Dotson was director.

Preceding the play, a roast beef dinner was served to 102 members and their guests.

Abram D. Winchell, president of the club, welcomed the guests.

James L. Decker led the group singing with Mrs. Arthur T. Pedersen assisting at the piano.

Other club members assisting with the arrangements were Arthur T. Pedersen and Billy Smallwood.

Theobald to Quit As School Chief

NEW YORK (AP)—Dr. John J. Theobald is stepping out as superintendent of the world's largest school system and joining a company that makes teaching machines.

Theobald will become vice president of U.S. Industries, in charge of educationl activities in this country and abroad. The company prepares programmed instructional materials and produces and sells self-teaching textbooks.

Theobald, 57, is a former deputy mayor of New York City and a veteran of 31 years in the field of education. He will end his duties as school superintendent Sept. 1, after four years to the day in the $37,500-a-year post.

Clerics End Retreat

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—A group of Protestant, Eastern Orthodox and Anglican clergymen from this area completed Wednesday night a two-day retreat and "dialogue" at a retreat house run by Roman Catholic Jesuits.

The retreat consisted of meditations conducted by a Jesuit, at the conclusion of which a Protestant minister led prayers and seminars at which the clergymen exchanged theological views.

"Nobody was trying to convert anyone," said the Rev. Phillip B. Carroll, director of the retreat house. "It was a time when men of good will came together as Christians in an effort to understand each other better and to evaluate those things which keep us apart."

Musical Closing

NEW YORK (AP) — The musical "My Fair Lady" ends its record-breaking Broadway run July 7.

The definite closing date was set Wednesday by producer Herman Levin. Since opening March 15, 1956, the show will have played 2,621 performances, been seen by 3½-million people and grossed almost $20 million.

Chiropractor Called Student of Bank Jobs

PRATTVILLE, Ala. (AP) — Investigators are uncovering some intriguing items while delving into the background of a chiropractor who went on a bloody spree after trying to rob a bank.

Searching the little apartment of Eugene Simpson Gault, 43, of Prattville, they found indications that he was a student of bank robberies and perhaps a participant in one before the one he muffed at Ozark, Ala., Tuesday, officers reported.

Alabama's public safety director Floyd Mann and FBI agents found a sheet of notebook paper with 13 numbered steps as a guide for bank robbery.

They also found a newspaper containing a story of the yet-unsolved Dec. 30, 1960 robbery of $29,200 from a bank at Auburn.

Drawings outlining a route from Prattville to Auburn were discovered, along with financial records showing that Gault put a thousand dollars each in two banks five days after the Auburn robbery.

Gault tried to rob the Commercial Bank at Ozark Tuesday. He wound up killing the vice president, a teller and a Troy policeman and wounding two other persons before a highway patrolman shot him to death in a cemetery outside Troy.

On Gault's bookshelves were such volumes as "How I Made $2 Million on the Stock Market" and "Pocket Guide to Daily Money Handling."

Gault had practiced at Theodore, Ala., then Glens Falls, N.Y., Tuskegee, Ala., and Prattville.

At Glens Falls, Mrs. Phyllis Gault said she was not positive whether the dead gunman was her husband. They were not legally separated, she said.

Population of Seattle, Wash., increased 194 per cent in the decade between 1900 and 1910.

Part of Bond Issue Comes Up for Vote on June 21st

The Saugerties Board of Education will resubmit a part of the recently defeated school bond issue to district voters Thursday, June 21.

At a special meeting Wednesday night, the board voted unanimously to resubmit proposition number one which was defeated by only 45 votes at the May 9 balloting. It called for a 14-room elementary school on the Katsbaan site and a 10-room independent addition to the junior-senior high school.

Proposition number two was dropped in view of the large negative vote of 240 on May 9. It called for the purchase of a 10-acre site in Barclay Heights for a future elementary school.

The decision followed a two-hour open discussion with members of the Citizens Advisory Group, a representative of the Saugerties Taxpayers Association and all eight members of the board in attendance.

Miss Grace Anderson and Norman Nitschke, co-chairmen of the Citizens Advisory Group, conducted the session and reiterated the need for immediate action to relieve the classroom shortage in the district. They cited the adverse effects of the delay on children who are now and will be on half-time session. The cost of the delay to the taxpayer was stressed also.

A petition circulated by the Citizens Advisory Group during the past two weeks was presented to the board at the meeting. It was signed by 1280 people in the district who requested that the bond issue be brought to a vote within the 25-day period required by law. The total yes vote on proposition number one on May 9 was 1175.

HELP READY CAMP—Saugerties Jaycees setting up tents at Camp Wendy are Don Fitterer, Roger Blanchard, John Marks, Victor Fox, James Pepperl, Patrick Cummins of the site maintenance committee, Harry Olson, Robert Marsh and Wayne Kluck. The tents are used for six weeks of established camp during the summer and by troop campers in the spring and fall.

Memorial Day Parade Route, Program Listed

The program for Memorial Day observances conducted by Lamouree-Hackett Post 72, American Legion at the Main Street School grounds was announced today.

John A. Burns will be master of ceremonies. Commander Roy S. Helsmoortel of the American Legion Post and Gilbert Ricks of the Veterans of Foreign Wars will participate in the flag raising ceremony.

Pledge to the flag will be led by Brian Legg. The Rev. Frederick Imhoff, pastor of the First Congregational Church will give the invocation and the Rev. Daniel Daley, pastor of St. John's Church, Veteran will give the benediction.

Saugerties High School Band, directed by Winthrop G. Emmons with Donald S. Fellows as vocal leader, will present the National Anthem. Thomas Vaclavick, chaplain of Lamouree-Hackett Post will give the Legion prayer and Peter Williams the tribute to departed comrades.

Guest speaker, Col. Edward M. Flanagan Jr., will be introduced by Burns.

Volley will be by the Legion rifle squad led by Arthur F. Simmons. Taps will follow.

Parade formation, starts at 10 a. m. from Legion Home, as follows:

Second Division — Saugerties High School Band; Veterans of Foreign Wars Color Guard; VFW Commander Gilbert Ricks; VFW Firing Squad; VFW members; VFW Auxiliary; Girl Scouts; Camp Fire Girls; Brownies; all school units; fire apparatus.

Parade route will be:

Ladies Auxiliary of the American Legion will hold its annual memorial services at the Civil War Monument in the rear of the Legion Home, Partition Street, at 9:45 a. m. Public is invited.

In case of inclement weather the services will be held in the Main Street School auditorium.

School Board Votes Budget Of $1,938,821

A budget of $1,938,821.79 was approved by the Saugerties Board of Education at its special meeting Wednesday night.

It is an increase over the current budget of $141,773.76. The board estimates that there may be a reduction in the present tax rate of approximately $1.42 per thousand of assessed valuation. The present rate is $74.72. The rate on the true value is $12.70.

Rosary Society Elects Officers

Mrs. Thomas Wolfe was elected president of the Altar and Rosary Society of St. John the Evangelist's Church, Veteran at the Tuesday night meeting held in the church hall. Other new officers for the coming year who will be installed with Mrs. Wolfe at the next meeting on June 19 are Mrs. Adrian Lemon, vice president; Mrs. Vivian Blasco, secretary and Mrs. John Blake, treasurer. The slate of officers was presented to the membership by the nominating committee consisting of Mrs. Peggy Tracey, chairman, and the Mmes. Ann Blanchard, Richard Balser and George R. Topple.

The annual communion breakfast of the society has been set for Sunday, May 27, in the church hall following the 8:30 a. m. Mass at the church in Veteran. The breakfast will be prepared and served by the members of the Holy Name Society of the church. Mrs. Mary Ceysens, director of the Ulster County Catholic Charities will be the guest speaker. Tickets will be available at the door.

Three new members were welcomed at the Tuesday night meeting, Mrs. Ann Burgher, Mrs. Janet Melba and Mrs. Donald Munro.

The society has scheduled a cake sale for Sunday, June 3, after all Masses at the Quarryville and Veteran churches. Donations of cake or cash may be given to Mrs. Topple, chairman for Quarryville, or Mrs. Rose Santora, chairman for Veteran.

Movies were shown to the members by the Rev. Daniel Daley, moderator, following the business meeting. The gift of the evening was awarded to Mrs. Gerry Ruddy.

Refreshments were served by the Mmes. Val Brennan, Robert Bretcher, Marge Bishop and Marion Benz.

Cana Conference Slated on Sunday

Child raising problems will be discussed at the Cana Conference for married couples Sunday 2:30 p. m. in St. Mary's Cafeteria.

Brother Daniel Kirk, Professor of Psychology at Marist College and the Rev. Bernard Gerrity of St. Catherine Laboure Church, Lake Katrine, will conduct workshops and question and answer sessions on the various aspects of child development.

Although the conference is sponsored by St. Mary's parish, anyone in Ulster County may attend the sessions. The conference is not limited to parishioners. In order to make proper arrangements for baby sitting, the committee requests that couples register in advance by sending a post card with their name and the number of children and their ages to Cana Conference, Box 27, Saugerties.

The conference is one of the continuing series promoted through local parishes by the Family Life Bureau of the Archdiocese of New York. Local arrangements are in charge of Rt. Rev. Msgr. Edward M. Plover, pastor and a lay committee including Mr. and Mrs. William Garzione, Mr. and Mrs. John Nau, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Conte, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur De Celle and Mrs. Richard Thornton.

Goes for Study

Ralph Gabler, who is a member of Saugerties High School science teaching staff and who will have charge of the instructing of the Regional Program Class in Science for Elementary Teachers beginning next fall, has completed a series of Mid-Hudson School Study Council secondary science workshops at the State University College in New Paltz. Mr. Gabler will take additional study at Cornell University this summer in preparation for teaching next fall.

Part of Bond Issue Comes Up for Vote on June 21st

The Saugerties Board of Education will resubmit a part of the recently defeated school bond issue to district voters Thursday, June 21.

At a special meeting Wednesday night, the board voted unanimously to resubmit proposition number one which was defeated by only 45 votes at the May 9 balloting. It called for a 14-room elementary school on the Katsbaan site and a 10-room independent addition to the junior-senior high school.

Proposition number two was dropped in view of the large negative vote of 240 on May 9. It called for the purchase of a 10-acre site in Barclay Heights for a future elementary school.

The decision followed a two-hour open discussion with members of the Citizens Advisory Group, a representative of the Saugerties Taxpayers Association and all eight members of the board in attendance.

Miss Grace Anderson and Norman Nitschke, co-chairmen of the Citizens Advisory Group, conducted the session and reiterated the need for immediate action to relieve the classroom shortage in the district. They cited the adverse effects of the delay on children who are now and will be on half-time session. The cost of the delay to the taxpayer was stressed also.

A petition circulated by the Citizens Advisory Group during the past two weeks was presented to the board at the meeting. It was signed by 1280 people in the district who requested that the bond issue be brought to a vote within the 25-day period required by law. The total yes vote on proposition number one on May 9 was 1175.

HELP READY CAMP—Saugerties Jaycees setting up tents at Camp Wendy are Don Fitterer, Roger Blanchard, John Marks, Victor Fox, James Pepperl, Patrick Cummins of the site maintenance committee, Harry Olson, Robert Marsh and Wayne Kluck. The tents are used for six weeks of established camp during the summer and by troop campers in the spring and fall.

Memorial Day Parade Route, Program Listed

The program for Memorial Day observances conducted by Lamouree-Hackett Post 72, American Legion at the Main Street School grounds was announced today.

John A. Burns will be master of ceremonies. Commander Roy S. Helsmoortel of the American Legion Post and Gilbert Ricks of the Veterans of Foreign Wars will participate in the flag raising ceremony.

Pledge to the flag will be led by Brian Legg. The Rev. Frederick Imhoff, pastor of the First Congregational Church will give the invocation and the Rev. Daniel Daley, pastor of St. John's Church, Veteran will give the benediction.

Saugerties High School Band, directed by Winthrop G. Emmons with Donald S. Fellows as vocal leader, will present the National Anthem. Thomas Vaclavick, chaplain of Lamouree-Hackett Post will give the Legion prayer and Peter Williams the tribute to departed comrades.

Guest speaker, Col. Edward M. Flanagan Jr., will be introduced by Burns.

Volley will be by the Legion rifle squad led by Arthur F. Simmons. Taps will follow.

Parade formation, starts at 10 a. m. from Legion Home, as follows:

Second Division — Saugerties High School Band; Veterans of Foreign Wars Color Guard; VFW Commander Gilbert Ricks; VFW Firing Squad; VFW members; VFW Auxiliary; Girl Scouts; Camp Fire Girls; Brownies; all school units; fire apparatus.

Parade route will be:

Ladies Auxiliary of the American Legion will hold its annual memorial services at the Civil War Monument in the rear of the Legion Home, Partition Street, at 9:45 a. m. Public is invited.

In case of inclement weather the services will be held in the Main Street School auditorium.

School Board Votes Budget Of $1,938,821

A budget of $1,938,821.79 was approved by the Saugerties Board of Education at its special meeting Wednesday night.

It is an increase over the current budget of $141,773.76. The board estimates that there may be a reduction in the present tax rate of approximately $1.42 per thousand of assessed valuation. The present rate is $74.72. The rate on the true value is $12.70.

Rosary Society Elects Officers

Mrs. Thomas Wolfe was elected president of the Altar and Rosary Society of St. John the Evangelist's Church, Veteran at the Tuesday night meeting held in the church hall. Other new officers for the coming year who will be installed with Mrs. Wolfe at the next meeting on June 19 are Mrs. Adrian Lemon, vice president; Mrs. Vivian Blasco, secretary and Mrs. John Blake, treasurer. The slate of officers was presented to the membership by the nominating committee consisting of Mrs. Peggy Tracey, chairman, and the Mmes. Ann Blanchard, Richard Balser and George R. Topple.

The annual communion breakfast of the society has been set for Sunday, May 27, in the church hall following the 8:30 a. m. Mass at the church in Veteran. The breakfast will be prepared and served by the members of the Holy Name Society of the church. Mrs. Mary Ceysens, director of the Ulster County Catholic Charities will be the guest speaker. Tickets will be available at the door.

Three new members were welcomed at the Tuesday night meeting, Mrs. Ann Burgher, Mrs. Janet Melba and Mrs. Donald Munro.

The society has scheduled a cake sale for Sunday, June 3, after all Masses at the Quarryville and Veteran churches. Donations of cake or cash may be given to Mrs. Topple, chairman for Quarryville, or Mrs. Rose Santora, chairman for Veteran.

Movies were shown to the members by the Rev. Daniel Daley, moderator, following the business meeting. The gift of the evening was awarded to Mrs. Gerry Ruddy.

Refreshments were served by the Mmes. Val Brennan, Robert Bretcher, Marge Bishop and Marion Benz.

Cana Conference Slated on Sunday

Child raising problems will be discussed at the Cana Conference for married couples Sunday 2:30 p. m. in St. Mary's Cafeteria.

Brother Daniel Kirk, Professor of Psychology at Marist College and the Rev. Bernard Gerrity of St. Catherine Laboure Church, Lake Katrine, will conduct workshops and question and answer sessions on the various aspects of child development.

Although the conference is sponsored by St. Mary's parish, anyone in Ulster County may attend the sessions. The conference is not limited to parishioners. In order to make proper arrangements for baby sitting, the committee requests that couples register in advance by sending a post card with their name and the number of children and their ages to Cana Conference, Box 27, Saugerties.

The conference is one of the continuing series promoted through local parishes by the Family Life Bureau of the Archdiocese of New York. Local arrangements are in charge of Rt. Rev. Msgr. Edward M. Plover, pastor and a lay committee including Mr. and Mrs. William Garzione, Mr. and Mrs. John Nau, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Conte, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur De Celle and Mrs. Richard Thornton.

Goes for Study

Ralph Gabler, who is a member of Saugerties High School science teaching staff and who will have charge of the instructing of the Regional Program Class in Science for Elementary Teachers beginning next fall, has completed a series of Mid-Hudson School Study Council secondary science workshops at the State University College in New Paltz. Mr. Gabler will take additional study at Cornell University this summer in preparation for teaching next fall.

APME Is Called Great Strength Of Journalism

WALLINGFORD, Conn. (AP)—The Associated Press Managing Editors Association (APME) "is one of the great strengths of journalism," Managing Editor Gilbert Smith of The Utica (N.Y.) Observer-Dispatch said Wednesday night.

Smith, an APME director, said the organization had helped make "better newspapermen and better newspapers" through its work with the Associated Press, the newsgathering cooperative.

Smith made the comments at a meeting of the Connecticut circuit of The Associated Press, comprising Connecticut newspapers that are AP members.

To Raise Phone Rates

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—The Public Service Commission authorized the Crown Point Telephone Corp. today to raise its annual rates a total of $1,191 on May 31.

The company, which serves 490 stations in and near Crown Point, Essex County, said that increased property assessments had added more than $2,500 to its annual operating expense and that other costs also had risen.

Old Timer's Civil War Notes

By C. A. WINCHELL, Shokan, N. Y.

News of the great James River explosion, August 9, 1864, came as a severe shock to the people of Ulster County, many of whom had relatives and friends in the Twentieth N. Y. State Infantry which at the time of the mishap was doing provost guard duty in the area. Our Col. Theodore Gates of the 20th, or Ulster Guard, in a news dispatch to a local paper had this to say of the disaster: A vessel loaded with ordinance stores blew up and broad-cast great destruction. Buildings were shattered and exploding shells, small arms ammunition, solid shot, and even huge timbers filled the air on every side. Our entire force has been working in the ruins to remove the dead and wounded. The latter are in the post hospital where they are attended by our surgeon, Dr. Robert Loughran of Kingston. Colonel Gates in conclusion writes, "I will not attempt to describe the horrible condition in which many of the bodies were found. Suffice it to say that identification in many cases is utterly impossible. I have no heart to add more."

Bad News for Home Folks

Many an Ulster County home had been saddened by the loss of kin or friend during the first three years of warfare but apparently the end was not yet. Thousands of our boys were still in the service and a large percentage of these had been through some of the bloodiest battles of the war. The fighting was severe in the push towards Richmond, and the casualty lists remained correspondingly heavy. Now comes this terrible explosion to augment the widespread bereavement back home. Below is the first casualty report on the mishap as it pertains to the Ulster Guard: David Crosby, head cuts and bruises; Joseph Diamond and Lewis Drouther, leg contusions; George Neher and Thomas Wills, head injuries; John Eddleman and John Foster, killed; John Blackwell, Thomas Wills, Addison C. Chase and Abram W. Coin, arm and leg injuries.

Other explosion casualties included: Watson A. Smith, Jacob Vandemark, William J. Wescott, Lewis Snyder, James Bonesteel, Conrad Fiero, George W. Lyke and Henry White, all variously injured. Sylvester Furman, Ephraim Dewitt and William S. VanKeuren were among those killed.

Advertisement, Kingston paper: Remember the 5th — of September, (1864) that is — the date when 1700 more men must come from Ulster County when the new draft takes place. The price of substitutes has advanced nearly $50 a day for the past week. — Query: What will be the price when the 1700 men must be supplied with in 8 days? Substitutes furnished and no money asked until your papers are ready. So, keep on waiting at 50 dollars — if it pays. — R. E. Best.

Aug. 4, 1864: A Board of Supervisors committee appointed to report some feasible plan to fill the county's quota of the one-half million men asked for in President Lincoln's late proclamation, is composed of the following: Floyd S. McKinstry, Nathan W. Watson, Thaddeus Hait, Abram A. Deyo Jr., George Chambers and Jacob Hermance. A committee reported on the laying of taxes for bonds to mature in 1871, for payment of $300 for each and every volunteer mustered into the Service of the United States under the President's last call for men.

War Notes

Aug. 4, '64. Casualties in 5th New York Cavalry: Abram Turck is supposed to have been taken prisoner while moving the wounded at Staunton, Va. . . . William Fox died in the hospital at Cumberland; Henry Sampson and John W. Lane were captured at Ft. Royal and Lynchburg, Va., respectively.

Editor's note: The above information was furnished by H. Willet Linderman of the 5th Cavalry. We are glad to learn that Willet is well and in good spirits. — C. A. W.

matter of Fact

Maybe bloodhounds developed those sad, long faces from looking at civilization for 17 long centuries. The bloodhound is one of the oldest scent-hunting hounds, having been known in Italy as early as the third century. The breed name is derived from the fact that it was one of the first "blooded" or purebred breeds.

Yank Troops Get Live Ammo for Thailand Duty

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP)—Live ammunition is being issued today to the 1st Battle Group, U.S. 27th Infantry, and units coming from Hawaii "are bringing ammunition with them," Lt. Gen. James I. Richardson Jr. announced.

The commander of American forces detailed to help guard Thailand against any Communist incursions from Laos sought to clarify Washington reports concerning the battle group's readiness for combat.

Richardson said the group has been prepared since arriving six weeks ago for maneuvers of the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization "to carry out any mission assigned, combat or otherwise."

The infantrymen stayed on to become part of the U.S. military buildup, which includes air units and a battalion of Marines.

"When it was decided that the 1st Battle Group would remain in Thailand," Richardson said, "orders were issued to be prepared to issue ammunition from that available in Thailand, if and when required. At the same time ammunition was ordered forwarded from Okinawa."

JFK Is Emphatic

that omitted Social Security financing?

No, he replied, Social Security is the heart of the bill.

The 25-minute conference, shortest in his experience as President, covered these other points:

Chinese refugees—he announced the United States would admit several thousand refugees from hungry Communist China. The Justice Department said Wednesday night the flow would begin from Hong Kong in about two weeks.

Estes—In view of the possibility a federal official investigating Billie Sol Estes was murdered, Kennedy was asked if Secretary of Agriculture Orville Freeman could justify saying the affair had been ballooned out of proportion. Let's not judge the case, Kennedy said, until the FBI and Texas authorities have completed their inquiry. Kennedy said grain is being shifted from Estes' storage bins into normal channels of trade in a way that will not cost the taxpayers—and with more than usual speed "because of all the circumstances."

Southeast Asia—Remarking that "when you put troops in, they become difficult to take out unless the situation is stable," Kennedy said U.S. troops will remain in Thailand until events justify their withdrawal. An Army group in Thailand doesn't carry ammunition—but the ammunition is there and can be supplied at once if needed, he said.

Eisenhower — He and former President Dwight D. Eisenhower are appearing together on a program this week to advocate effective trade legislation, Kennedy said, but as to debating domestic issues with Eisenhower on television during next fall's congressional campaigns: "We will have to wait and see what the situation is."

Economy—In the long haul, he said, the stock market will keep in line with the economy, "and I think the prospects for the economy for this year are good."

the three bandits and that a nationwide search was under way.

Later that day, the alleged triggerman accused of staging the $4,000 holdup of a tobacco company with Rosenberg, was caught in a motel in a Chicago suburb. The next day, the man accused of driving a car which was to have been used in a getaway surrendered in Norwich, Conn.

Desperate on 5th Day

The Daily News said Rosenberg, "desperate on the fifth day after the murders," contacted his father, Louis, 56.

When the father turned to the News for advice, he was told: "Have him turn himself in. It's the only way."

The News informed police that the contact had been made, and that Rosenberg wanted to talk with representatives of the paper and state his case before facing police.

Such a discussion was authorized by police, the News said, and it quoted father and son as claiming young Rosenberg was innocent.

The other two men accused of the slayings have claimed innocence.

The pair, arraigned on homicide charges and held without bail Wednesday are Anthony (Baldy) Portelli, 26, accused of firing the shots that killed the two detectives, and Anthony Dellernia, 34, identified by police as the driver of the getaway car who panicked and left the robbers in the lurch when he heard gunfire in the tobacco company plant.

Slain detective John P. Finnegan, 29, was buried Wednesday after a funeral Mass at a Roman Catholic Church in Brooklyn. There was a turnout of about 1,500 off-duty detectives, along with a 90-man police honor guard and 125 uniformed men—a tribute similar to that given the day before to Finnegan's partner, Luke J. Fallon, 56.

Bolts Likely

usually high for this time of the year.

The total rainfall during the two storms was 1.43 inches.

The business building housed the Sterling Bag and Burlap Corp., and the Niagara Trading — Belting Co., both industrial packaging companies. Ralph Olsham, president of Niagara Trading and owner of the building, called it a complete loss.

The estimate was not available.

Non-Property Tax

on school costs by dramatizing to taxpayers the steadily mounting expenses.

Rockefeller commented in the first day of a three-day "saturation" tour he is making to Albany, Schenectady, Rensselaer and Saratoga counties.

The tour, seventh in a series to various parts of the state, was designed officially to review local problems but, unofficially, included a large measure of political activity for Rockefeller, a candidate for re-election this year.

His schedule today opened with a meeting with area medical leaders, included inspection of various government projects in the Albany area, visits to industrial plants and a forum tonight in a suburban high school at which he will answer questions from the public.

Also on today's schedule was a luncheon for a group of Japanese governors visiting this country.

In his meeting with educators at Union College in Schenectady Wednesday, the governor did not specify any particular type of non - property taxes, although sales taxes are the most frequently mentioned in such discussions.

It would be up to the legislature to authorize school districts to band together to levy sales or other non-property taxes. The lawmakers have been cold to such proposals in the past.

But, the governor said, a system of such taxes to help support schools and ease growing levies on owners of real estate "has got to come sometime."

Approximately $1.8 billion a year now is spent on public elementary and high schools in the state. Of this, the state pays about 45 per cent and local property owners pay the balance.

In other activities Wednesday, Rockefeller:

— Smiled and waved his way down an assembly line at a General Electric Co. plant in Schenectady, shaking hands with workers and ignoring the "Stratton For Governor" buttons many of them wore. U.S. Rep. Samuel S. Stratton of Schenectady is a candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor this year.

— Helped lay the cornerstone for a housing project for the aged in Schenectady and restated his position that "every senior citizen of this country should have health protection and decent housing."

—Renewed his support at the housing project and again at a Senior Citizens Ball in Albany for a federal plan of medical care for the aged financed through Social Security, provided the plan gave persons covered an option of taking cash to pay for private insurance coverage.

—Waltzed at the Senior Citizens Ball with the Queen to "Let Me Call You Sweetheart."

—Told 550 persons at a dinner sponsored by the Schenectady County Women's Republican Club that he and other Republicans would win this Year's election by "the greatest margins in the history of the state."

Concert Band of Local 215, American Federation of Musicians; introductions, Earl Thomas of Station WKNY; opening prayer, the Rev. Robert T. Shellenberger, rector of St. John's Episcopal Church; remarks by Col. Chandler; address by Mayor John J. Schwenk; presentation of wreaths by Chairman Lane; benediction by the Rev. John T. Murray, assistant pastor of St. Peter's Church; firing squad, Ulster Detachment, Marine Corps League, and taps by Joseph McDermott of Kingston High School Band.

In the event of rain, the parade will be cancelled and not scheduled for any future date. All units will report to their assigned assembly areas at 1:30 p. m.

Order of march is as follows:

List Participants

Lead group—Kingston Police Department; State Police escort; Grand Marshal Col. Chandler; Kingston Veteran Association Chairman Lane; Mayor Schwenk; Police Chief Robert Murphy; color guard of honor, Ulster Detachment Marine Corps League; Kingston Concert Band; Parade Chairman Watts and Co-chairman Heaney; delegates, Kingston Veterans Association; City of Kingston officials; Ulster County officials.

First Division — Criterions Drum Corps; 854th Engineering Battalion (Heavy Construction), U.S. Army Reserve; U.S. Naval Reserve Surface Division 3-87.

Second Division — Saugerties Drum Corps; 1st Howitzer Battalion, 156th Artillery, N. Y. Army National Guard.

Fourth Division — American Legion Post 524 Drum and Bugle Corps; Kingston Post 150, American Legion; Tivoli Post 524; New Paltz Post 176, Town of Ulster Post 1748; Kingston Post 150 Ladies Auxiliary; Legion Poppy Girl.

Fifth Division — Continental Cadets Drum Corps; St. Ignatius Loyola Post 1769, Catholic War Veterans; Ulster Barracks 864, Veterans of World War I; Kingston Assembly 275, Fourth Degree, Knights of Columbus.

KHS Band Leads Division

Sixth Division—Kingston High School Band; A. H. Wicks Engine and Truck Company; Ulster Hose Company No. 5, and Kingston High School May Queen.

Seventh Division—Boy Scout Troop 12 Drum and Bugle Corps; Rip Van Winkle Council, Boy Scouts of America; Kingston District-Ulster County Council, Girl Scouts.

Eighth Division—Pacers Drum and Bugle Corps, Second section, Rip Van Winkle Council, Boy Scouts and Kingston District-Ulster County Girl Scouts.

Capsule Down Somewhere in Ocean

burn up on re-entry into the atmosphere after the third orbit.

Performing as if he were right at home in the strange world of weightlessness, Carpenter told astronaut Virgil I. (Gus) Grissom at Cape Canaveral that everything was fine and he was in excellent condition as he sailed overhead at the end of two orbits.

Carpenter had ended his first orbit at 9:19 a.m., flashing over Cape Canaveral 99 miles high.

Halfway through the third orbit, the Indian Ocean tracking ship reported that Carpenter was still in good condition, that all capsule systems were functioning normally and the fuel supply was satisfactory.

Release of the balloon was one of many experiments Carpenter carried out in his high-flying space laboratory to expand on man's knowledge of ability to perform in the weightlessness of space.

Just Drifted at Times

At times, he assumed manual control of the capsule, moving it on its yaw and pitch axis and at times just letting it drift in space without any control. The idea was to determine how far it would wander off path and to see how this would affect radio signals sent from the capsule.

He also made periodic observations of a colored liquid in a transparent plastic tank. The unit was installed to the right and behind the astronaut's head and he looked at it through a hand-held mirror. A camera mounted in the craft photographed it continually. The study may reveal much about how liquids perform in space weightlessness and may help design fuel tanks for spaceships of the future.

Dines Over Pacific

During the second orbit over the Pacific Ocean Carpenter ate a space meal from a tube containing a mush-like combination of beef and vegetables.

From time to time, he exercised by tugging on an elastic cord. After each exercise, Carpenter took his blood pressure—which gave ground trackers a vital insight into his condition.

As Aurora 7 streaked around the globe, Carpenter glanced down at the earth and had a breathtaking panoramic view streatching 1,800 miles from horizon to horizon. He reported very good views of Baja California as he neared the end of his first orbit and of the West African coast as he took off on his second circuit.

From the moment of blastoff here the astronaut reported he was feeling fine.

The hydrogen peroxide is squirted out from small holes around the surface of the capsule. If the capsule shifts off its planned attitude for some reason, jets fire to push it back on the proper attitude (its angle of relation to the horizon).

The astronaut can control the roll, pitch and yaw of his capsule by using his manual control stick to trigger these jet streams.

Means Steadier Course

As he entered the second orbit, Carpenter was told to assume more manual control of Aurora 7 to conserve the fuel, which is used up more rapidly when the automatic system is operating. By taking manual control, Carpenter could hold a steadier course and thus eliminate some need for firing the fuel jets.

But this would limit the time he had available to perform some of his assigned tasks, just as it did on John H. Glenn Jr.'s orbital flight last Feb. 20.

Glenn had to assume manual control for most of his last two orbits when two of the small jet openings became clogged and upset part of the automatic control system.

As the capsule passed over the Muchea and Woomera tracking posts in Australia on its second orbit, there had been no indication from the Mercury control center that any thought was being given to terminating the flight early.

Carpenter reported he was able to change the attitude of his spacecraft slightly merely by moving his head and arms vigorously.

As he swung into the second orbit, Carpenter released a balloon and plastic confetti from his capsule.

With the whole world following progress of his daring flight—just as it did when John H. Glenn Jr. became the first American to orbit the earth three months ago—Carpenter's Aurora 7 spaceship passed over Cape Canaveral at 9:19 a. m. (EST) to complete one circuit.

Ready for Full Mission

Just 94 minutes earlier, at 7:45 a.m., a powerful Atlas missile had blasted off from this space port to fling Carpenter into the heavens at 17,532 miles an hour in an orbital path ranging from 99 to 164 miles above the earth.

Plans were to bring the 37-year-old Navy lieutenant commander down after three orbits for a parachute landing in the Atlantic Ocean at approximately 12:35 p.m. (EST).

Carpenter reported to fellow astronaut Virgil I. (Gus Grissom at the Mercury control center here that he and the capsule were in excellent condition after one orbit. He said he was ready to continue on with the full mission.

He reported no problems with the capsule's automatic control system as Glenn did on his initial orbit. Glenn was forced to control the Friendship 7 manually most of the last two orbits.

Carpenter released the folded balloon from a container tucked in the top of the capsule. The plastic and aluminum sphere was inflated to the size of a 30-inch beach ball after being ejected at the end of a 100-foot line.

Carpenter reported he could see the balloon very well and his intent was to photograph it.

Jest of Space Colors

The test will determine which colors man can best sight in space and may aid in selecting colors for vehicles which spacemen may have to approach and rendezvous with for future flights to the moon.

As the balloon inflated, it unloosed a shower of small aluminum-coated plastic discs which were packed in the folds.

Carpenter observed and photographed these confetti-like particles to study the behavior of these known objects in space. The purpose was to see if they created a "firefly" effect reported by both Glenn and Soviet cosmonaut Gherman S. Titov on their orbital flights.

As he approached the west coast of the United States, Carpenter reported seeing some white objects streaking, past his capsule. From his description they apparently were not the same objects reported by Glenn and Titov.

From the moment of blastoff here, the astronaut reported he was feeling fine.

As Carpenter was propelled upward by the powerful force of his Atlas booster, he reported by radio, "My condition is good." Minutes later, Carpenter's Aurora 7 space capsule settled into the planned orbital path more than 100 miles above the earth—following the same trail blazed three months ago by John H. Glenn Jr., America's first orbiting space pioneer.

Seconds after entering orbit, Carpenter began exercising the capsule's manual control system so he could watch the Atlas booster rocket as it fell away from his capsule.

Reports from the Aurora 7 were relayed to hundreds of newsmen here by the Mercury control center on Cape Canaveral, where tense officials carefully monitored all phases of the flight and condition of the 37-year-old Navy lieutenant commander.

Ascends Majestically

The blazing Atlas rocket rose majestically into a clear sky at 7:45 a.m. (EST) after a 45-minute delay because of visibility-limiting ground haze in the launching area.

Just as it did on Glenn's flight, the Atlas performed with amazing precision. With pinpoint accuracy it pushed the spacecraft through "a keyhole in the sky" at the desired speed and angle. If it had missed this spot in space 100 miles high and 500 miles northeast of the Cape, the Bermuda tracking station would have ordered Carpenter's craft back to earth immediately.

The control center reported five minutes after blastoff that Aurora 7 was in successful orbit and could remain aloft for seven circuits of the globe if necessary.

But the mission was planned for only three orbits, the same as Glenn's. Seven orbits would entail returning the astronaut's capsule to earth somewhere in the Pacific and would involve the deployment of great numbers of recovery vessels.

If the three-orbit mission was completed, flight time would be about four hours and 50 minutes. If all went well, the capsule would parachute into the Atlantic near Grand Turk island, 800 miles southeast of Cape Canaveral about 12:35 p.m. Eastern Standard Time.

Despite the extreme stresses of rocket acceleration, Carpenter calmly reported on conditions in the capsule. He said forces pressed him against his contour couch—in effect increasing the weight of his lean, trim body eight times its normal 155 pounds.

Everything 'Go'

Shortly after insertion into orbit, Carpenter reported on cabin pressure, oxygen supply and other instrument readings in his capsule. He said all were in go condition and that he himself was in excellent shape.

Communicating with him from the control center was a veteran space traveler, astronaut Virgil I. (Gus) Grissom, who last year made a suborbital rocket trip.

After Aurora 7 was successfully in orbit, the astronaut reported the capsule had turned around 180 degrees as intended, so that he was riding upright and backward through space, with the capsule's blunt heat shield leading the way.

At this point he was in the buoyant world of weightlessness, the condition that results when a delicate balance is achieved between the outward pull of centrifugal force and the downward pull of the earth's gravity.

Mercury control center reported that the capsule was in an orbit ranging from 99 to 164 miles above the earth at a speed of 17,532 miles an hour.

At 8 a.m., Carpenter's Aurora 7 passed over the Canary Islands tracking station and he reported that he was exercising the manual controls. The steering system and the automatic controls were working orderly and everything seemed normal in the capsule, he reported.

Glenn proved conclusively that man can operate in the strange world of weightlessness for at least a short period. Carpenter's job was to add to this knowledge by performing a number of tasks during the flight, during which he would be in a weightless state up to the time of re-entry through the earth's atmosphere.

Among the tasks scheduled during the flight were the release of a multicolored balloon and plastic confetti to test color and depth perception in space.

Insertion into orbit does not make the mission a success. More serious capsule trouble could develop than the problem Glenn had with his automatic control system.

Re-Entry Critical

And ahead lay the critical re-entry through the earth's atmosphere at the ecompletion of flight.

Three reverse rockets at the base of the capsule were to be fired as Aurora 7 approached the west coast of the United States near the end of the third orbit.

This would slow the capsule so it would come out of orbit and make a gradual descent thrugh searing re-entry heat up to 3,000 degrees Fahrenheit. Then Carpenter was to place his salvation parachutes, landing in the planned recovery area and pickup by one of the recovery ships.

The Kano, Nigeria, tracking station made contact with Carpenter at 8:08 a.m. and reported everything was in fine shape.

Immediately after his capsule separated from the Atlas, Carpenter took over the manual controls to maneuver his spacecraft to get a look at the rocket as it fell away.

"I've got the booster in the center of the window," he reported by radio.

Light to Darkness

As the capsule swept high over the Indian Ocean halfway through the first orbit, and about 45 minutes after launching, Carpenter passed suddenly from daylight into darkness—the first of three day-night switches he was to encounter today. On each pass he also swept from spring in the United States to autumn over Australia.

Carpenter reported the automatic control system in his capsule was performing well and that all systems were great.

A ground haze obscured Cape Canaveral before the launch but it did not interfere greatly with the big adventure.

The orbital figures were very close to those achieved by Glenn last Feb. 20. His capsule swung in orbit ranging from 100 to 162 miles at a speed of 17,500 miles an hour.

In a conversation with the Canary Island station Carpenter said some of his instrument readings did not agree with what he saw with navigation lines etched on his window. However, experts at the Canary station told him that the ground telemetry showed he was in the proper orbit attitude.

Aurora 7 passed over the Muchea, Australia, tracking post at 8:36 a.m. (EST) and Carpenter reported he was "getting behind on his plan for work."

He also reported the temperature in his air-conditioned space suit was slightly above normal and he was attempting to correct it by increasing the flow of cool air into the suit from the environmental control system.

Carpenter conversed with fellow astronaut Donald K. Slayton, the pilot originally named for this flight, only to be dropped last March 15 when it was disclosed he had a minor heart flutter.

Slayton advised Carpenter to limit his exercise until the suit temperature could be corrected.

By the time he reached woomera, Australia, Carpenter's space suit temperature had returned to near normal, Mercury control reported.

Carpenter reported to Woomera that his oxygen supply was holding normal.

As he went out of radio range of Woomera, Carpenter said he was going to turn off all controls in the capsule and allow it to drift for about 10 minutes. The purpose was to see just how far the capsule might wander off its path and also to determine what this drift might do to radio communications.

With this in mind, scientists have devised a great number of experiments for Carpenter, 37, a Navy lieutenant commander.

Among other things, Carpenter was to eject a 30-inch multicolored balloon which was to trail behind his capsule for one whole orbit on the end of a 100-foot line.

By observing the balloon, Carpenter may help determine which colors are best suited for space vehicles which man one day will have to hook together in orbit for flights to the moon.

In depth perception tests, the lean, handsome Carpenter was to follow the balloon with his eyes when he cut it loose and also try to track his Atlas booster when it fell away.

Carried Special Camera

He carried a special 35 MM camera and film for 600 pictures—both black and white and color—of practically everything to be seen including stars, weather phenomena, clouds, a bundle of plastic confetti he was to spray into space and, if they show up, the curious luminous "fireflies" Glenn reported about his capsule on each of the three sunrises he encountered.

Aboard Aurora 7 were 3000 calories of food, including cubes of solid substances similar to apple pie and candy.

Carpenter talked with his wife by phone Wednesday from his special quarters in Hangar S at Cape Canaveral. He spent a relaxing day, reviewing flight plans with technicians and engineers, with Glenn, and the backup pilot, Navy Cmdr. Walter M. Schirra.

Conscious of Hazards

A NASA spokesman was asked if Carpenter had any fear of death as his date with the stars neared. The spokesman replied that Carpenter is "conscious of the hazards involved and he doesn't think the risk factor is any lower because it's the second time around."

The course of Aurora 7 was carefully calculated so it would pass over the 17-station Mercury tracking network around the globe.

Carpenter

rado in 1949 but encountered difficulty with a course in heat transfer. Before he could pick up the credits, he courted and married his wife, Rene, also a Colorado student, and rejoined the Navy.

After graduation from the Navy test pilot school in 1954, Carpenter began the dangerous job of working the kinks out of some of the nation's newest, fastest fighting planes.

Local Death Record

Mrs. Julia VanDemark

Funeral services for Mrs. Julia VanDemark of Marbletown were held Wednesday afternoon from the W. N. Conner Funeral Home, Inc. Louis Huthsteiner officiated. Bearers were James Charity, William Maines, Kurt Mingo, John Walde. Burial was in Montrepose Cemetery.

Grant Weldon Woolheater

Funeral services for Grant Weldon Woolheater of Mt. Marion were held Wednesday morning at the W. N. Conner Funeral Home, Inc. The Rev. Henry L. Reinewald of Plattekill Reformed Church of Mt. Marion officiated. Bearers were David Bogert, Glenford Plass, Victor Haslan, James J. Davis, all relatives of the deceased. Burial was in Mt. Marion Cemetery.

David Goldwasser

Funeral services for David Goldwasser of Lawrenceville Road, Rosendale who died suddenly Monday were held at the Gordon and Buckbinder Funeral Home, 153 East Broadway, New York City, Tuesday 3 p. m. Burial was in Beth David Cemetery, Elmont, L. I. Arrangements were by the George J. Moylan Funeral Home, Rosendale.

Miss Fannie Metranker

The funeral of Miss Fannie Metranker of 12 Summer Street, Kingston who died Sunday was held from the George J. Moylan Funeral Home, Main Street, Rosendale, where at 10 a. m. a Mass of requiem was offered for the repose of her soul by the Rev. John J. Curry. Tuesday evening the Rt. Rev. Msgr. Vincent de-Paul Murry called at the funeral home and led those assembled in the recitation of the Rosary and prayers for the dead. Burial took place in St. Peter's Cemetery Rosendale where Father Curry gave the final blessing.

Morris DeWitt

Funeral services for Morris DeWitt of Accord who died suddenly Saturday were held at the George J. Moylan Funeral Home, Main Street, Rosendale, Tuesday 2 p. m. and were largely attended. Services were conducted by the Rev. Albert H. Shultis. During the bereavement many relatives and friends called and many floral tributes were received all tokens of the esteem in which he was held. Burial was in the Rosendale Plains Cemetery, where the Rev. Mr. Shultis conducted the committal services. Bearers were John Boyle, Jesse Williams, Earl Williams, Eugene Mulligan, Fred Mertine and Leo Trandle.

Melvin Williams

Melvin Williams, 60, of Sugartown Road, New Paltz, died Wednesday in Kingston Hospital after a long illness. Mr. Williams was born in Gardiner Aug. 3, 1902 son of the late James and Jennie Schoonmaker Williams. He had lived in the New Paltz area all of his life. For a number of years he was employed at the Morris Ackerman orchards. Surviving are a niece Mrs. Carl Coddington and nephew Ralph Williams, both of New Paltz. Funeral services will be held Friday 2 p. m. at the Pine Funeral Home Inc., New Paltz. The Rev. G. J. Wullscheleger, pastor of the New Paltz Reformed Church will officiate. Burial will be in the New Paltz Rural Cemetery. Friends may call at the funeral home tonight.

Mrs. Elizabeth Sauer

Mrs. Elizabeth Sauer, 69, of Mt. Marion, died Tuesday at her home following a long illness. She was born July 14, 1892, at Hicksville, L. I., a daughter of the late Jacob and Mary Zimmerman Schreiber. Surviving are her husband, Louis; two sons, Henry and Joseph, both of Mt. Marion; four daughters, Mrs. John Leeds of Kingston, Mrs. Melvin Lievre of Valley Station, Ky., Mrs. Richard Myer of Port Ewen and Mrs. Rudolph Anger of Fishkill; a sister, Mrs. John Gray of Bloomfield, N. J.; three brothers, Jacob Schreiber of Hicksville, Valentine Schreiber of Smithtown, L. I., and Henry Schreiber of Hicksville; 19 grandchildren. Funeral will be held from the Hartley and Lamouree Funeral Home, Main and Second Streets, Saugerties, Saturday 9 a. m., thence to St. John's Church, Veteran, where a Mass of requiem will be offered at 9:30 a. m. by the Rev. Daniel Daley. Burial will be in Mt. Marion Cemetery. Friends may call at the funeral home any time.

Tornado Warning Given for State

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—The U.S. Weather Bureau said today that "a tornado or two—large hail—and damaging winds" were a possibility between 3 p.m. and 9 p.m., daylight time, in Eastern New York.

The bureau issued this advisory at 1:15 p.m.:

"Scattered severe thunderstorms with a tornado or two—large hail—and damaging winds are expected this afternoon and early evening from about 3 p.m. to 9 p.m., eastern daylight time, in portions of New York State from the southern Adirondacks southward to southeastern Pennsylvania and central New Jersey and eastward from the Utica-Binghamton line to adjacent western New England."

Walter J. Kidd, Church Organist Dies Here Today

Walter J. Kidd, 61, of 163 Boulevard, well known local organist, died in this city early today.

He was a teacher of piano and organ and had served as organist at the Holy Cross Episcopal Church for 45 years. He was also officiating organist for Kingston Lodge No. 10, F&AM, Mt. Horeb Chapter, RAM and Rondout Commandery.

Very active in Masonic organizations, he was a member of Kingston Lodge No. 10, Mt. Horeb Chapter, Rondout Commandery, Cypress Temple Shrine of Albany and the Ulster County Shrine Club.

Mr. Kidd had been a member of Kingston Kiwanis Club for 31 years. He was also a member of United States Power Squadrons, National Guild of Organists, Hudson Valley Chapter and a past member of the New York Chapter.

A graduate of Kingston High School and the Guilmant School of Organ of New York City, Mr. Kidd attended Ithaca Conservatory of Music and studied with the late Dr. Norman Coke-Jephcott.

Surviving are his wife the former Norma D. Conklin and several cousins.

A high Mass of requiem will be offered at Holy Cross Episcopal Church Saturday 11 a. m. Burial will be in Wiltwyck Cemetery. Friends may call at the A. Carr & Son Funeral Home, 1 Pearl Street, Friday 7 to 9 p. m.

Chevrolet Agency Awarded Gold Seal

A gold seal of commendation has been awarded by the Automobile Club of New York to J. H. Byrne Chevrolet Corp., in recognition of its contributions to the high school driver education program during the 1961-1962 school year.

In a letter to J. Howard Byrne, president, Charles J. Murphy, the Auto Club's director of traffic engineering and safety, praised the dealer for its "outstanding community service" in providing a new Chevrolet dual control training car for use by students enrolled in the driver education course at Onteora Central School. This participation, he said, will go a long way in helping reduce accidents on the highway.

This is the fourth consecutive year that the dealer has made a car available on loan to the school.

The high schcol driver education program, pioneered by the AAA since 1936, offers both behind-the-wheel and classroom instruction to teenagers. This year, more than 12,000 high schools in the country are training some 1,333,000 students.

DIED

KIDD—In this city May 24, 1962 Walter J. Kidd of 163 Boulevard; husband of Norma D. Conklin.

A high Mass of requiem will be offered at the Holy Cross Church on Saturday at 11 a. m. Interment in Wiltwyck Cemetery. Friends may call at the A. Carr & Son Funeral Home, 1 Pearl Street, from 7 to 9 p. m. Friday.

Attention Officers and Members of Kingston Lodge No. 10, F&AM

All officers and members of Kingston Lodge No. 10, F&AM are requested to meet at the A. Carr and Son Funeral Home, 1 Pearl Street, Friday at 7:45 p. m. where at 8 p. m. Masonic funeral services will be held for our late Brother Walter J. Kidd.

HOWARD S. WHITAKER, Master.
GORDON A. CRAIG, SR. Secretary.

SAUER — Elizabeth, May 22, 1962, of Mt. Marion; wife of Louis; mother of Henry, Joseph, Mrs. John Leeds, Mrs. Melvin Lievre, Mrs. Richard Myer, Mrs. Rudolph Anger.

Funeral services will be held from the Hartley & Lamouree Funeral Home on Satuurday, May 26, at 9 a. m., thence to St. John's Church, Veteran, where a Mass of requiem will be said at 9:30 a. m. Burial will be in Mt. Marion Cemetery Friends may call at the funeral home any time after 2 p. m. Thursday.

SECRETO — Theresa, (nee Citrino), on Tuesday, May 22, 1962, of Glasco, wife of James Secreto Sr.; mother of Richard, Frank, James Jr., Louis, Mrs. Louis Francello, Mrs. Joseph Gambino, Mrs. Joseph Mayone; sister of Pasquale Citrino; 11 grandchildren and 4 great-grandchildren also survive.

Funeral will be held from the M. A. Galietta Funeral Home, 25 Ulster Avenue, Saugerties, on Friday, May 25, at 9:15 a. m., thence to St. Joseph's Church in Glasco at 10 a. m. where a solemn requiem high Mass will be offered for the repose of her soul. Interment in St. Mary's Cemetery, Barclay Heights. Friends may call at the funeral home at any time.

SICKLER—In this city May 22, 1962, Mary A. Sickler, nee Greentree, of Phoenicia, beloved wife of the late Scott Sickler; loving mother of Mrs. Oscar Hanel of Chichester, Ronald Sickler of Lanesville, N. Y., Mrs. Harry Gumaer of Fairlawn, N. J., Mrs. Justin Beck of Kingston; Mrs. Sickler is also survived by 7 grandchildren, 2 great-grandchildren.

Funeral Friday, 2 p. m., from the Gormley Funeral Home. Interment in the Shandaken Cemetery. Friends may call Wednesday and Thursday, 2-5 and 7-9 p. m. In lieu of flowers contributions may be made to the Phoenicia Methodist Church Building Fund.

STRIEBEL—May 22, 1962, John H. Striebel of Bearsville, N. Y., husband of Mrs. Evelyn F. Striebel; father of Mrs. David Huffine and John H. Striebel Jr.; brother of Mrs. Howard Walter; also survived by 4 grandchildren.

Funeral services Friday 11 a. m., at the Lasher Funeral Home, Inc., Woodstock. Interment Gardiner Earle Crematory, Troy, N. Y.

Memoriam

In loving memory of my husband and our father, Anthony Tecce, who departed this life one year ago today, May 24, 1961.

We always think of you,
And then of how you died;
To think you could not say goodbye,
Before you closed your eyes.
The blow was hard, the shock severe,
We never thought your death was near;
But only those who have lost can tell
The pain of parting without farewell.
God Bless and Keep You.

Yank Troops Get Live Ammo for Thailand Duty

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP)—Live ammunition is being issued today to the 1st Battle Group, U.S. 27th Infantry, and units coming from Hawaii "are bringing ammunition with them," Lt. Gen. James I. Richardson Jr. announced.

The commander of American forces detailed to help guard Thailand against any Communist incursions from Laos sought to clarify Washington reports concerning the battle group's readiness for combat.

Richardson said the group has been prepared since arriving six weeks ago for maneuvers of the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization "to carry out any mission assigned, combat or otherwise."

The infantrymen stayed on to become part of the U.S. military buildup, which includes air units and a battalion of Marines.

"When it was decided that the 1st Battle Group would remain in Thailand," Richardson said, "orders were issued to be prepared to issue ammunition from that available in Thailand, if and when required. At the same time ammunition was ordered forwarded from Okinawa."

JFK Is Emphatic

that omitted Social Security financing?

No, he replied, Social Security is the heart of the bill.

The 25-minute conference, shortest in his experience as President, covered these other points:

Chinese refugees—he announced the United States would admit several thousand refugees from hungry Communist China. The Justice Department said Wednesday night the flow would begin from Hong Kong in about two weeks.

Estes—In view of the possibility a federal official investigating Billie Sol Estes was murdered, Kennedy was asked if Secretary of Agriculture Orville Freeman could justify saying the affair had been ballooned out of proportion. Let's not judge the case, Kennedy said, until the FBI and Texas authorities have completed their inquiry. Kennedy said grain is being shifted from Estes' storage bins into normal channels of trade in a way that will not cost the taxpayers—and with more than usual speed "because of all the circumstances."

Southeast Asia—Remarking that "when you put troops in, they become difficult to take out unless the situation is stable," Kennedy said U.S. troops will remain in Thailand until events justify their withdrawal. An Army group in Thailand doesn't carry ammunition—but the ammunition is there and can be supplied at once if needed, he said.

Eisenhower — He and former President Dwight D. Eisenhower are appearing together on a program this week to advocate effective trade legislation, Kennedy said, but as to debating domestic issues with Eisenhower on television during next fall's congressional campaigns: "We will have to wait and see what the situation is."

Economy—In the long haul, he said, the stock market will keep in line with the economy. "and I think the prospects for the economy for this year are good."

the three bandits and that a nationwide search was under way.

Later that day, the alleged triggerman accused of staging the $4,000 holdup of a tobacco company with Rosenberg, was caught in a motel in a Chicago suburb. The next day, the man accused of driving a car which was to have been used in a getaway surrendered in Norwich, Conn.

Desperate on 5th Day

The Daily News said Rosenberg, "desperate on the fifth day after the murders," contacted his father, Louis, 56.

When the father turned to the News for advice, he was told: "Have him turn himself in. It's the only way."

The News informed police that the contact had been made, and that Rosenberg wanted to talk with representatives of the paper and state his case before facing police.

Such a discussion was authorized by police, the News said, and it quoted father and son as claiming young Rosenberg was innocent.

The other two men accused of the slayings have claimed innocence.

The pair, arraigned on homicide charges and held without bail Wednesday are Anthony (Baldy) Portelli, 26, accused of firing the shots that killed the two detectives, and Anthony Dellernia, 34, identified by police as the driver of the getaway car who panicked and left the robbers in the lurch when he heard gunfire in the tobacco company plant.

Slain detective John P. Finnegan, 29, was buried Wednesday after a funeral Mass at a Roman Catholic Church in Brooklyn. There was a turnout of about 1,500 off-duty detectives, along with a 90-man police honor guard and 125 uniformed men—a tribute similar to that given the day before to Finnegan's partner, Luke J. Fallon, 56.

on school costs by dramatizing to taxpayers the steadily mounting expenses.

Rockefeller commented in the first day of a three-day "saturation" tour he is making to Albany, Schenectady, Rensselaer and Saratoga counties.

The tour, seventh in a series to various parts of the state, was designed officially to review local problems but, unofficially, included a large measure of political activity for Rockefeller, a candidate for re-election this year.

His schedule today opened with a meeting with area medical leaders, included inspection of various government projects in the Albany area, visits to industrial plants and a forum tonight in a suburban high school at which he will answer questions from the public.

Also on today's schedule was a luncheon for a group of Japanese governors visiting this country.

In his meeting with educators at Union College in Schenectady Wednesday, the governor did not specify any particular type of non - property taxes, although sales taxes are the most frequently mentioned in such discussions.

It would be up to the legislature to authorize school districts to band together to levy sales or other non-property taxes. The lawmakers have been cold to such proposals in the past.

But, the governor said, a system of such taxes to help support schools and ease growing levies on owners of real estate "has got to come sometime."

Approximately $1.8 billion a year now is spent on public elementary and high schools in the state. Of this, the state pays about 45 per cent and local property owners pay the balance.

In other activities Wednesday, Rockefeller:

— Smiled and waved his way down an assembly line at a General Electric Co. plant in Schenectady, shaking hands with workers and ignoring the "Stratton For Governor" buttons many of them wore. U.S. Rep. Samuel S. Stratton of Schenectady is a candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor this year.

— Helped lay the cornerstone for a housing project for the aged in Schenectady and restated his position that "every senior citizen of this country should have health protection and decent housing."

—Renewed his support at the housing project and again at a Senior Citizens Ball in Albany for a federal plan of medical care for the aged financed through Social Security, provided the plan gave persons covered an option of taking cash to pay for private insurance coverage.

—Waltzed at the Senior Citizens Ball with the Queen to "Let Me Call You Sweetheart."

—Told 550 persons at a dinner sponsored by the Schenectady County Women's Republican Club that he and other Republicans would win this Year's election by "the greatest margins in the history of the state."

8 Divisions

Concert Band of Local 215, American Federation of Musicians; introductions, Earl Thomas of Station WKNY; opening prayer, the Rev. Robert T. Shellenberger, rector of St. John's Episcopal Church; remarks by Col. Chandler; address by Mayor John J. Schwenk; presentation of wreaths by Chairman Lane; benediction by the Rev. John T. Murray, assistant pastor of St. Peter's Church; firing squad, Ulster Detachment, Marine Corps League, and taps by Joseph McDermott of Kingston High School Band.

In the event of rain, the parade will be cancelled and not scheduled for any future date. All units will report to their assigned assembly areas at 1:30 p. m.

Order of march is as follows:

List Participants

Lead group—Kingston Police Department; State Police escort; Grand Marshal Col. Chandler; Kingston Veteran Association Chairman Lane; Mayor Schwenk; Police Chief Robert Murphy; color guard of honor, Ulster Detachment Marine Corps League; Kingston Concert Band; Parade Chairman Watts and Co-chairman Heaney; delegates, Kingston Veterans Association; City of Kingston officials; Ulster County officials.

First Division — Criterions Drum Corps; 854th Engineering Battalion (Heavy Construction), U.S. Army Reserve; U.S. Naval Reserve Surface Division 3-87.

Second Division — Saugerties Drum Corps; 1st Howitzer Battalion, 156th Artillery, N. Y. Army National Guard.

Fourth Division — American Legion Post 524 Drum and Bugle Corps; Kingston Post 150, American Legion; Tivoli Post 524; New Paltz Post 176, Town of Ulster Post 1748; Kingston Post 150 Ladies Auxiliary; Legion Poppy Girl.

Fifth Division — Continental Cadets Drum Corps; St. Ignatius Loyola Post 1769, Catholic War Veterans; Ulster Barracks 864, Veterans of World War I; Kingston Assembly 275, Fourth Degree, Knights of Columbus.

KHS Band Leads Division

Sixth Division—Kingston High School Band; A. H. Wicks Engine and Truck Company; Ulster Hose Company No. 5, and Kingston High School May Queen.

Seventh Division—Boy Scout Troop 12 Drum and Bugle Corps; Rip Van Winkle Council, Boy Scouts of America; Kingston District-Ulster County Council, Girl Scouts.

Eighth Division—Pacers Drum and Bugle Corps, Second section, Rip Van Winkle Council, Boy Scouts and Kingston District-Ulster County Girl Scouts.

Capsule Down Somewhere in Ocean

burn up on re-entry into the atmosphere after the third orbit.

Performing as if he were right at home in the strange world of weightlessness, Carpenter told astronaut Virgil I. (Gus) Grissom at Cape Canaveral that everything was fine and he was in excellent condition as he sailed overhead at the end of two orbits.

Carpenter had ended his first orbit at 9:19 a.m., flashing over Cape Canaveral 99 miles high.

Halfway through the third orbit, the Indian Ocean tracking ship reported that Carpenter was still in good condition, that all capsule systems were functioning normally and the fuel supply was satisfactory.

Release of the balloon was one of many experiments Carpenter carried out in his high-flying space laboratory to expand on man's knowledge of ability to perform in the weightlessness of space.

Just Drifted at Times

At times, he assumed manual control of the capsule, moving it on its yaw and pitch axis and at times just letting it drift in space without any control. The idea was to determine how far it would wander off path and to see how this would affect radio signals sent from the capsule.

He also made periodic observations of a colored liquid in a transparent plastic tank. The unit was installed to the right and behind the astronaut's head and he looked at it through a hand-held mirror. A camera mounted in the craft photographed it continually. The study may reveal much about how liquids perform in space weightlessness and may help design fuel tanks for spaceships of the future.

Dines Over Pacific

During the second orbit over the Pacific Ocean Carpenter ate a space meal from a tube containing a mush-like combination of beef and vegetables.

From time to time, he exercised by tugging on an elastic cord. After each exercise, Carpenter took his blood pressure—which gave ground trackers a vital insight into his condition.

As Aurora 7 streaked around the globe, Carpenter glanced down at the earth and had a breathtaking panoramic view streatching 1,800 miles from horizon to horizon. He reported very good views of Baja California as he neared the end of his first orbit and of the West African coast as he took off on his second circuit.

From the moment of blastoff here the astronaut reported he was feeling fine.

The hydrogen peroxide is squirted out from small holes around the surface of the capsule. If the capsule shifts off its planned attitude for some reason, jets fire to push it back on the proper attitude (its angle of relation to the horizon).

The astronaut can control the roll, pitch and yaw of his capsule by using his manual control stick to trigger these jet streams.

Means Steadier Course

As he entered the second orbit, Carpenter was told to assume more manual control of Aurora 7 to conserve the fuel, which is used up more rapidly when the automatic system is operating. By taking manual control, Carpenter could hold a steadier course and thus eliminate some need for firing the fuel jets.

But this would limit the time he had available to perform some of his assigned tasks, just as it did on John H. Glenn Jr.'s orbital flight last Feb. 20.

Glenn had to assume manual control for most of his last two orbits when two of the small jet openings became clogged and upset part of the automatic control system.

As the capsule passed over the Muchea and Woomera tracking posts in Australia on its second orbit, there had been no indication from the Mercury control center that any thought was being given to terminating the flight early.

Carpenter reported he was able to change the attitude of his spacecraft slightly merely by moving his head and arms vigorously.

As he swung into the second orbit, Carpenter released a balloon and plastic confetti from his capsule.

With the whole world following progress of his daring flight—just as it did when John H. Glenn Jr. became the first American to orbit the earth three months ago—Carpenter's Aurora 7 spaceship passed over Cape Canaveral at 9:19 a. m. (EST) to complete one circuit.

Ready for Full Mission

Just 94 minutes earlier, at 7:45 a.m., a powerful Atlas missile had blasted off from this space port to fling Carpenter into the heavens at 17,532 miles an hour in an orbital path ranging from 99 to 164 miles above the earth.

Plans were to bring the 37-year-old Navy lieutenant commander down after three orbits for a parachute landing in the Atlantic Ocean at approximately 12:35 p.m. (EST).

Carpenter reported to fellow astronaut Virgil I. (Gus Grissom at the Mercury control center here that he and the capsule were in excellent condition after one orbit. He said he was ready to continue on with the full mission.

He reported no problems with the capsule's automatic control system as Glenn did on his initial orbit. Glenn was forced to control the Friendship 7 manually most of the last two orbits.

Carpenter released the folded balloon from a container tucked in the top of the capsule. The plastic and aluminum sphere was inflated to the size of a 30-inch beach ball after being ejected at the end of a 100-foot line.

Carpenter reported he could see the balloon very well and his intent was to photograph it.

Jest of Space Colors

The test will determine which colors man can best sight in space and may aid in selecting colors for vehicles which spacemen may have to approach and rendezvous with for future flights to the moon.

As the balloon inflated, it unloosed a shower of small aluminum-coated plastic discs which were packed in the folds.

Carpenter observed and photographed these confetti-like particles to study the behavior of these known objects in space. The purpose was to see if they created a "firefly" effect reported by both Glenn and Soviet cosmonaut Gherman S. Titov on their orbital flights.

As he approached the west coast of the United States, Carpenter reported seeing some white objects streaking past his capsule. From his description they apparently were not the same objects reported by Glenn and Titov.

From the moment of blastoff here, the astronaut reported he was feeling fine.

As Carpenter was propelled upward by the powerful force of his Atlas booster, he reported by radio, "My condition is good." Minutes later, Carpenter's Aurora 7 space capsule settled into the planned orbital path more than 100 miles above the earth—following the same trail blazed three months ago by John H. Glenn Jr., America's first orbiting space pioneer.

Seconds after entering orbit, Carpenter began exercising the capsule's manual control system so he could watch the Atlas booster rocket as it fell away from his capsule.

Reports from the Aurora 7 were relayed to hundreds of newsmen here by the Mercury control center on Cape Canaveral, where tense officials carefully monitored all phases of the flight and condition of the 37-year-old Navy lieutenant commander.

Ascends Majestically

The blazing Atlas rocket rose majestically into a clear sky at 7:45 a.m. (EST) after a 45-minute delay because of visibility-limiting ground haze in the launching area.

Just as it did on Glenn's flight, the Atlas performed with amazing precision. With pinpoint accuracy it pushed the spacecraft through "a keyhole in the sky" at the desired speed and angle. If it had missed this spot in space 100 miles high and 500 miles northeast of the Cape, the Bermuda tracking station would have ordered Carpenter's craft back to earth immediately.

The control center reported five minutes after blastoff that Aurora 7 was in successful orbit and could remain aloft for seven circuits of the globe if necessary.

But the mission was planned for only three orbits, the same as Glenn's. Seven orbits would entail returning the astronaut's capsule to earth somewhere in the Pacific and would involve the deployment of great numbers of recovery vessels.

If the three-orbit mission was completed, flight time would be about four hours and 50 minutes. If all went well, the capsule would parachute into the Atlantic near Grand Turk island, 800 miles southeast of Cape Canaveral about 12:35 p.m. Eastern Standard Time.

Despite the extreme stresses of rocket acceleration, Carpenter calmly reported on conditions in the capsule. He said forces pressed him against his contour couch—in effect increasing the weight of his lean, trim body eight times its normal 155 pounds.

Everything 'Go'

Shortly after insertion into orbit, Carpenter reported on cabin pressure, oxygen supply and other instrument readings in his capsule. He said all were in go condition and that he himself was in excellent shape.

Communicating with him from the control center was a veteran space traveler, astronaut Virgil I. (Gus) Grissom, who last year made a suborbital rocket trip.

After Aurora 7 was successfully in orbit, the astronaut reported the capsule had turned around 180 degrees as intended, so that he was riding upright and backward through space, with the capsule's blunt heat shield leading the way.

At this point he was in the buoyant world of weightlessness, the condition that results when a delicate balance is achieved between the outward pull of centrifugal force and the downward pull of the earth's gravity.

Mercury control center reported that the capsule was in an orbit ranging from 99 to 164 miles above the earth at a speed of 17,532 miles an hour.

At 8 a.m., Carpenter's Aurora 7 passed over the Canary Islands tracking station and he reported that he was exercising the manual controls. The steering system and the automatic controls were working orderly and everything seemed normal in the capsule, he reported.

Glenn proved conclusively that man can operate in the strange world of weightlessness for at least a short period. Carpenter's job was to add to this knowledge by performing a number of tasks during the flight, during which he would be in a weightless state up to the time of re-entry through the earth's atmosphere.

Among the tasks scheduled during the flight were the release of a multicolored balloon and plastic confetti to test color and depth perception in space.

Insertion into orbit does not make the mission a success. More serious capsule trouble could develop than the problem Glenn had with his automatic control system.

Re-Entry Critical

And ahead lay the critical re-entry through the earth's atmosphere at the ecompletion of flight.

Three reverse rockets at the base of the capsule were to be fired as Aurora 7 approached the west coast of the United States near the end of the third orbit.

This would slow the capsule so it would come out of orbit and make a gradual descent thrugh searing re-entry heat up to 3,000 degrees Fahrenheit. Then Carpenter was to place his salvation parachutes, landing in the planned recovery area and pickup by one of the recovery ships.

The Kano, Nigeria, tracking station made contact with Carpenter at 8:08 a.m. and reported everything was in fine shape.

Immediately after his capsule separated from the Atlas, Carpenter took over the manual controls to maneuver his spacecraft to get a look at the rocket as it fell away.

"I've got the booster in the center of the window," he reported by radio.

Light to Darkness

As the capsule swept high over the Indian Ocean halfway through the first orbit, and about 45 minutes after launching, Carpenter passed suddenly from daylight into darkness—the first of three day-night switches he was to encounter today. On each pass he also swept from spring in the United States to autumn over Australia.

Carpenter reported the automatic control system in his capsule was performing well and that all systems were great.

A ground haze obscured Cape Canaveral before the launch but it did not interfere greatly with the big adventure.

The orbital figures were very close to those achieved by Glenn last Feb. 20. His capsule swung in orbit ranging from 100 to 162 miles at a speed of 17,500 miles an hour.

In a conversation with the Canary Island station Carpenter said some of his instrument readings did not agree with what he saw with navigation lines etched on his window. However, experts at the Canary station told him that the ground telemetry showed he was in the proper orbit attitude.

Aurora 7 passed over the Muchea, Australia, tracking post at 8:36 a.m. (EST) and Carpenter reported he was "getting behind on his plan for work."

He also reported the temperature in his air-conditioned space suit was slightly above normal and he was attempting to correct it by increasing the flow of cool air into the suit from the environmental control system.

Carpenter conversed with fellow astronaut Donald K. Slayton, the pilot originally named for this flight, only to be dropped last March 15 when it was disclosed he had a minor heart flutter.

Slayton advised Carpenter to limit his exercise until the suit temperature could be corrected.

By the time he reached Woomera, Australia, Carpenter's space suit temperature had returned to near normal, Mercury control reported.

Carpenter reported to Woomera that his oxygen supply was holding normal.

As he went out of radio range of Woomera, Carpenter said he was going to turn off all controls in the capsule and allow it to drift for about 10 minutes. The purpose was to see just how far the capsule might wander off its path and also to determine what this drift might do to radio communications.

With this in mind, scientists have devised a great number of experiments for Carpenter, 37, a Navy lieutenant commander.

Among other things, Carpenter was to eject a 30-inch multicolored balloon which was to trail behind his capsule for one whole orbit on the end of a 100-foot line.

By observing the balloon, Carpenter may help determine which colors are best suited for space vehicles which man one day will have to hook together in orbit for flights to the moon.

In depth perception tests, the lean, handsome Carpenter was to follow the balloon with his eyes when he cut it loose and also try to track his Atlas booster when it fell away.

Carried Special Camera

He carried a special 35 MM camera and film for 600 pictures —both black and white and color —of practically everything to be seen including stars, weather phenomena, clouds, a bundle of plastic confetti he was to spray into space and, if they show up, the curious luminous "fireflies" Glenn reported about his capsule on each of the three sunrises he encountered.

Aboard Aurora 7 were 3000 calories of food, including cubes of solid substances similar to apple pie and candy.

Carpenter talked with his wife by phone Wednesday from his special quarters in Hangar S at Cape Canaveral. He spent a relaxing day, reviewing flight plans with technicians and engineers, with Glenn, and the backup pilot, Navy Cmdr. Walter M. Schirra.

Conscious of Hazards

A NASA spokesman was asked if Carpenter had any fear of death as his date with the stars neared. The spokesman replied that Carpenter is "conscious of the hazards involved and he doesn't think the risk factor is any lower because it's the second time around."

The course of Aurora 7 was carefully calculated so it would pass over the 17-station Mercury tracking network around the globe.

Local Death Record

Mrs. Julia VanDemark

Funeral services for Mrs. Julia VanDemark of Marbletown were held Wednesday afternoon from the W. N. Conner Funeral Home, Inc. Louis Huthsteiner officiated. Bearers were James Charity, William Maines, Kurt Mingo, John Walde. Burial was in Montrepose Cemetery.

Grant Weldon Woolheater

Funeral services for Grant Weldon Woolheater of Mt. Marion were held Wednesday morning at the W. N. Conner Funeral Home, Inc. The Rev. Henry L. Reinewald of Plattekill Reformed Church of Mt. Marion officiated. Bearers were David Bogert, Glenford Plass, Victor Haslan, James J. Davis, all relatives of the deceased. Burial was in Mt. Marion Cemetery.

David Goldwasser

Funeral services for David Goldwasser of Lawrenceville Road, Rosendale who died suddenly Monday were held at the Gordon and Buckbinder Funeral Home, 153 East Broadway, New York City, Tuesday 3 p. m. Burial was in Beth David Cemetery, Elmont, L. I. Arrangements were by the George J. Moylan Funeral Home, Rosendale.

Miss Fannie Metranker

The funeral of Miss Fannie Metranker of 12 Summer Street, Kingston who died Sunday was held from the George J. Moylan Funeral Home, Main Street, Rosendale, where at 10 a. m. a Mass of requiem was offered for the repose of her soul by the Rev. John J. Curry. Tuesday evening the Rt. Rev. Msgr. Vincent de-Paul Murry called at the funeral home and led those assembled in the recitation of the Rosary and prayers for the dead. Burial took place in St. Peter's Cemetery Rosendale where Father Curry gave the final blessing.

Morris DeWitt

Funeral services for Morris DeWitt of Accord who died suddenly Saturday were held at the George J. Moylan Funeral Home, Main Street, Rosendale, Tuesday 2 p. m. and were largely attended. Services were conducted by the Rev. Albert H. Shultis. During the bereavement many relatives and friends called and many floral tributes were received all tokens of the esteem in which he was held. Burial was in the Rosendale Plains Cemetery, where the Rev. Mr. Shultis conducted the committal services. Bearers were John Boyle, Jesse Williams, Earl Williams, Eugene Mulligan, Fred Mertine and Leo Trandle.

Melvin Williams

Melvin Williams, 60, of Sugartown Road, New Paltz, died Wednesday in Kingston Hospital after a long illness. Mr. Williams was born in Gardiner Aug. 3, 1902 son of the late James and Jennie Schoonmaker Williams. He had lived in the New Paltz area all of his life. For a number of years he was employed at the Morris Ackerman orchards. Surviving are a niece Mrs. Carl Coddington and nephew Ralph Williams, both of New Paltz. Funeral services will be held Friday 2 p. m. at the Pine Funeral Home Inc., New Paltz. The Rev. G. J. Wullscheleger, pastor of the New Paltz Reformed Church will officiate. Burial will be in the New Paltz Rural Cemetery. Friends may call at the funeral home tonight.

Mrs. Elizabeth Sauer

Mrs. Elizabeth Sauer, 69, of Mt. Marion, died Tuesday at her home following a long illness. She was born July 14, 1892, at Hicksville, L. I., a daughter of the late Jacob and Mary Zimmerman Schreiber. Surviving are her husband, Louis; two sons, Henry and Joseph, both of Mt. Marion; four daughters, Mrs. John Leeds of Kingston, Mrs. Melvin Lievre of Valley Station, Ky., Mrs. Richard Myer of Port Ewen and Mrs. Rudolph Anger of Fishkill; a sister, Mrs. John Gray of Bloomfield, N. J.; three brothers, Jacob Schreiber of Hicksville, Valentine Schreiber of Smithtown, L. I., and Henry Schreiber of Hicksville; 19 grandchildren. Funeral will be held from the Hartley and Lamouree Funeral Home, Main and Second Streets, Saugerties, Saturday 9 a. m., thence to St. John's Church, Veteran, where a Mass of requiem will be offered at 9:30 a. m. by the Rev. Daniel Daley. Burial will be in Mt. Marion Cemetery. Friends may call at the funeral home any time.

Tornado Warning Given for State

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—The U.S. Weather Bureau said today that "a tornado or two—large hail—and damaging winds" were a possibility between 3 p.m. and 9 p.m., daylight time, in Eastern New York.

The bureau issued this advisory at 1:15 p.m.:

"Scattered severe thunderstorms with a tornado or two—large hail—and damaging winds are expected this afternoon and early evening from about 3 p.m. to 9 p.m., eastern daylight time, in portions of New York State from the southern Adirondacks southward to southeastern Pennsylvania and central New Jersey and eastward from the Utica-Binghamton line to adjacent western New England."

Walter J. Kidd, Church Organist Dies Here Today

Walter J. Kidd, 61, of 163 Boulevard, well known local organist, died in this city early today.

He was a teacher of piano and organ and had served as organist at the Holy Cross Episcopal Church for 45 years. He was also officiating organist for Kingston Lodge No. 10, F&AM, Mt. Horeb Chapter, RAM and Rondout Commandery.

Very active in Masonic organizations, he was a member of Kingston Lodge No. 10, Mt. Horeb Chapter, Rondout Commandery, Cypress Temple Shrine of Albany and the Ulster County Shrine Club.

Mr. Kidd had been a member of Kingston Kiwanis Club for 31 years. He was also a member of United States Power Squadrons, National Guild of Organists, Hudson Valley Chapter and a past member of the New York Chapter.

A graduate of Kingston High School and the Guilmant School of Organ of New York City, Mr. Kidd attended Ithaca Conservatory of Music and studied with the late Dr. Norman Coke-Jephcott.

Surviving are his wife the former Norma D. Conklin and several cousins.

A high Mass of requiem will be offered at Holy Cross Episcopal Church Saturday 11 a. m. Burial will be in Wiltwyck Cemetery. Friends may call at the A. Carr & Son Funeral Home, 1 Pearl Street, Friday 7 to 9 p. m.

Chevrolet Agency Awarded Gold Seal

A gold seal of commendation has been awarded by the Automobile Club of New York to J. H. Byrne Chevrolet Corp., in recognition of its contributions to the high school driver education program during the 1961-1962 school year.

In a letter to J. Howard Byrne, president, Charles J. Murphy, the Auto Club's director of traffic engineering and safety, praised the dealer for its "outstanding community service" in providing a new Chevrolet dual control training car for use by students enrolled in the driver education course at Onteora Central School. This participation, he said, will go a long way in helping reduce accidents on the highway.

This is the fourth consecutive year that the dealer has made a car available on loan to the school.

The high school driver education program, pioneered by the AAA since 1936, offers both behind-the-wheel and classroom instruction to teenagers. This year, more than 12,000 high schools in the country are training some 1,333,000 students.

DIED

KIDD—In this city May 24, 1962 Walter J. Kidd of 163 Boulevard; husband of Norma D. Conklin.

A high Mass of requiem will be offered at the Holy Cross Church on Saturday at 11 a. m. Interment in Wiltwyck Cemetery. Friends may call at the A. Carr & Son Funeral Home, 1 Pearl Street, from 7 to 9 p. m. Friday.

Attention Officers and Members of Kingston Lodge No. 10, F&AM

All officers and members of Kingston Lodge No. 10, F&AM are requested to meet at the A. Carr and Son Funeral Home, 1 Pearl Street, Friday at 7:45 p. m. where at 8 p. m. Masonic funeral services will be held for our late Brother Walter J. Kidd.

HOWARD S. WHITAKER, Master.
GORDON A. CRAIG, SR. Secretary.

SAUER — Elizabeth, May 22, 1962, of Mt. Marion; wife of Louis; mother of Henry, Joseph, Mrs. John Leeds, Mrs. Melvin Lievre, Mrs. Richard Myer, Mrs. Rudolph Anger.

Funeral services will be held from the Hartley & Lamouree Funeral Home on Saturday, May 26, at 9 a. m., thence to St. John's Church, Veteran, where a Mass of requiem will be said at 9:30 a. m. Burial will be in Mt. Marion Cemetery Friends may call at the funeral home any time after 2 p. m. Thursday.

SECRETO — Theresa, (nee Citrino), on Tuesday, May 22, 1962, of Glasco, wife of James Secreto Sr.; mother of Richard, Frank, James Jr., Louis, Mrs. Louis Francello, Mrs. Joseph Gambino, Mrs. Joseph Mayone; sister of Pasquale Citrino; 11 grandchildren and 4 great-grandchildren also survive.

Funeral will be held from the M. A. Galietta Funeral Home, 25 Ulster Avenue, Saugerties, on Friday, May 25, at 9:15 a. m., thence to St. Joseph's Church in Glasco at 10 a. m. where a solemn requiem high Mass will be offered for the repose of her soul. Interment in St. Mary's Cemetery, Barclay Heights. Friends may call at the funeral home at any time.

SICKLER—In this city May 22, 1962, Mary A. Sickler, nee Greentree, of Phoenicia, beloved wife of the late Scott Sickler; loving mother of Mrs. Oscar Hanel of Chichester, Ronald Sickler of Lanesville, N. Y., Mrs. Harry Gumaer of Fairlawn, N. J., Mrs. Justin Beck of Kingston; Mrs. Sickler is also survived by 7 grandchildren, 2 great-grandchildren.

Funeral Friday, 2 p. m., from the Gormley Funeral Home. Interment in the Shandaken Cemetery. Friends may call Wednesday and Thursday, 2-5 and 7-9 p. m. In lieu of flowers contributions may be made to the Phoenicia Methodist Church Building Fund.

STRIEBEL—May 22, 1962, John H. Striebel of Bearsville, N. Y., husband of Mrs. Evelyn F. Striebel; father of Mrs. David Huffine and John H. Striebel Jr.; brother of Mrs. Howard Walter; also survived by 4 grandchildren.

Funeral services Friday 11 a. m., at the Lasher Funeral Home, Inc., Woodstock. Interment Gardiner Earle Crematory, Troy, N. Y.

Memoriam

In loving memory of my husband and our father, Anthony Tecce, who departed this life one year ago today, May 24, 1961.

We always think of you,
And then of how you died;
To think you could not say goodbye,
Before you closed your eyes.
The blow was hard, the shock severe,
We never thought your death was near;
But only those who have lost can tell
The pain of parting without farewell.
God Bless and Keep You.

Home Missions Advances Noted By Methodists

POUGHKEEPSIE — Increased missionary zeal on the home front was seen today as one of the most significant advances of New York Conference Methodists in the last year.

Ministerial and lay delegates from 340 churches meeting for their 163rd annual session at Trinity Methodist Church heard the Rev. Dr. John M. Pearson, superintendant of the Newburgh District, present the composite report of the superintendents regarding progress in Christian education, evangelism, missions and finance.

Dr. Pearson pointed out that payments to world service and benevolences increased by 36 per cent over the preceding year and that Methodist contributions to One Great Hour of Sharing, which all Protestant bodies share, increased 40 per cent.

Area Migrant Ministry

The missionary enterprise in the Conference has taken three directions which Dr. Pearson described as follows: "We have undertaken an enlarged ministry to migrant workers on vegetable farms in southwestern Orange County and in the fruit growing communities of the Hudson Valley; second, we have several church extension projects in rural and suburban areas; also we have an aroused sense of urgency concerning the need in the New York Metropolitan Area for Methodism to help provide for the growing Protestant population there."

Dr. Pearson urged increased activity this year in evangelism; calling upon the Commission on Membership and Evangelism in each church to train laymen to call regularly on prospective members. He asked that each church increase its net membership by five per cent this year.

The report noted increased giving in the churches. Funds spent on buildings and improvements increased by $130,000 or about 25 per cent. Pastors' salaries were increased by $55,000 and a proposal will be made at the Conference, Dr. Pearson said, to pay for all parsonage utilities. It was reported that 52 per cent of the ministers tithe while less than one-half of one per cent of the laymen do so.

The statistical report presented by the Rev. Lee H. Ball of Ardsley revealed that the estimated value of church buildings, land and equipment totals $29,784,144, an increase of $384,554 over the preceding year. There are 258 more members of Methodist Men in 11 new clubs and an increase of 247 in the average attendance at Church School. An increase of 1,396 preparatory members in confirmation classes over the preceding year was also noted by the Rev. Mr. Ball.

Contributions Are Up

The report of the treasurer, Howard H. Darling of Newburgh, noted over-all giving in all churches totaled $4,200,000 last year, an increase of about $320,000. Indebtedness totals $6,586,800, an increase of more than $88,000, representing mortgages on new construction.

The Conference opened this morning with the Sacrament of Holy Communion administered by Bishop Lloyd C. Wicke and the district superintendents, the Rev. George P. Werner of Kingston, the Rev. Dr. Samuel H. Sweeney of New York, the Rev. Dr. Arnold O. Olson of Poughkeepsie, and Dr. Pearson. They were assisted by the Rev. Dr. D. George Davies, host pastor.

The Rev. Henry G. Lincoln of Walton, preached the memorial sermon in memory of ministers, ministers' wives and windows who died last year.

The Conference will continue through Sunday.

Would Repeal Bingo

ELMIRA, N.Y. (AP)—The Central New York Conference of the Methodist Church has urged repeal of the bingo and pari-mutuel amendments to the State Constitution.

In its 95th annual session Wednesday, the 500 delegates from 300 churches, gave unanimous approval to a report from its oard of Christian Social concerns on the subject of gambling.

"Gambling, wherever it is," the report said, ' leads to corruption. We oppose all publicly promoted gambling."

Nine Overcome By Cleaner Fumes On Lumber Ship

Eight seamen and a Poughkeepsie fireman were felled last night by fumes of a gastric fluid the seamen were using to clean the hold of a lumber ship docked at Dutton Lumber Co., north of Main Street, Poughkeepsie.

The men were revived by emergency crews from the fire department, Central Hudson Gas & Electric Corp., police and physicians from Vassar Hospital. Later they were taken by ambulances to the hospital, where they were described as fair this morning, according to Police Chief John L. Martin.

Martin said police and fire department officials were notified at 7:33 p. m. that eight seamen aboard the S.S. TT Adventurer, which is in charge of Captain K. V. Straul, had been overcome by the fumes from the fluid they were using to clean the ship's hold.

Engine 1 and Truck 1 of the Poughkeepsie Fire Department, a Central Hudson emergency squad, and police and Vassar ambulances were dispatched to the scene. Firemen donned masks and boarded the ship. The eight seamen were carried from the hold.

Authorities said the men were revived by oxygen and artificial respiration administered by the emergency crews and physicians. They were rushed to the hospital where further treatment was administered.

Fireman William Creighton of Engine 1 suffered from the effects of the fumes and necessitated treatment, authorities said.

Chief Martin identified the seamen as, Harold Nudic, Olie Kungshang, Joseph Lavesque, J. E. Cottrell, R. Davis, William Dow, David Consic and Harold Barmoes. They were members of the ship's crew.

CALLS ARMY'S SIGNALS— Maj. Gen. Earle F. Cook, above, is the Army's new chief signal officer. He steps up from deputy to replace Maj. Gen. Ralph T. Nelson, who is retiring on June 30.

Newburgh Man Held for Jury In Wife's Death

Accused of slaying his wife with an electric iron and a butcher knife during a quarrel in their home Wednesday morning, John Nazimek, 71, of 202 Overlook Place, Newburgh, is in the Orange County jail at Goshen facing a charge of first degree murder.

Nazimek waived preliminary examination yesterday afternoon and Newburgh City Judge Charles J. Roskoski referred the case to the grand jury and ordered the defendant committed to jail.

Victim of the slaying, according to Police Lt. Philip Gliedman was Frances Nazimek, also 71, wife of the defendant, a retired salesman.

Beatings Show on Him

Lt. Gliedman told The Freeman that Nazimek and his wife had argued frequently about domestic difficulties, and that Mrs. Nazimek had repeatedly beat him during heated quarrels. Gliedman said Nazimek showed evidence of beatings and that neighbors confirmed the domestic trouble reports in the Nazimek home.

Gliedman said he received a telephone call at 10:27 a. m. Wednesday from Nazimek.

"I have just killed my wife," Nazimek said over the telephone, the lieutenant said.

"I kept him talking on the telephone," Gliedman said. "I passed word along while we were talking and several police officers sped to the Overlook Place residence. They found Nazimek. His wife was dead."

Skull Crushed

Gliedman said, investigation disclosed that the retired salesman hit his wife on the head with an electric iron two or more times. Her skull was crushed. Gliedman stated that Nazimek used a butcher knife to slash his wife several times across the face and head.

Orange County authorities prepared to present the case to the grand jury immediately and seek an indictment. Meanwhile, Newburgh police continued investigation to wrap up loose ends.

Assisting in the investigation were Deputy Chief Homer Masland and Detective Sergeant Kenneth Powles, who responded to the first call and arrested Nazimek.

Married Over 50 Years

Orange County Assistant District Attorney Andrew M. Mauricello accompanied police to the Nazimek residence, Mrs. Nazimek was pronounced dead by Dr. Albert A. Mazzeo, Newburgh City health officer.

The Nazimeks had been married more than 50 years and resided in the Overlook Place residence about 11 years.

Injured in Mishap

According to an accident report at city police headquarters, Laura L. Markle, 49, of 110 Franklin Street was injured about the face and right leg at 12:15 a. m. today when a car in which she was riding struck a street sign and a fire hydrant on Crown Street. Operator of the auto, Louis Ticefelt, 50, of 41 Klingburg Avenue, lost control, according to the report. Investigating patrolmen were Harry Short and Vincent Eckert.

All housewives know of the limitless importance of the telephone. However, probably not too many of them know of a new telephone service, "Dial-a-Dietitian." This program initiated by the Detroit Dietetic association has become a national project. Telephoned questions are recorded by an answering service and mailed to dietitians who call the inquirers with answers.

Home Missions Advances Noted By Methodists

POUGHKEEPSIE — Increased missionary zeal on the home front was seen today as one of the most significant advances of New York Conference Methodists in the last year.

Ministerial and lay delegates from 340 churches meeting for their 163rd annual session at Trinity Methodist Church heard the Rev. Dr. John M. Pearson, superintendant of the Newburgh District, present the composite report of the superintendents regarding progress in Christian education, evangelism, missions and finance.

Dr. Pearson pointed out that payments to world service and benevolences increased by 36 per cent over the preceding year and that Methodist contributions to One Great Hour of Sharing, which all Protestant bodies share, increased 40 per cent.

Area Migrant Ministry

The missionary enterprise in the Conference has taken three directions which Dr. Pearson described as follows: "We have undertaken an enlarged ministry to migrant workers on vegetable farms in southwestern Orange County and in the fruit growing communities of the Hudson Valley; second, we have several church extension projects in rural and suburban areas; also we have an aroused sense of urgency concerning the need in the New York Metropolitan Area for Methodism to help provide for the growing Protestant population there."

Dr. Pearson urged increased activity this year in evangelism; calling upon the Commission on Membership and Evangelism in each church to train laymen to call regularly on prospective members. He asked that each church increase its net membership by five per cent this year.

The report noted increased giving in the churches. Funds spent on buildings and improvements increased by $130,000 or about 25 per cent. Pastors' salaries were increased by $55,000 and a proposal will be made at the Conference, Dr. Pearson said, to pay for all parsonage utilities. It was reported that 52 per cent of the ministers tithe while less than one-half of one per cent of the laymen do so.

The statistical report presented by the Rev. Lee H. Ball of Ardsley revealed that the estimated value of church buildings, land and equipment totals $29,784,144, an increase of $384,554 over the preceding year. There are 258 more members of Methodist Men in 11 new clubs and an increase of 247 in the average attendance at Church School. An increase of 1,396 preparatory members in confirmation classes over the preceding year was also noted by the Rev. Mr. Ball.

Contributions Are Up

The report of the treasurer, Howard H. Darling of Newburgh, noted over-all giving in all churches totaled $4,200,000 last year, an increase of about $320,000. Indebtedness totals $6,586,800, an increase of more than $88,000, representing mortgages on new construction.

The Conference opened this morning with the Sacrament of Holy Communion administered by Bishop Lloyd C. Wicke and the district superintendents, the Rev. George P. Werner of Kingston, the Rev. Dr. Samuel H. Sweeney of New York, the Rev. Dr. Arnold O. Olson of Poughkeepsie, and Dr. Pearson. They were assisted by the Rev. Dr. D. George Davies, host pastor.

The Rev. Henry G. Lincoln of Walton, preached the memorial sermon in memory of ministers, ministers' wives and windows who died last year.

Fifty Years of Service---

Chief of U.S. Children's Bureau, Mrs. Katherine B. Ottinger is, in effect, foster mother to 67 million U.S. children.

Through the years, the Children's Bureau has been the champion of better health services for boys and girls. Early result was this traveling clinic in South Carolina in 1926.

Child shrimp worker was common sight before passage of Child Labor Law in 1924. Bureau groundwork helped.

In 1912, President Taft signed an act which created the U. S. Child's Bureau. For the first time in history, a nation had established a bureau specifically concerned with protecting the interests of children. Today, more than fifty years later, the bureau is expanding into new areas. Most of this expansion is due to findings which result from bureau studies. For example, in 1958, a survey revealed that 400,000 children under 12 years of age were caring for themselves while their mothers worked full time. The study resulted in legislation which provides state aid to those children. "The most important goal for the bureau's next 50 years," says Mrs. Katherine B. Oettinger, chief of the Children's Bureau, "is to bring complete child welfare to every corner of the country where help is needed. Society moves forward in terms of what its care, hopes and aspirations are for its children." It is now working to set up a unit, encouraging opportunities for youth to serve community and country.

Auto Action Is Settled, Case Partially Tried

The automobile negligence action brought in Supreme Court by Harry Guy Dembo of Kerhonkson and Signund Rataffia of Schenectady against William E. Marks and Miss Carol Schoonmaker of Ellenville, was settled Wednesday after being partially tried. Plaintiffs alleged the Marks car had rolled from a parking space at the Marine Room restaurant onto Route 209 and Miss Schoonmaker in an attempt to avoid the Marks car struck the truck of plaintiff Dembo and the Rataffia vehicle, both of which were traveling south on Route 209. The accident occured March 1, 1959.

Philip Korn appeared for plaintiff Dembo and the defendants were represented by Cook and Cook and McCabe and McCabe.

The action was commenced before Justice Louis G. Bruhn and a jury.

Kingston Rotary Club Welcomes Members

At its regualr luncheon-meeting held Wednesday, Kingston Rotary Club formally welcomed three members who recently joined the local service club.

Giving brief sketches of their lives were the following new members:

Fred Furstenberg, proprietor of Happy House Gift Shop; Gerald Shampo, executive director of the Children's Home and Dr. Kurken V. Kirk, physician.

Because of the Memorial Day holiday next Wednesday, Kingston Rotary will join the Kiwanis Club on Thursday, May 31.

First Settlement

Puerto Rico's first settlement was made more than 450 years ago. Ponce de Leon, first governor of the island, made the settlement in 1508 at a site between San Juan and the new Dorado Beach resort on the north coast of the island.

Tolls for the St. Lawrence Seaway are scaled to pay for the project in 50 years.

Problem: Where Is Spade Queen?

BY OSWALD JACOBY
Written for Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

In today's hand, sent me by my old correspondent, Mr. J. P. Guertin of Montreal, I have shown only 12 cards in the East and West hands. The reason is that I want you readers to be faced with the same problem that Mr. Guertin and his partner presented South.

South won the opening club with his king and led the deuce of hearts. West played the jack. This play marked him with the king.

South cashed dummy's ace of clubs and ran the diamond suit. His own discards were four spades and the queen of hearts so that he was left with the ace, king and jack of spades.

East discarded five clubs so that he was left with two small spades and one mystery card, which South knew would have to be either the seven of hearts or the queen of spades. West discarded the four-eight-nine and five of hearts and three of spades in that exact order.

He was clearly left with a small spade, the king of hearts and one mystery card.

If West's mystery card were the queen of spades South could make the rest of the tricks by dropping it. If it were the seven of hearts a spade finesse would be the winning play.

Actually, West's mystery card was the queen of spades and South tried the finesse and went down two tricks.

What would you have done?

Mostly Urban

Census figures reveal that of the 437 members of the U. S. House of Representatives 300 are from districts with an urban population exceeding 50 per cent, while 137 districts were more than 50 per cent rural.

Auto Action Is Settled, Case Partially Tried

The automobile negligence action brought in Supreme Court by Harry Guy Dembo of Kerhonkson and Signund Rataffia of Schenectady against William E. Marks and Miss Carol Schoonmaker of Ellenville, was settled Wednesday after being partially tried. Plaintiffs alleged the Marks car had rolled from a parking space at the Marine Room restaurant onto Route 209 and Miss Schoonmaker in an attempt to avoid the Marks car struck the truck of plaintiff Dembo and the Rataffia vehicle, both of which were traveling south on Route 209. The accident occured March 1, 1959.

Philip Korn appeared for plaintiff Dembo and the defendants were represented by Cook and Cook and McCabe and McCabe.

The action was commenced before Justice Louis G. Bruhn and a jury.

Kingston Rotary Club Welcomes Members

At its regualr luncheon-meeting held Wednesday, Kingston Rotary Club formally welcomed three members who recently joined the local service club.

Giving brief sketches of their lives were the following new members:

Fred Furstenberg, proprietor of Happy House Gift Shop; Gerald Shampo, executive director of the Children's Home and Dr. Kurken V. Kirk, physician.

Because of the Memorial Day holiday next Wednesday, Kingston Rotary will join the Kiwanis Club on Thursday, May 31.

First Settlement

Puerto Rico's first settlement was made more than 450 years ago. Ponce de Leon, first governor of the island, made the settlement in 1508 at a site between San Juan and the new Dorado Beach resort on the north coast of the island.

Tolls for the St. Lawrence Seaway are scaled to pay for the project in 50 years.

Trim and Alive!

Marilyn Is Back Making Picture, Liked JFK Party

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Marilyn Monroe is back at work after singing "Happy Birthday" to President Kennedy, and everyone is happy—now.

Last week it was a different matter. Twentieth Century-Fox grumbled that "Something's Got to Give" was eight days behind schedule in its first three weeks because of Marilyn's absence. The studio thought she should stay here and work.

She didn't. She left Fox by helicopter Friday noon for Los Angeles International Airport, flew to New York and performed at the party fund-raising celebration in Madison Square Garden.

"I told the studio six weeks ago that I was going," she explained. "I consider it an honor to appear before the President of the United States."

Besides, she said, she is a Democrat.

Marilyn reported back to work on time—for her—Monday morning.

The noted blonde was in fine form when I visited her. Her spirits were still high from the Garden appearance, her first public performance since she entertained troops in Korea. "I liked it," she said.

About the rest of her form: dandy. Fifteen pounds have melted away, leaving a trim but still curvy figure. How did she do it?

"It helps to have a bad gall bladder," said Marilyn, who had hers removed last June. "The rest is low cholesterol; avoid animal fats. Who needs them? Eskimos, maybe. Not us."

Marilyn's new figure comes in handy for "Something's Got to Give." She wears a bikini in it, even takes a swim in the nude. She'll appear in the bikini, not otherwise; movies haven't gone that far yet.

Marilyn commented on a variety of matters, including her birthday June 1. She admitted unabashedly that she'll be 36.

"I like celebrating birthdays. I enjoy knowing that I'm alive. And you can underline 'alive.'"

Weekly Food Review

Supermarket produce counters are taking on a festive air with the arrival of increasing numbers of watermelons, cherries, blackberries, peaches, cantaloupes and strawberries.

As the harvest of these delicacies moves northward with the season, prices are falling steadily.

Vegetable selections also show the effect of the calendar's progress, with sweet corn, snap beans, asparagus, radishes and cucumbers becoming available at correspondingly lower prices.

For main courses, there is a good selection of easily cooked items — pork chops, ground beef and bacon.

Smoked hams and picnics and rump, round and chuck roasts are widely featured.

Lower prices on cheese and other dairy products also assist in fixing the quick, light meal.

For budget stretching, broiler-fryers and turkeys are again top nominees as prices continue very low.

Seaway Traffic Off

OTTAWA (AP) — Traffic last month on the Montreal-Lake Ontario section of the St. Lawrence Seaway was 928,561 tons, a 24.5 per cent drop from traffic during April of last year.

Welland canal traffic dropped 3.7 per cent from last year's 1,861,435 tons in April.

The statistics are preliminary and are "in no way conclusive toward indicating a trend for the 1962 season," the Seaway Authority said Wednesday.

Dallas Banker, 82, Sees No Economic Upheaval Coming

EDITOR'S NOTE—Want to keep your blood pressure down; want to read the financial news without taking a tranquilizer? In this, last of three articles on the business scene in Texas, Sam Dawson, AP business news analyst, tells how one man does it.

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — "Paper profits make you happy every morning when you look at the stock tables in the paper. But they don't do you, or the country, any good until they're turned into cash and spent."

That is a calm view to take of what's been happening on Wall Street—the wiping out of millions and millions of dollars of paper profits. But if you'd spent the last 56 years helping turn a small town into a city like Dallas, complete with skyscrapers and traffic jams, maybe you would also be pretty slow to panic.

Robert L. Thornton Sr., silver-haired and deeply tanned, pushed back the work on his desk where, at 82, he keeps plugging along at his job as chairman of the Mercantile National Bank of Dallas.

"Whether it's the cantaloupe market or the stock market, there will be readjustments," he said. "And in this country it's essential that we have some economic and market disturbances. Otherwise with our American temperament, we would go wild—and all on paper profits, with nothing really in the cash register."

From the vantage point of his years of experience with crises, big and small, Thornton is serene in his appraisal of all the hullaballoo that younger men—whether in the White House, industrial executive suites or labor union headquarters—are kicking up.

"This flareup over steel prices and the talk about a new anti-business trend in government—so far, at any rate, it has disturbed a lot of businessmen, here as elsewhere, but it hasn't really hurt many of them," he says.

"I can't see any economic upheaval in the making, or any really radical switch in government attitude and policies, that will retard the progress and development of the country. In this nation political claptrap won't keep the people from doing what they want to do." To that, after a moment's thought, he adds, "If they are able."

The banker says that in Dallas and in most parts of the nation, "the big thing is we're able to buy."

"People have money. A few are worried by loss of paper profits in the market. But basically business is sound. The top men of the companies here in Texas have their feet on the ground. They're alert and cutting out unprofitable lines," he said.

"They don't like what's been going on in Washington. All this turmoil over wage demands and the right of business to set prices is disturbing and must be worked out, and will be. And it's hard for most of us out here to keep up with, let alone understand, all the trouble spots in the world. But in spite of all that the country is in good shape."

Thornton pushed the unfinished business a little farther to one side on his desk.

"If you'll excuse me," he said "I'm a little late. I have a dat eto go fishing."

And off he went, straight and alert—and real calm about everything—except maybe about how the fish would bite.

Meeting Set Tuesday For School Parents

A meeting of parents of sixth grade students of the Onteora Central Schools will be held Tuesday May 29 at 7:30 p. m., in the cafeteria of the central building, Boiceville. Each family has received an invitation to this meeting, which is planned to inform the parents of the junior high school program and to discuss some potential problems which may hinder their child's progress.

The sixth grade teachers will be present as co-hostesses with the P-TA hospitality committee. Those interested may attend the meeting. Refreshments will be served.

Students in the sixth grade will be visited during the next week by Mrs. Mollie Gersoni of the guidance department. Mrs. Gersoni will be their counselor when they enter seventh grade this fall.

The classroom visits are planned to help prepare the students for this big step in September. A brief outline of what may be expected will be explained to them and an explanation of Buddy Day will be made.

Vols Discuss Formation of Police Squads

Formation of fire police squads for each volunteer company in the Town of Woodstock was discussed at a recent joint meeting. Final approval is now up to the individual companies.

The meeting, held at the Zena firehouse was attended by 36 representatives of the four companies and commissioners of the district. Other topics of mutual interest were discussed. Refreshments were served at the close of the business session.

The next joint meeting will be held at the Woodstock Firehouse Monday, Aug. 27, at 8 p. m. with Company No. 1 as host.

Names Rochester Man

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy has nominated Paul E. McNamara, a Rochester, N.Y., attorney and a Democrat, to be collector of customs for District No. 8 with headquarters in Rochester.

The President named him Wednesday to succeed Norman Kreckman in the $10,635 post.

Dairymen Appeal For Delay in Milk Decision

WASHINGTON (AP) — Northeastern dairymen have appealed to the U.S. Agriculture Department to defer a decision on raising the price for manufacturing milk until new hearings are held.

More than 35 dairymen from 15 cooperatives in the Northeast made the request at a meeting Wednesday with Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman, who was non-committal.

They said that, if the higher price went into effect on July 1 as scheduled, Northeast cooperatives would be in difficulty in their markets. They said they now had trouble selling their manufacturing milk at the existing price because of milk surpluses.

Manufacturing milk is used for such products as ice cream and cheese.

On July 1, the Northeast price for manufacturing milk is to become equal to the price received by dairymen in the Midwest. It is expected to mean an increase averaging 10 cents per hundredweight (46.5 quarts).

The Metropolitan Cooperative Milk Producers Bargaining Agency estimates that Northeast dairymen now receive $2.90 per hundredweight for manufacturing milk.

The dairymen told Freeman the price should be geared to differing conditions in each section of the country. They also asked him to eliminate a section of the New England milk marketing order that will increase the price of manufacturing milk there an average of 5 to 8 cents a hundredweight July 1.

The increase will destroy competition between New England New York-New Jersey dairymen, they said.

Freeman said he would review the requests and announce a decision as soon as possible.

New York cooperatives represented at the meeting were:

Dairymen's League, Metropolitan and the Mutual Federation of Independent Cooperatives.

London's Firsts

London's first multistory automatic garages began to open in 1961 and a large one was opened at Aldersgate. During the same year, the first quick car-washing plant arrived in Great Britain.

Largest elephant ever known stood 13 feet two inches at the shoulder and weighed about 12 tons.

Gallegos Ends Training

Michael C. Gellegos, son of Mrs. Margaret J. Gallegos of Kerhonkson, completed recruit training, April 27, at the Naval Training Center, Great Lakes, Ill. The nine-week training includes classroom instruction in such naval subjects as seamanship, ordnance and gunnery, damage control and military customs and courtesies. A full-dress parade and review before military officials and civilian dignitaries marked the end of the training period.

Beautiful Plants Can Be Dangerous

Vacation time and summer camping will bring many people into contact with plants that can be dangerous to them, points out Dr. E. Franklin Hall of the Ulster County Department of Health. Everyone knows of the intense discomfort caused by poison ivy, but not all of us are aware that the ornamental English ivy and the beautiful primrose or lily of the valley can be poisonous to susceptible persons. Many plants and shrubs commonly grown about the home can be harmful on contact to especially sensitive people. Other plants are poisonous when chewed or eaten.

The leaves of the tree of heaven can give an unheavenly itch to some people. Poison sumac in the Northeast and poison-wood in the Southeast can be worse than poison ivy or poison oak. Others that can be troublesome are parsnips, rhubarb, wild ginger, wild carrot, hops, juniper, dock, buckwheat, buttercups, lady slippers, boxwood, autumn crocus, scarlet pimpernel, jimson weed, virgin's bower, and the milky saps of mulberry, snow-on-the-mountain, and osage orange.

Mushroom (toadstool) poisoning is know to all, but less known is the fact that at least 50 per cent of people die who eat the particularly poisonous varieties. Only cultivated mushrooms from reliable sources should be eaten. Even potatoes can be poisonous when they are green or sprouting. So can grains, especially rye, when infected with a certain fungus.

The romantic mistletoe has been fatal for several children who ate its berries. Bulbs of the Easter lily and other lilies can also be dangerous and should be kept out of the reach of small children.

Other plants that may cause serious poisoning or death if eaten include foxglove, larkspur, oriental poppies, oleander, Daphne, English ivy, narcissus, meadow saffron and matrimony vine.

Under certain growing conditions some plants produce the deadly poison, hydrocyanic or prussic acid. These include wild cherries, flax, Christmas berry, choke cherry, sorghum, arrow grass, velvet grass, and Sudan grass.

Marijuana, or hemp, requires special mention. This devastating narcotic grows as a wayside weed in many parts of the United States and should be destroyed whenever found.

To avoid discomfort and possibly more serious effects it is suggested that Dad take the youngsters on a field tour of the neighborhood and brief them on what to watch out for. A preliminary trip to the library or an inexpensive paperback book on plants will help him recognize those he is not familiar with.

Boom Summer in View, Catskill Resorts Ready

Prospects for the summer season in the Catskills appear good, area resort proprietors report to the New York State Department of Commerce. The mountain communities are completing preparations for the season and most resorts will be open for a busy summer by Memorial Day.

Expansion Continues

The pattern of expansion begun in the last few years is continuing in the Catskill country. Older establishments are being upgraded and modernized and completely new resorts are being built. An example of the latter in Greene County is at Bavarian Manor where ground has been broken for a 32-unit motel in chalet style. More and more Catskill communities are becoming year-round resorts as hotels are remodeled to permit cold-weather operation. Particularly in ski areas, resorts are finding a winter market and throughout the Catskills the season is being extended into spring and fall.

The Ellenville - Kerhonkson area is another section where construction is adding new accommodations. One feature of the expansion movement is the addition of motel-type operations to old established resort hotels—usually on the traditional American plan which includes both meals and room for the basic rate.

Nearly 50 hotels built recently cater especially to weekend visitors. Many have pools and some have housekeeping units, always a popular feature in the Catskill area.

There are new indoor swimming pools at Winter Clove in Roundtop and at Sheppard's Farm in Greenville. Six Greene County resorts now feature indoor pools for inclement weather as well as outdoor ones.

Adding Golf Course

Among the improvements reported by Frank Byer, of the Ulster-Greene Counties Vacation Association, is a new nine-hole golf course at Saugerties. When completed, in the fall, the course will be open to public play.

The volume of early reservations indicates an excellent season, according to Mrs. Maybelle Zeh, of the Greene County Promotion Committee, and some resorts have good bookings for the late part of the season.

Greene and Ulster Counties, which cover the heart of the Catskills, have more than 500 resorts. A few can accommodate 500 guests but the average operation is geared to a guest list of about 50. Sullivan County is noted for its elaborate resort hotels but can supply accommodations and atmosphere to suit any taste. There are accommodations in the county for nearly a million visitors. Rates at Catskill resorts vary depending on the size of the establishment and the facilities available. Some housekeeping units may be a bit less and top flight luxury hotels run higher.

All but the smallest places have a wide range of recreation on their own premises and at the large hotels the facilities are so elaborate that few guests can find the time or the energy to take advantage of them all. Tennis, golf, riding, swimming — with instruction — are routine activities. A new trend is the provision of craft instruction in such hobbies as paintings and ceramics. Most resorts include after-dark entertainment which often features Broadway and Hollywood personalities.

Two Early Attractions

The big resorts compare with the best anywhere. Big or small, Catskill resorts pride thmselves on their cuisine.

Two early-season events will attract visitors. The Miss New York State pageant, when the Empire State's "Miss America" entry will be chosen, will be held at Kingston July 5-7. The nearby village of Hurley has scheduled its annual Stone House Day visitation for July 12. The old Huguenot community has been designated as a National Historic Site for its unique collection of stone houses more than three centuries old. Most of the houses are still used as residences and are open to visitors only one day a year.

Check Brush Fires

Two fire companies were called out Wednesday to extinguish brush fires. Centerville firemen quelled a brush fire shortly after 5 p. m., and East Kingston firemen were dispatched at 8:23 p. m. to extinguish fire in brush off Route 32.

JFK Sees Value Despite Lack of Solutions

Cumbersome 200 Foredoomed Labor - Management Meetings

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)— It would be nice to think a bunch of labor and business leaders, meeting in an auditorium, could work out their problems amicably by the use of intelligence and sweet reasonableness.

That isn't the history of American labor-management relations.

JFK Plans More

So it was no surprise, when President Kennedy called together 200 labor and management representatives this week to find answers for keeping the economy sound, that after two days they left without solving anything.

There's no reason to think that if they meet again they'll do any better. Nevertheless, Kennedy said he thought there was value in this first one and will have others.

It's possible a far smaller meeting might have accomplished more. Kennedy's permanent 21-man advisory committee—seven each from labor, management and the public—has made progress.

But this committee was confronted with specific problems, like automation and collective bargaining, and came up with recommendations. The 200-man meeting was supposed to discuss everything in the book.

While the very number of them foredoomed them to no agreement so did the fact that they had to deal with generalities instead of specifics.

Only Accord in Crisis

Perhaps if they had been called in the midst of crisis, like war, when they had no time for the luxury of old-fashioned labor-management bickering, they would have done better.

The only two labor-management conferences in history which really reached important, basic agreements were called in wartime, in World Wars I and II.

The overwhelming lesson of labor - management relations in American history shows this:

The one way for these ancient rivals to keep the government out of interfering with their business long ago, and repeatedly, would have been to reach compromise agreements beneficial to both, with both yielding something.

But they didn't. They had to be hit on the head with a government club.

For instance, employers through most of American history fought the attempts of their workers to organize into unions which could bargain for all of them.

It was to the benefit of the employers to keep the employees weak by keeping them divided. Finally, the government had to step in and, through the 1935 Wagner Act, force them to bargain with unions.

May Astonish Future

Then, when Congress thought unions in turn were getting too powerful, it stepped in again and through the 1947 Taft-Harley Act imposed new restrictions on both unions and employers.

It may seem astonishing to future generations that men of this time — in labor and business—couldn't get together and, for their own sake, by being reasonable do for themselves what government had to do for them.

If the time comes when labor and management do by themselves reach reasonable understandings it probably will not be so much the result of a new intelligence as fear that they had better be sensible or watch the government step in.

Palen Reenlists

Stephen C. Palen, hospitalman, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Palen of Esopus, reenlisted for six years, May 3, under the Selective Training and Retention (STAR) Program, while serving at the Naval Hospital, St. Albans, L.I. The program enables qualified naval personnel to enter special training programs. Upon completion, they must obligate themselves to serve a minimum of four years active duty. Before entering the Navy in November 1960, Palen was graduated from Kingston High School.

Our beer is 50 years behind the times

(and we're proud of it)

Why anybody would want to modernize the taste of a good glass of beer is something I could never understand.

We still make a traditional pilsener at our brewery, and we still make it the old way.

It comes from the harvest, not the laboratory.

We use whole grains only; no syrups or extracts.

We use only choice grade malt and hops.

We age the beer for months, not just for weeks, to give it a natural life of its own. No artificial carbonation.

To produce a beer like this today isn't easy. But what a difference it makes.

You can smell the hops and you can taste the malt.

The head is thick and creamy and it leaves a nice lace collar on the side of the glass going down.

It has maturity and body and character.

The name of our beer is Utica Club.

You may like it or you may not. But you'll respect it.

Walter J. Matt, President, The West End Brewing Company of Utica, New York.

Lamb Shanks Trot Home With a Cookout Prize

GAYNOR MADDOX
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

On a balmy day last March, press photographers, sports writers, wire service reporters and newspapermen watched 25 finalists compete in the national all-male Championship Cookout in Hawaii. The prize was $10,000. There were 4 runner-up prizes of Jeep station wagons. This sporting contest, sponsored by Kaiser Foil, had been entered by contestants from 17 states.

Joseph D. Stephens, a Fresno, Calif., undertaker, won one of the Jeeps with his Barbecued Lamb Shanks Armenian. Stephens, like the 24 other finalists, grilled and hoped and smoked and prayed for hours in the gardens of the Hawaiian Village, as tension mounted and the five judges (your correspondent was one) tasted and appraised each finished entry.

The battle over, the judges went into a huddle for two days. Then came the big moment. As each of the five winners stepped up, Joan Crawford, glamour movie star, charged with presenting the prizes, gave each an enthusiastic kiss. Which may be another reason why outdoor cooking has become such a popular all-male sport.

Barbecued Lamb Shanks Armenian
(Serves 4)

Four lamb shanks, salt, 2 teaspoons peppercorns, freshly ground; 1 tablespoon monosodium glutamate, 2 large Bermuda onions, chopped; 2 cloves garlic, finely chopped; ½ green pepper, finely chopped; 1 tablespoon ground oregano, 2 cups coarsely chopped parsley, 2 tablespoons wine vinegar, ¼ cup olive oil, 4 strips fat bacon, ¼ cup chopped fresh mint, ½ cup tangerine or orange juice, 8 prepared grape leaves (or 4 fresh spinach leaves), 12 parsley sprigs, fresh tangerine or orange sections, quilted cooking foil (broiling).

Lightly season shanks with salt, freshly ground pepper and monosodium glutamate. Set aside.

Place onions, garlic, green pepper, oregano, parsley, wine vinegar and oil in large wooden salad bowl; toss as you would a salad. Place each shank on a square of quilted cooking foil, cover with ¼ of the tossed mixture and wrap each tightly and firmly. Refrigerate 24 hours.

Line firebox of grill with quilted cooking foil. Add charcoal, light. Let burn until flames disappear and gray ash begins to form.

Take meat packages from refrigerator, unwrap, remove excess mixture and wind a bacon strip around each shank spiral-fashion; secure with picks. Place shanks in wire basket that fits spit; place over coals and turn motor to slow speed.

Lightly muddle mint with tangerine juice. Baste shanks with mixture occasionally.

After approximately 40 minutes, remove shanks to warm serving platter, pouring remainder of basting sauce over them.

Garnish with prepared grape leaves, parsley and tangerine or orange sections.

ARMENIAN LAMB SHANKS trotted home as a prize-winning recipe for Joseph D. Stephens, Fresno, Calif.

Low Heels Back

Low heels are coming in at last to replace high heels even for evening wear. The gold cobra pump for evening has a low, stacked heel.

Automobile accidents caused 1.35 million disabling injuries in the United States during 1959.

When you shop for linen dresses this summer, check to make sure that the skirt is lined. The dress will look better and hold its shape (not yours) in humid weather.

On a balmy day last March, press photographers, sports writers, wire service reporters and newspapermen watched 25 finalists compete in the national all-male Championship Cookout in Hawaii. The prize was $10,000. There were 4 runner-up prizes of Jeep station wagons. This sporting contest, sponsored by Kaiser Foil, had been entered by contestants from 17 states.

Joseph D. Stephens, a Fresno, Calif., undertaker, won one of the Jeeps with his Barbecued Lamb Shanks Armenian. Stephens, like the 24 other finalists, grilled and hoped and smoked and prayed for hours in the gardens of the Hawaiian Village, as tension mounted and the five judges (your correspondent was one) tasted and appraised each finished entry.

The battle over, the judges went into a huddle for two days. Then came the big moment. As each of the five winners stepped up, Joan Crawford, glamour movie star, charged with presenting the prizes, gave each an enthusiastic kiss. Which may be another reason why outdoor cooking has become such a popular all-male sport.

Barbecued Lamb Shanks Armenian
(Serves 4)

Four lamb shanks, salt, 2 teaspoons peppercorns, freshly ground; 1 tablespoon monosodium glutamate, 2 large Bermuda onions, chopped; 2 cloves garlic, finely chopped; ½ green pepper, finely chopped; 1 tablespoon ground oregano, 2 cups coarsely chopped parsley, 2 tablespoons wine vinegar, ¼ cup olive oil, 4 strips fat bacon, ¼ cup chopped fresh mint, ½ cup tangerine or orange juice, 8 prepared grape leaves (or 4 fresh spinach leaves), 12 parsley sprigs, fresh tangerine or orange sections, quilted cooking foil (broiling).

Lightly season shanks with salt, freshly ground pepper and monosodium glutamate. Set aside.

Place onions, garlic, green pepper, oregano, parsley, wine vinegar and oil in large wooden salad bowl; toss as you would a salad. Place each shank on a square of quilted cooking foil, cover with ¼ of the tossed mixture and wrap each tightly and firmly. Refrigerate 24 hours.

Line firebox of grill with quilted cooking foil. Add charcoal, light. Let burn until flames disappear and gray ash begins to form.

Take meat packages from refrigerator, unwrap, remove excess mixture and wind a bacon strip around each shank spiral-fashion; secure with picks. Place shanks in wire basket that fits spit; place over coals and turn motor to slow speed.

Lightly muddle mint with tangerine juice. Baste shanks with mixture occasionally.

After approximately 40 minutes, remove shanks to warm serving platter, pouring remainder of basting sauce over them.

Garnish with prepared grape leaves, parsley and tangerine or orange sections.

ARMENIAN LAMB SHANKS trotted home as a prize-winning recipe for Joseph D. Stephens, Fresno, Calif.

Refugees' Flow Continues, Reds Make Food Plea

HONG KONG (AP) — Blaring Communist loudspeakers today appealed to Chinese fleeing Red China to stay home and help grow needed food. But Red border guards reportedly made no attempt to stop the flow of refugees to Hong Kong.

About 5,000 succeeded in getting across the frontier into this British crown colony before dawn. Sources in the border area said all but about 500 were rounded up by British police and army patrols. They were rushed to a detention camp for return to Red China.

Reports from the sealed-off border area said the Communist loudspeaker broadcasts to throngs massing along the Hong Kong line were given as patriotic advice rather than orders. Border sources said they had nothing to substantiate earlier Hong Kong press reports that Red guards had commanded the waiting mobs to turn back and fired warning shots when their orders went unheeded.

The Hong Kong government expressed appreciation for the interest and concern shown by the United States for Hong Kong's problem.

A government spokesman voiced the appreciation after reports that President Kennedy had cleared the way for between 5,000 and 6,000 refugees to be admitted to the United States.

Astro's Mom Very Happy

BOULDER, Colo. (AP)—Florence Carpenter, mother of astronaut Malcolm Scott Carpenter, said today she was very happy with the successful launching of the space capsule.

"The liftoff was terrific. Two of the announcements I had been waiting for pleased me. One, the clock was started, and two, the flight was good for seven orbits," she said.

Mrs. Carpenter works in the records department of Boulder Community Hospital. She lives in a trailer home nearby.

She awoke at 4 a.m., had breakfast and settled calmly with a group of friends before a television set to watch the launching.

A small crowd gathered outside the trailer and several hundred persons assembled at the University of Colorado auditorium where she will hold a formal news conference after the landing of Carpenter's capsule.

Carpenter is a native of Boulder and an alumnus of the university.

Dutchess School Vote Is June 19

Balloting on the proposed Hyde Park-Staatsburg Central School District budget of $2,742,814 for 1962-63 has been scheduled by the Board of Education for Tuesday, June 19. Voting will take place at Roosevelt High School from 1:30 p. m. to 9 p. m.

Superintendent of Schools Walter Clifford said the budget figure for next year is the same amount of the proposed estimates made known several weeks ago.

The true value tax rate for the new budget is $14.23 per $1,000 for Hyde Park district residents and $12.66 per $1,000 for Staatsburg area residents.

Dallas Doctor Named

SARANAC LAKE, N. Y. (AP)—Dr. Hollis Grady Boren, chief of medical service at the Veterans Administration Hospital in Houston, Tex., will become director of the Trudeau Foundation Research Laboratory here.

Boren, 39, a native of Dallas, Tex., was appointed to the post Wednesday night by the foundation's board of directors at a meeting in New York City. The position long has been vacant.

The laboratory's research deals mainly with chest diseases.

AMERICA'S 4th MAN IN SPACE:

AT A BRIEFING SESSION BEFORE FRIENDSHIP 7 LAUNCH.

HIS PARENTS, WHO LIVE IN COLORADO SPRINGS, COLO.

WITH WIFE, RENE, MARK SCOTT, 13, ROBYN JAY, 10, KRISTEN ELAINE, 6, AND CANDACE NOXON, 5.

Astronaut Malcolm Scott Carpenter today made his flight into space in a Mercury capsule. The 37-year-old former Navy pilot is America's fourth man in space and second to orbit the earth. Carpenter is a native of Boulder, Colo., and trained as a Navy flier in World War II. He returned to Boulder to study aeronautical engineering at the University of Colorado. It was there he met and married his blonde wife, Rene. In 1949, Carpenter rejoined the service and later flew combat missions in the Korean War. Then he became a Navy test pilot and air intelligence officer until selection as a Mercury astronaut. Lt. Cmdr. Carpenter's flight is the climax of three years of rigorous training—and also the climax of his life, stages of which are illustrated above. Riding with Carpenter in his capsule will be the love and prayers of his father and stepmother, Mr. and Mrs. Scott Carpenter, his family—and the entire world.

N.J. Reminders Going Out for Commuter Taxes

TRENTON, N.J. (AP) — The New Jersey tax division will mail reminders to some 30,000 New Yorkers who have failed to pay their commuter income taxes and warn that they may be subject to penalties and interest charges.

The returns from 65,000 New Yorkers who work in New Jersey were due May 1, but only about 34,000 have come in. Sidney Glaser, assistant to the tax director, said Wednesday.

Marchers Against Violence Plan Woodstock Visits

A group representing the Committee for Non-Violent Action, reportedly marching to Washington, D. C., stopped over Wednesday night at Bard College, Annandale-on-the Hudson, where they met on the campus with some students and made brief remarks.

A spokesman at Bard College told The Freeman the group came to Bard from New England, on their way to Washington. The spokesman said she understood the group stops over night at colleges on their way.

The college spokesman said the CNVA group was "very self-disciplined." There was no incident during their visit. No Bard students took part in the march.

After a brief stop in Kingston in front of the Senate House, the group planned to march to a point about three miles outside of the city where they were to be picked up and taken in cars to Woodstock.

Theodore Sturgeon, a member of the Overlook Methodist Church, Woodstock, said the vestry board of the church voted recently to permit the CNVA group to use the church hall where they will have dinner today about 5 p. m. At 7:30 p. m. a public meeting will be held in the church when members of the group will explain the purpose of the march and answer question.

Sturgeon said that the Rev. James W. Cook, pastor of the church noted that permission to use the church facilities does not represent the views of the church or any of its members. Sturgeon said the Rev. Mr. Cook felt is is a Christian duty to hear all sides of a controversial question.

The group stopping over here is one of three formed recently to march to Washington to protest resumption of nuclear testing.

Parboil green peppers before stuffing, then bake them in a moderate oven. Cover the stuffing with buttered crumbs.

Viets Sentence 3 to Death for Plot on Nolting

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) —A special military tribunal sentenced three Vietnamese to death today for plotting to assassinate U.S. Ambassador Frederick E. Nolting Jr. with a hand grenade last July 8.

The tribunal also sentenced a soldier to death for spying for the Communist Viet Cong.

Three other Vietnamese were convicted of being accomplices in the plot against Nolting. They were given 5 to 10 years at hard labor.

The death sentences now go to President Ngo Dinh Diem for confirmation or modification.

The grenade thrown at the ambassador's car did not go off. Defense attorneys claimed it was intended as a warning only and that the detonating pin was deliberately not pulled.

Then he became a Navy test pilot and air intelligence officer until selection as a Mercury astronaut. Lt. Cmdr. Carpenter's flight is the climax of three years of rigorous training—and also the climax of his life, stages of which are illustrated above. Riding with Carpenter in his capsule will be the love and prayers of his father and stepmother, Mr. and Mrs. Scott Carpenter, his family—and the entire world.

N.J. Reminders Going Out for Commuter Taxes

TRENTON, N.J. (AP) — The New Jersey tax division will mail reminders to some 30,000 New Yorkers who have failed to pay their commuter income taxes and warn that they may be subject to penalties and interest charges.

The returns from 65,000 New Yorkers who work in New Jersey were due May 1, but only about 34,000 have come in. Sidney Glaser, assistant to the tax director, said Wednesday.

Marchers Against Violence Plan Woodstock Visits

A group representing the Committee for Non-Violent Action, reportedly marching to Washington, D. C., stopped over Wednesday night at Bard College, Annandale-on-the Hudson, where they met on the campus with some students and made brief remarks.

A spokesman at Bard College told The Freeman the group came to Bard from New England, on their way to Washington. The spokesman said she understood the group stops over night at colleges on their way.

The college spokesman said the CNVA group was "very self-disciplined." There was no incident during their visit. No Bard students took part in the march.

After a brief stop in Kingston in front of the Senate House, the group planned to march to a point about three miles outside of the city where they were to be picked up and taken in cars to Woodstock.

Theodore Sturgeon, a member of the Overlook Methodist Church, Woodstock, said the vestry board of the church voted recently to permit the CNVA group to use the church hall where they will have dinner today about 5 p. m. At 7:30 p. m. a public meeting will be held in the church when members of the group will explain the purpose of the march and answer question.

Sturgeon said that the Rev. James W. Cook, pastor of the church noted that permission to use the church facilities does not represent the views of the church or any of its members. Sturgeon said the Rev. Mr. Cook felt is is a Christian duty to hear all sides of a controversial question.

The group stopping over here is one of three formed recently to march to Washington to protest resumption of nuclear testing.

Viets Sentence 3 to Death for Plot on Nolting

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) —A special military tribunal sentenced three Vietnamese to death today for plotting to assassinate U.S. Ambassador Frederick E. Nolting Jr. with a hand grenade last July 8.

The tribunal also sentenced a soldier to death for spying for the Communist Viet Cong.

Three other Vietnamese were convicted of being accomplices in the plot against Nolting. They were given 5 to 10 years at hard labor.

The death sentences now go to President Ngo Dinh Diem for confirmation or modification.

The grenade thrown at the ambassador's car did not go off. Defense attorneys claimed it was intended as a warning only and that the detonating pin was deliberately not pulled.

Demand Is Made For Resignation Of Gen. Phoumi

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP)—Royal government officials reported today that the United States has demanded Gen. Phoumi Nosavan, strongman of the pro-Western Vientiane regime, resign his Cabinet posts.

Phoumi, vice premier of Prince Boun Oum's government, controls the royal armed forces as defense and interior minister. The Kennedy administration blames him for blocking negotiations to set up a coalition government in Laos under neutralist Prince Souvanna Phouma.

May Reconsider Aid

Responsible government officials said W. Averell Harriman, U.S. assistant secretary of state, summoned the Laotian ambassador in Washington and told him the United States has no more confidence in Phoumi.

Harriman reportedly said Phoumi must quit the government or the United States will be obliged to reconsider its aid to the Vientiane regime.

The Laotian officials charged Harriman with interference in Laos internal affairs.

They charged Harriman's stand was prompted by a personal quarrel he had with Phoumi when the American diplomat came to Vientiane in March to urge Boum Oum to join in coalition talks with Souvanna Phouma and pro-Communist Prince Souphanouvong.

Reports from Washington previously said President Kennedy is backing the move to curtail Phoumi's power—preferably by getting him to yield his Cabinet posts and confine himself to purely military matters.

Prince Souvanna Phouma, heading home from France to set up talks with the two other princes, was delayed again today leaving Rangoon by stormy weather over his headquarters at Khang Khay, in central Laos.

Astro's Wife Sees Shot From Beach

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) —Rene Carpenter was reported somewhere on the beach today sharing the moment unobserved among other watchers when her husband, astronaut Malcolm Scott Carpenter, was hurled into orbital flight.

Mrs. Carpenter is the first of the astronauts' wives actually to witness a blastoff putting her husband into flight. Her whereabouts remained a mystery but it was reported she and her four children watched only a few miles from the launching pad.

Lt. Col. John A. Powers, public affairs officer of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, said Wednesday that Mrs. Carpenter had chosen to watch as a private citizen and preferred seclusion.

IRS Has Opening For Special Agent In Albany Area

The Internal Revenue Service has immediate openings in the position of Special Agent in the Albany area, District Director James A. O'Hara announced today.

The tax official said that college graduates who majored in business administration or related areas and have completed 12 semester hours in accounting and 12 semester hours in business subjects, or persons having a six-year LL.B degree may qualify for this challenging and rewarding career employment opportunity. Applications will also be accepted from persons having three years of progressively responsible experience in positions which required extensive knowledge and application of accounting and auditing principles and from individuals possessing this experience and an additional year of experience in the field of criminal investigations. Passing a written test to measure investigative aptitudes and qualifying in a personal interview are also required."

Starting salaries for this position range up to $5,355 per year with rapid advancement to salaries of $7,500 per year. Career development programs including training and advancement provide for professional growth and commensurate salary advances. The vacation and sick leave policies, low-cost expense — sharing insurance and health benefit programs that are offered compare favorably with those available anywhere. This position offers a 20-year retirement program.

O'Hara advised persons interested in this employment may contact the personnel office, Albany District Office or send an application, Form 5000 AB, directly to Board of Civil Service Examiners, Internal Revenue Service, 90 Church Street, New York 7. This form may be obtained from the Albany District Office, any Post Office or for college students, from their college placement office.

Shoplifters Reported

Two Kingston teenagers were apprehended Wednesday for allegedly shoplifting in the Woolworth store uptown, according to city police, who said that their parents and store management would meet concerning the matter.

Shepherd Club Elects Officers

The Mohawk-Hudson German Shepherd Dog Club commemorated its first anniversary with a dinner meeting held at the Elsmerian Restaurant, Elsmere recently.

Officers elected to serve during the coming fiscal year are president, Mrs. Gilbert Kortz, Elnora; first vice president, Mrs. William Ker, Alcove, second vice president, William Meyers, Voorheesville; secretary, Mrs. Edward Jones, Albany; information secretary, Mrs. James Havelin, Hagaman; treasurer, Mrs. William Oppel, Elizaville; historian, Mrs. Warren Van Kleeck, this city.

Director of affairs pertaining to obedience training and shows is Edward Jones, Albany. Governors elected are William Ker, Alcove; William Oppel, Elizaville and Warren Van Kleeck, this city.

The group, whose intention is to be representative of the breeders, exhibitors and other breed enthusiasts in the Hudson Valley area, is devoted to the promotion and improvement of the German Shepherd Dog breed. Inquiries are welcomed and in this area should be addressed to Mrs. Warren Van Kleeck, RD 1, Box 464, Kingston.

It is estimated that three of every five American families are buying their own home.

WALLKILL NEWS

C of C Banquet Held; Plans Are Made for Events

WALLKILL—Members of the Wallkill Chamber and their guests were entertained recently by the antics of the Hungry Five, a musical group and Alan White, comic.

Members of the Hungry Five are Donald Newton, leader, and tuba player; Douglas Wood, trumpeter; Jack Vargo, trombonist; and clarinetists, Juanita Newton and Jeffrey Morris.

Alan White impersonated television personality, Bob Newhart.

During the regular business meeting, an invitation was read and accepted by the Chamber from the Rose-Sheeley Post 1034 American Legion to take part in the Memorial Day parade.

The blood bank was announced to be held June 6 at the Legion Hall from 4 to 8 p. m. A chest X-ray clinic was also announced to be held Tuesday, June 5, at the Town Building. The clinic will be available free of charge to all residents of the Wallkill area.

The banquet committee was officers, and board of directors, as well as Walter G. Smith, George Heitman and George Sanford.

At a directors' meeting 7:30 p. m., Joseph N. Vogel was appointed to fill the unexpired term of Edward Kilduff, and officers elected were president, George Brach; vice president, C. E. Penney, and treasurer, Claude L. Decker. Mrs. Lois Morris was also re-appointed secretary for the chamber.

Events Scheduled

The Town of Shawangunk Democratic Club will hold its regular monthly meeting Monday 8 p. m., in the Wallkill firehouse. Refreshments will be served.

The teachers and officers of the Wallkill Reformed Church Sunday school will hold a meeting Friday 8 p. m. in the church hall. All teachers are asked to make a special effort to attend.

Wallkill Reformed Church Sunday school will sponsor an old-fashioned strawberry festival at the church property Wednesday evening, June 13. A chicken and biscuit dinner will be served in the church hall continuosly from 5 to 7 p. m. Tickets will be on sale from any teacher of the Sunday school. Following there will be refreshments available on the church lawn, and homemade candy for sale. There will be special events for the children. The Wallkill Central School Band will present an outdoor band concert at 8 p. m.

Members and guests of the Wallkill Woman's Club had luncheon at the Flo-Jean Restaurant Saturday. Mrs. Dorothy Irene Faas gave a talk on herbs. She discussed three varities, the culinary, ornamental and fragant type of herb. She also had a display of plants, herb products, and showed slides of some famous herb gardens. Mrs. Edmunt Walther was program chairman. The June meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Walter Wallack.

The Wallkill Home Demonstration Unit will hold its yearly display of projects at Pat Poole's former Variety Store the week of Memorial Day. Members who have something they wish to exhibit may contact Mrs. S. Kelso Sloan, the beginning of next week.

'47 Class Reunion

The Class of 1947 of Wallkill Central School recently held a 15th Reunion at Little Brook Farm. Guests were Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Robinson, principal; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Morrissey (Miss Mary Maher), who was Class Advisor 1947; and Mr. and Mrs. John Gardiner, (Miss Shirley Reubenheimer) to whom the Yearbook in 1947 was dedicated. William Keeping was toastmaster for the occasion.

Classmates attending were: Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Miekeowcic, Minneapolis, Minnesota (Delores Miske); Mr. and Mrs. Robert A. Fear, (Dorothy Tears) Schnectady, Mr. and Mrs. William Daas (Anne Rutgers) Fishkill; Mr. and Mrs. James Hansen, (Peggy Smith) Poughkeepsie; Mr. and Mrs. Harry Pfaff; Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Corey; Mr. and Mrs. John Bruhlman (Edith Lawson); Mr. and Mrs. Ross, (Doris Brown); Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Palen, (Helen Morehouse); Mr. and Mrs. Allison Terwilliger, all of Wallkill; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Giersch, Hastings-on-Hudson; William Keeping, Gardiner; Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Wydra, (Marian Curesky) Goshen; Miss Florence Clark, Albany.

Letters were also read from Lucille (Doolittle) Keese, of El Paso, Texas; Louise (Cameron) Andrews, Montgomery; Calene (Schiro) Canzoneri, California; Genevieve (Baxter) Brandel, Columbia, S. C.

Florence Clark, was the class member who fulfilled the class prophecy on 15 years ago. Delores Miskeloweic was the class member who had traveled the longest distance to attend; and Anne Daas was the class member who had been marrid the longest.

ReformedChurchNotes

Thursday at 3 p. m., junior choir rehearsal will be held at the church; 4 p. m., high school choir rehearsal; 7:30 p. m. senior choir. Sunday 9:45 a. m. Sunday school will convene and at 11 a. m., hour of worship will be conducted by the Rev. Walter N. Van Popering officiating. Guests at the morning service May 27, will be members of the American Legion and their auxiliary of Rose-Sheeley Post 1034. Senior choir will provide the music.

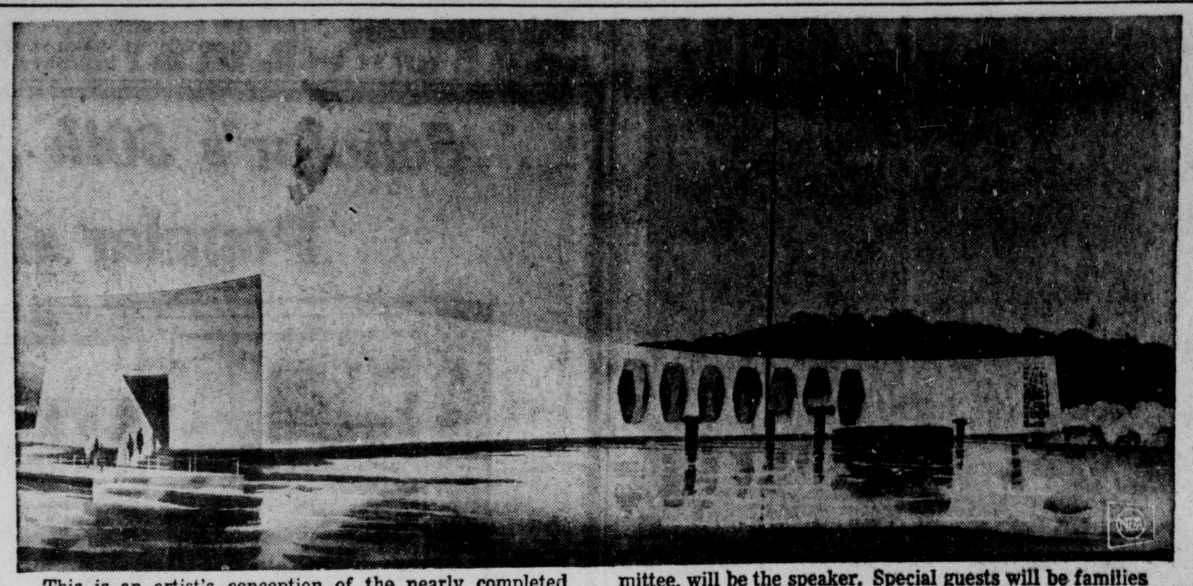
'Today' Job Goes To Hugh Downs

NEW YORK (AP)— Announcer Hugh Downs will succeed John Chancellor in September as host of the National Broadcasting Company's television "Today" program, the network said Wednesday.

Downs also will continue on "Concentration," NBC-TV's daytime program.

However, he will leave the "Tonight" show, with which he has been associated since 1957.

Any candied ginger in the house? Dice it fine and stuff it into the core cavities of apples you are baking; add the usual amount of sugar.



This is an artist's conception of the nearly completed Arizona Memorial at Pearl Harbor, Hawaii. The edifice will be dedicated in Memorial Day ceremonies. Rep. Olin E. Emmy Awards Are Based on Quality Shows

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Radio-Television Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — There are still some bugs in the machinery of the Emmy awards, but this annual balloting within the television industry to reward its best efforts of the year is a fine idea in many ways.

First and most important, the total emphasis is on quality television, currently under so much criticism for its output.

It was noteworthy that on Tuesday night, the little gold statues most often went to programs that rarely, if ever, find their way onto any list of television's 10 or 20 most popular shows.

Take, for example, the play—NBC's "Victoria Regina"—chosen as program of the year. It was seen, unfortunately, by only a small percentage of the vast potential audience because two other special programs were competing for attention at the same time.

"The Defenders" was voted the outstanding drama series. While it is a very popular CBS show, it is invariably watched by smaller numbers than routinely dial in "Wagon Train" or "Bonanza"—both Westerns which have been standing at the head of all popularity lists this season.

Given their own choices, children would probably turn to cartoon shows like "Popeye" or old movie shorts like "The Little Rascals." But it was Leonard Bernstein and the New York Philharmonic Orchestra who won in the children's programming category for their young people's concerts.

Of course, certain impossible situations are set up. How could one decide between "The Defenders" or "Bonanza"—out an complete hour-long program once a week or so, and the one-shot "Victoria Regina" that took much longer in preparation, or between a situation comedy like "Hazel" and "The Bob Newhart Show," humor of quite another kind?

The annual Emmy show answers specifically those critics who insist all television is a wasteland of mediocrity, violence and brutality, formula Westerns and private eyes and hard-sell commercials.

Recommended tonight: "CBS Reports," 10-11 (Eastern Daylight Time)—"Breaking the Trade Barrier," a look at the tariff situation.

Use of Forestland For Recreation Favored by Wilm

MORRISVILLE, N.Y. (AP) — The state conservation commissioner says the use of private forestland and state reforestation land only for timber-raising is inefficient and unprofitable.

Commissioner Harold G. Wilm said other uses—particularly recreational—were needed to meet an increasing demand for recreation space in the state.

He said there were 11 million acres of privately held forest in the state and 600,000 acres of state reforestation land. This is in addition to state holdings in the Forest Preserve.

Wilm made the comments in a speech Wednesday night at a meeting of the Affiliated Sportsmen's Clubs of Madison County.

Lowell Thomas, Two Others Are On Mt. Authority

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Gov. Rockefeller today appointed broadcaster Lowell Thomas and two other men to the newly expanded Adirondack Mountain Authority.

The Legislature this year raised the membership of the authority from five to eight. Its members are not paid.

Besides Thomas, Rockefeller named Arto Monaco of Upper Jay, president and manager of Arto Monaco's Land of Makebelieve Inc. and Land of Makebelieve Restaurants Inc., and Ronald M. MacKenzie, Lake Placid postmaster and organizer of the Lake Placid Ski Club.

Thomas, of Pawling, is a former president of the Mount Tremblant, Quebec, Ski Club.

The appointments are subject to confirmation by the Senate.

Cancer Dressing Report Given at Spring Luncheon

Members of the cancer dressing unit of the Hurley Grange held their annual spring luncheon Tuesday at Hurley Firehouse, having as their guest speaker Mrs. Arthur Freeman, volunteer director of the Ulster County Unit of the American Cancer Society.

Mrs. Frank Kruetzfeldt, chairman, reported 37 members worked 2,431 hours in the past seven months during which time they made 12,504 dressings of assorted sizes, 480 bed-pads, 126 johnny coats, 74 comfort pillows, 33 laundry bags and 11 bibs. These items are available to anyone in need of them and may be obtained by contacting Mrs. Kruetzfeldt or the local office of the American Cancer Society. Mrs. Kruetzfeldt thanked all those who had contributed white goods for this project.

Mrs. Freeman expressed thanks to the ladies on behalf of the ACS for their steadfastness in this vital work. Noting the many hours donated to this service, she commended the women, also, for their participation in other phases of the ACS program, such as the Cancer Prevention Study, soon to go into its fourth stage this fall, as well as assistance with transportation of patients to the Tumor Clinic. She announced that Mrs. Kruetzfeldt would be among the representatives from Ulster County at the ACS Regional Conference to be held in Schenectady on June 22.

WALLKILL NEWS

C of C Banquet Held; Plans Are Made for Events

WALLKILL—Members of the Wallkill Chamber and their guests were entertained recently by the antics of the Hungry Five, a musical group and Alan White, comic.

Members of the Hungry Five are Donald Newton, leader, and tuba player; Douglas Wood, trumpeter; Jack Vargo, trombonist; and clarinetists, Juanita Newton and Jeffrey Morris.

Alan White impersonated television personality, Bob Newhart.

During the regular business meeting, an invitation was read and accepted by the Chamber from the Rose-Sheeley Post 1034 American Legion to take part in the Memorial Day parade.

The blood bank was announced to be held June 6 at the Legion Hall from 4 to 8 p. m. A chest X-ray clinic was also announced to be held Tuesday, June 5, at the Town Building. The clinic will be available free of charge to all residents of the Wallkill area.

The banquet committee was officers, and board of directors, as well as Walter G. Smith, George Heitman and George Sanford.

At a directors' meeting 7:30 p. m., Joseph N. Vogel was appointed to fill the unexpired term of Edward Kilduff, and officers elected were president, George Brach; vice president, C. E. Penney, and treasurer, Claude L. Decker. Mrs. Lois Morris was also re-appointed secretary for the chamber.

Events Scheduled

The Town of Shawangunk Democratic Club will hold its regular monthly meeting Monday 8 p. m., in the Wallkill firehouse. Refreshments will be served.

The teachers and officers of the Wallkill Reformed Church Sunday school will hold a meeting Friday 8 p. m. in the church hall. All teachers are asked to make a special effort to attend.

Wallkill Reformed Church Sunday school will sponsor an old-fashioned strawberry festival at the church property Wednesday evening, June 13. A chicken and biscuit dinner will be served in the church hall continuosly from 5 to 7 p. m. Tickets will be on sale from any teacher of the Sunday school. Following there will be refreshments available on the church lawn, and homemade candy for sale. There will be special events for the children. The Wallkill Central School Band will present an outdoor band concert at 8 p. m.

Members and guests of the Wallkill Woman's Club had luncheon at the Flo-Jean Restaurant Saturday. Mrs. Dorothy Irene Faas gave a talk on herbs. She discussed three varities, the culinary, ornamental and fragant type of herb. She also had a display of plants, herb products, and showed slides of some famous herb gardens. Mrs. Edmunt Walther was program chairman. The June meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Walter Wallack.

The Wallkill Home Demonstration Unit will hold its yearly display of projects at Pat Poole's former Variety Store the week of Memorial Day. Members who have something they wish to exhibit may contact Mrs. S. Kelso Sloan, the beginning of next week.

'47 Class Reunion

The Class of 1947 of Wallkill Central School recently held a 15th Reunion at Little Brook Farm. Guests were Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Robinson, principal; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Morrissey (Miss Mary Maher), who was Class Advisor 1947; and Mr. and Mrs. John Gardiner, (Miss Shirley Reubenheimer) to whom the Yearbook in 1947 was dedicated. William Keeping was toastmaster for the occasion.

Classmates attending were: Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Miekeoweic, Minneapolis, Minnesota (Delores Miske); Mr. and Mrs. Robert A. Fear, (Dorothy Tears) Schnectady, Mr. and Mrs. William Daas (Anne Rutgers) Fishkill; Mr. and Mrs. James Hansen, (Peggy Smith) Poughkeepsie; Mr. and Mrs. Harry Pfaff; Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Corey; Mr. and Mrs. John Bruhlman (Edith Lawson); Mr. and Mrs. Ross, (Doris Brown); Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Palen, (Helen Morehouse); Mr. and Mrs. Allison Terwilliger, all of Wallkill; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Giersch, Hastings-on-Hudson; William Keeping, Gardiner; Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Wydra, (Marian Curesky) Goshen; Miss Florence Clark, Albany.

Letters were also read from Lucille (Doolittle) Keese, of El Paso, Texas; Louise (Cameron) Andrews, Montgomery; Calene (Schiro) Canzoneri, California; Genevieve (Baxter) Brandel, Columbia, S. C.

Florence Clark, was the class member who fulfilled the class prophecy on 15 years ago. Delores Miskeloweic was the class member who had traveled the longest distance to attend; and Anne Daas was the class member who had been marrid the longest.

ReformedChurchNotes

Thursday at 3 p. m., junior choir rehearsal will be held at the church; 4 p. m., high school choir rehearsal; 7:30 p. m. senior choir. Sunday 9:45 a. m. Sunday school will convene and at 11 a. m., hour of worship will be conducted by the Rev. Walter N. Van Popering officiating. Guests at the morning service May 27, will be members of the American Legion and their auxiliary of Rose-Sheeley Post 1034. Senior choir will provide the music.

'Today' Job Goes To Hugh Downs

NEW YORK (AP)— Announcer Hugh Downs will succeed John Chancellor in September as host of the National Broadcasting Company's television "Today" program, the network said Wednesday.

Downs also will continue on "Concentration," NBC-TV's daytime program.

However, he will leave the "Tonight" show, with which he has been associated since 1957.

Salan Gets Life, Verdict Is Seen Victory for OAS

PARIS (AP) — A special tribunal's sentence of life imprisonment for ex-Gen. Raoul Salan was interpreted by many Frenchmen today as a victory for the terrorist Secret Army.

The mixed judicial-military-civilian court Wednesday night found the head of the Secret Army guilty of treason but spared his life because of extenuating circumstances. It did not explain the extenuating circumstances.

The same court earlier had given a death sentence to Salan's chief deputy in the Secret Army, Ex-Gen. Edmond Jouhaud. Many Frenchmen felt President Charles de Gaulle's only choice now was to commute Jouhaud's sentence to life imprisonment.

"The Secret Army won," said a white-collar employe on his way to work, expressing a widely held opinion.

Court in Pandemonium

The courtroom, packed with sympathizers of Salan and the Secret Army, broke into pandemonium at the announcement by court president Charles Bornet that the tribunal had found circumstances to extenuate Salan's leading role in the abortive general's revolt in Algiers in April 1961 and his leadership of the Secret Army terrorists.

LIFESAVER—Unusual space capsule recovery vehicle, designed for the Project Mercury program, is tested at San Jose, Calif. The standard M113 aluminum armored personnel carrier is coated with insulation and equipped with hydraulically operated arms and blade. In the event of a misfiring and failure of other escape devices, it would plough into the flame, scoop up the space vehicle and its pilot and remove them to safety.

Two Types of Rail Tickets to Be Cut

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—The Public Service Commission authorized the New Haven Railroad today to discontinue sale of two of the three types of commuter tickets now in use.

The action is effective May 27.

The railroad will continue to sell its 46-trip monthly tickets and will make them valid for travel seven days a week. They now cannot be used on Sundays.

It will discontinue sale of 6-ride monthly commuter tickets good seven days a week and 10-trip weekly commuter tickets.

The company said limited sale of weekly and 60-ride tickets no longer justified the cost of printing three different types of commuter tickets.

Sale of 40-ride pupil tickets will continue.

Boy, 18, Blames Dad for Sister's Death, Slays Him

CANTON, N.Y. (AP) — An 18-year-old boy shot and killed his father today, State Police said, because he blamed the father for the death of a young sister whom the youth had tried to save.

Police charged Joseph M. Carney Jr. with first-degree murder and sought to learn the cause of death of his sister Margaret, 6.

The elder Carney, 50, was shot at the bar of an inn he ran at Pope Mills, a hamlet southwest of here. Police said there were four witnesses.

Young Carney told police his sister collapsed suddenly Wednesday night at the Carney home in Pope Mills and the family thought she had fainted. When water and ice packs failed to revive her, the boy tried mouth-to-mouth resuscitation. The girl was dead, however, on arrival at a hospital.

At about 1 a.m., young Carney took a rifle and shot at his father through a window of the inn, police said. The bullet went astray, and the youth then entered the inn and shot his father in the chest, police said.

The father died a few hours later at the E. J. Noble Hospital in Gouverneur.

Court in Pandemonium

The courtroom, packed with sympathizers of Salan and the Secret Army, broke into pandemonium at the announcement by court president Charles Bornet that the tribunal had found circumstances to extenuate Salan's leading role in the abortive general's revolt in Algiers in April 1961 and his leadership of the Secret Army terrorists.

Two Types of Rail Tickets to Be Cut

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—The Public Service Commission authorized the New Haven Railroad today to discontinue sale of two of the three types of commuter tickets now in use.

The action is effective May 27.

The railroad will continue to sell its 46-trip monthly tickets and will make them valid for travel seven days a week. They now cannot be used on Sundays.

It will discontinue sale of 6-ride monthly commuter tickets good seven days a week and 10-trip weekly commuter tickets.

The company said limited sale of weekly and 60-ride tickets no longer justified the cost of printing three different types of commuter tickets.

Sale of 40-ride pupil tickets will continue.

Earlier this year, the Commission authorized the New York Central Railroad to discontinue all but one type of commuter ticket.

Deaths

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP)—Hartland S. Snyder, 49, one of the world's top nuclear physicists, died Tuesday after a brief heart illness. Snyder had been on leave as senior physicist at Brookhaven Laboratory, Long Island, N.Y., to work at the University of California.

CLINTON, N. Y. (AP) — Mrs. Edith Root Grant, 83, daughter of former Secretary of State Elihu Root, died Wednesday after a long illness. She was the wife of Maj. Gen. Ulysses S. Grant III, a grandson of the 18th president of the United States.

Boy, 18, Blames Dad for Sister's Death, Slays Him

CANTON, N.Y. (AP) — An 18-year-old boy shot and killed his father today, State Police said, because he blamed the father for the death of a young sister whom the youth had tried to save.

Police charged Joseph M. Carney Jr. with first-degree murder and sought to learn the cause of death of his sister Margaret, 6.

The elder Carney, 50, was shot at the bar of an inn he ran at Pope Mills, a hamlet southwest of here. Police said there were four witnesses.

Young Carney told police his sister collapsed suddenly Wednesday night at the Carney home in Pope Mills and the family thought she had fainted. When water and ice packs failed to revive her, the boy tried mouth-to-mouth resuscitation. The girl was dead, however, on arrival at a hospital.

At about 1 a.m., young Carney took a rifle and shot at his father through a window of the inn, police said. The bullet went astray, and the youth then entered the inn and shot his father in the chest, police said.

The father died a few hours later at the E. J. Noble Hospital in Gouverneur.

Viets Kill 72, Capture 34 in One of Bloodiest

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) —South Vietnamese forces supported by fighter-bombers and U.S. Army helicopters have killed 72 Communist guerrillas and captured 34 others in an operation 70 miles south of Saigon, the government reported today.

The Mekong River delta operation, one of the bloodiest in recent weeks, began Wednesday and was reported continuing today.

Air strikes by South Vietnamese fighter-bombers inflicted the heaviest casualties among the Viet Cong guerrillas. The government also claimed its troops seized about a ton of arms and ammunition.

Government losses were given as seven killed and 10 wounded. Communist fire also wounded four American Army officers in one of the 14 helicopters ferrying Vietnamese troops into the fighting.

The helicopter pilot, Capt. Robert F. Corneil, 39, was shot in the heel and a U.S. spokesman said he will be unable to walk for some time. His next of kin is listed as his wife, Shirley Clairborne Corneil.

The three others were cut by flying metal and plexiglass but returned to duty after treatment. They are Lt. Col. Frank B. Clay, 41, of Washington, DC., son of Gen. Lucius D. Clay, until recently President Kennedy's personal representative in Berlin; Lt. Col. Howard C. Blazzard, 42, of Saint Johns, Ariz., and CWO Bennie B. Potts, 36, of Tacoma, Wash.

The younger Clay is senior field adviser to South Viet Nam's 7th Division, the unit engaged in the action.

Reports Attempt To Destroy Lawn And Shrubbery

If some unknown person keeps up his malicious practice, the grass and shrubbery of Alexander Yosman, 24 Roosevelt Avenue, will surely wither.

According to Kingston police, Yosman, who is executive director of the Kingston Housing Authority, reported Wednesday for the second time in less than a week that someone had spread rocksalt over his property Tuesday night. Monday Yosman reported that someone had done the same thing over the past weekend. Police are investigating.

Kingston police received a second malicious mischief case report Wednesday evening when Jennie C. Chafoules, 126 Emerson Street, reported to them that the front seat of her car had been cut with a knife while the car was parked on Broadway in front of Kingston High School from 6:15 p. m. to 6:25 p. m.

Damage to Autos Is Reported to Police

Three minor traffic accidents Wednesday were reported this morning by Kingston police.

A car owned by Tracy Elliot, 56, of 80 Washington Avenue was damaged about the left front fender at 10:20 a. m. when it was allegedly struck by a tractor-trailer on a private lot near Ulster Provisional Cooperative Association Field Court. Police say the tractor-trailer was operated by Charles Tyler, 49, of 181 Elmendorf Street.

The accident was investigated by Patrolman Sheldon F. O'Rourke.

Herbert W. Murdock, Route 5, Box 355, Sleightsburg, reported to Kingston police that the right front door of a car owned by him was scratched and damaged while the car was parked in the Manhattan Shirt Company parking lot from Tuesday at 4:30 p. m. until Wednesday at 1:30 a. m.

A parked car was damaged about the left fender and bumper at 2 p. m. when it was struck by a tractor-trailer according to Kingston police.

Police said that Harry W. Bonnell, 46, of PO Box 534, Monroe, operating a tractor-trailer, was turning west on Abeel Street when it struck a parked car owned by Ivan Snyder, 55, of 125 Hunter Street.

The accident was investigated by Patrolmen Francis Buchanan and Richard Scherer.

To Raise $850,000

Ellenville Hospital Drive Planning Group Is Formed

Thirty nine members of the newly formed Planning Committee of Ellenville Hospital Fund Drive for $850,000, held an organizational meeting last week at Shawangunk Country Club.

Those attending are expected to constitute the executive nucleus of the general campaign committee, which will conduct the three phases of the community drive beginning in June: The door-to-door campaign, the in-plant campaign, and the commercial campaign.

Outline Purposes

The purpose of the meeting was three fold: To report on the progress of the special gift drive now going on; to develop a general understanding of how hospitals are financed and run, and to broaden the base of community participation in the fund raising drive.

Among the additional large gifts reported by the Special Gifts Committee was the announcement of pledges from two local industries totaling $100,000. Continued support from the resort industry was evident by the news that hotelman Jack Kramer will organize a summerlong drive to raise $50,000 from guests at hotels and bungalow colonies.

Harry Resnick, chairman of the meeting, revealed that several sites for the new building were already under consideration. Responding to questions, he explained that the present site is totally unsuitable for several reasons. "First," he said, "there's not enough land. Only 2¾ acres. We must have at least six acres to build the kind of plant that will qualify for federal funds. This would provide adequate access and parking, and room for future expansion.

"Second, state authorities insist on abandonment of the present building because it is outmoded and inefficient. Even if we add on to this building and try to modernize it, it could hardly be made to meet today's standards of efficiency and health care. Remember, we have to build a basic plant that will take care of the next 50 years. Third, there is insufficient drainage in the soil at the present site; and there are many more reasons," he said.

Questions Ownership

One questioner wanted to know who actually owned a voluntary hospital. Robert Stapleton, assistant chairman, answered that it is technically owned by the hospital board of trustees, who are holding it in trust for the community. However, the trustees are elected by the members of the Hospital Association — citizens who join for a modest membership fee. Hence, the control of the hospital is always in the hands of the people of the community.

If, however, a hospital is dissolved, all funds derived must—by State Law—be put into escrow, and can only be applied toward another hospital, or some similar non-profit health enterprise serving the community.

Different systems of hospital financing were also discussed. One community member asked about town and county hospitals, suggesting that this might be an easier way to build a new establishment for the Ellenville area.

Stapleton explained that he had investigated this subject thoroughly during the past few weeks. He said the law states that a county hospital must be situated in the area of greatest population. This would, of course, place it in Kingston—far removed from the area it is intended to serve.

Most Are Voluntary

Over 90 per cent of all hospitals in New York State are voluntary non-profit associations, meaning that funds are raised by voluntary contributions.

There is only one town hospital in the entire area. Town and County hospitals are usually not the best-run institutions, because they become deeply involved in local politics, since the Board is either elected or appointed. Also, a town, city, or village hospital can only be established by popular referendum. The outcome of this is always doubtful, and the process takes years. Finally, hospitals of this type must be supplied by taxes, usually real estate taxes.

"As we all know," Stapleton explained, "property ownership is not the key to the distribution of wealth in this area. Real estate taxes would not only be unfair, they would have to be so burdensome on low-income and middle-income home owners that the entire project would probably collapse. We have to go where the money really is. That's the fairest way. And you can only do that with a voluntary hospital. In this kind of situation, we truly are our brother's keepers."

Resnick reported that he had talked at great length to representatives of the medical profession in the Ellenville area, and had been assured of their unqualified enthusiasm for the new hospital. Furthermore, he said, local doctors strongly support the idea of a full-time resident physician on the hospital staff.

Require Resident

Evald Bors-Koefoed, hospital administrator, quickly pointed out that the matter of a resident physician was primarily an administrative one, where cost and availability of a qualified doctor were the decisive factors. He stated that "a good resident is very hard to find. But, the main point is that our new hospital will have all the facilities necessary to attract and accommodate a good resident physician."

"Our goal," said Resnick, "is to build a hospital that will be accredited by the Joint Commission on Accreditation of Hospitals. An accredited hospital is one that is certified as meeting the commission's high standards for quality of medical care. In the present institution the building alone has been enough to prevent the hospital from becoming accredited."

It was also reported at the meeting that Bors-Koefoed, Guy Davenport, and others had given generously of their time in traveling to other communities to inspect their hospitals; and in checking throughout this area for suitable hospital sites. An open invitation was made to the people of this area to come forward with additional suggestions for available sites.

Community leaders present at the meeting included:

Louis Berger, Irving Binder, Robert Bliden, Mrs. Everett Coty, Ben Cramer, Mr. and Mrs. Guy Davenport, George Dubner, Irving Esrig, Jules Ewig, Henry Fazzano, Dr. Martin Fields, Vincent Gillen, Harold Harris, Morris Kaufman, Sadye Katz, Jack Kramer, Francis Lathrop, Lawrence Levine, Sherman Loucks, Ellsworth McDole, Edwin Passmore, Meyer Regenbogen, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Resnick, Abbe Rogow, Daniel Roher, Sol Sashin, Joseph Schwartz, Ben Slutsky, William C. Smith, Mrs. Herman Solomon, Harold Stangle, Norman Tennenbaum, Katharine Terwilliger, Frederick R. Van Keuren, Mrs. Herman Weinbrot, and Morris Solomon.

Also serving on the committee, but unable to attend: Nick Coco, Donald DuBois, Jerome Rosenstock, Manuel Rosenstock, Frank Muller, Rev. Richard Elting, Charles Letter, Harry Quick and Louis Zipperman.

Rural Carriers Will Conduct Livestock Survey

Rural mail carriers out of the Kingston Post Office, and over the country generally, are participating in the June 1962 Rural Carrier Livestock survey. Cards are being distributed to farmers now, Postmaster O. V. Newkirk, said today.

A joint Federal-State project, this June survey gathers information on cattle and milk cows, and on numbers of calves, pigs and lambs born this winter and spring. Information on poultry and wool production is also sought.

Some 22,000 questionnaire cards are being distributed to farmers throughout New York State. The post office and rural mail carriers provide the contact with farmers for the survey. Rural carriers leave cards in mail boxes of a cross section of farmers. Completed cards from New York farmers are forwarded by the Post Office to the Federal-State New York Crop Reporting Service at Albany.

Financial and Commercial

NEW YORK (AP) — A brisk technical recovery put the stock market somewhat higher early this afternoon after two straight days of sharp decline.

The Associated Press average of 6 stocks at noon was up .70 at 232.50 with industrials up 1.80, rails unchanged and utilities off .10.

Gains of fractions to a point or so prevailed among most key stocks but scattered losers robbed the advance of much conviction.

Steels, motors, oils, chemicals, tobaccos, electrical equipments and mail order-retails were mostly higher.

IBM advanced 10¾ from Wednesday's low to 426, but as the market upswing began to falter it fell from its peak and made a new low for the year of 406, showing a net loss of 9¼.

Beckman Instruments was up more than 5. Litton Industries and Polaroid sharply cut gains of about 3 each. Xerox erased a gain of about 2 and showed a net loss of more than a point.

Gains of around a point or better were displayed by Ford, Texaco, Radio Corp., American Tobacco, Pfizer and U.S. Rubber.

U.S. Steel, AT&T, Du Pont, Standard Oil (New Jersey) and General Motors showed slight gains.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was up 3.59 at 630.11.

Prices were generally higher in moderately active trading on the American Stock Exchange.

lie Sol Estes investigation. They are trying to shift attention.

"I don't know anything about the Estes problem except what I have read in the papers. If they are trying to connect me with that situation, it is a great distortion. I never heard of the man until I saw his name in the paper."

The former president's brother said Fountain invited him to come to Washington a long time ago.

Had No Interest

"I told him on the telephone I wouldn't go," Eisenhower said. "Didn't have any interest in any grain storage and didn't see why I should pay my way back there to tell him so. I told him I didn't have at any time, and haven't now, a nickel's worth of interest in wheat storage or grain storage."

The House group, the subcommittee on intergovernmental relations, has jurisdiction over surplus grain storage and cotton allotments. It will look into Estes' profitable operations under both programs.

The House subcommittee's counsel James R. Naughton said no decision has been reached on whether it will investigate the Eisenhowers.

Estes Awaits Trial

Estes is awaiting trial on federal fraud charges and a Texas indictment accusing him of theft.

Another chapter of his from boom to bust story unfolded Wednesday in El Paso, Tex. The financier faced his creditors but would reveal nothing.

Pleading the Fifth Amendment's provisions against possible self-incrimination, Estes declined to answer when asked about his business interests and assets. He also declined to give his occupation or the location of his offices.

But he told District Judge R. E. Thomason at the federal receivership hearing he would file a detailed statement of his worth and operations by June 15.

Damages Sought For Injuries in Fall at Store

An action arising out of a fall in The Wallace Company, Poughkeepsie store, July 15, 1958, is on trial in Supreme Court before Justice Louis G. Bruhn and a jury. Mrs. Arthur Miller, Hurley, seeks damages as a result of alleged injuries suffered when she fell in the store.

It is alleged she sustained injuries to her back and legs and as a result suffers pain and discomfort.

Following the fall she returned to Kingston and was given emergency treatment at Benedictine Hospital. Later she sought treatment by Dr. Arthur W. Hazenbush, who was the first witness today at the opening of court.

Michael Nardone appears for Arthur Miller and wife, plaintiffs, and Cook and Cook and Rosen and Rosen for defendants.

Titan Destroyed As Silo Explodes

CHICO, Calif. (AP) — A Titan missile was destroyed in a blast today as its silo exploded at the missile complex near Chico.

Twenty-four persons were treated for smoke inhalation, the Air Force announced.

There were no fatalities.

The other two missiles and silos in the complex escaped damage, as did the control center, the announcement stated.

The explosion occurred as contractors were running a test before turning the base over to the Air Force.

The Air Force spokesman declined to say what caused the blast or to comment on whether it resulted while test fueling of the Titan missile was under way.

The blast was felt in Chico, eight miles south of the nearly completed Titan base. The missile installation has not yet been placed in operation.

A security guard at the missile base refused to permit news and cameramen to enter.

The Civil Defense dispatched a rescue truck from Redding, Calif.

The missile site, a mile north of Chico's Municipal Airport, is not yet operational, but is going through a checkout.

Competition, Groups, Earnings Affect Stock

Q—"Only a year ago, Universal Match was generally regarded as a good speculative investment with a future. The shares have sold off badly, however, and show little signs of recovery. Would you advise holding?" H. L.

A—It is disheartening to sustain a loss in a stock that the market formerly regarded as a promising situation.

The Street has very definitely downgraded the vending machine group. However, I have made a fairly detailed study of Match and I think that there is a good chance for at least partial recovery.

In addition to the bad group action, your shares were particularly hard hit because of a virtual collapse in earnings. The latter was due to sharp competition in the match business and also to a reduced demand for vending machines.

I am encouraged by resumption of dividends last month and now look for at least $0.75 a share in earnings—maybe a little higher—in 1962. I would definitely hold my shares at current levels.

Q—"I bought some shares of a company when a strike that had crippled the firm was settled. The stock hadn't done much during the strike, and I thought I'd make a few points. However, just the reverse happened and I lost. What was wrong with my idea?" C. B.

A—I'm afraid that you made a mistake in judgment which is common even among experienced investors—buying as soon as good news is released.

Stocks tend to hold up well during strikes, probably because the market recognizes that a settlement will eventually prevail. If the strike had been a severe one with your stock declining in price, then the news of a settlement might have brought a rebound in the shares. However, since the issue moved sideways, the market indicated that it had already fully allowed for—or discounted—the resumption of operations.

When temptations like this arise, you should stop and mull over that old adage: "Buy on bad news, sell on good." Recollection of this advice may prevent you from taking just the opposite—and often costly—course.

Mrs. Frank (Charity J.) Smith of West Coxsackie last week became the 1,000th member of the Greene County Historical Society for 1962. More than a hundred members planned to visit Bronck House last Saturday for a preview of the several improvements currently being made to that museum and financed by three Greene County Rotary clubs who raised $1,250 for the work.

Postmaster B. VonderOsten calls attention to mail box improvement week, pointing out that the name should be shown on the side of the box visible to the carrier, or on the door if the boxes are grouped. The Star Route box number may also be shown on the box.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Kujian of Flushing, L. I., were at their Shokan place for the weekend. Their bungalow is on the Ben Swanson development along the mountainside whose 50 acres, 80 years ago and more was the farm home of Mr. and Mrs. David Perry, grandparents of Ethel Perry of Kingston.

Having a birthday, May 27, is John Adsit Jr., 12, eldest son of John and Dorothy (Keevil) Adsit. He is also one of several grandchildren of Fred and Minnie Adsit of Shokan.

Stopping here Tuesday in the course of their return trip to Mifflinburg, Pa., were Dr. Robert D. Arnold and wife. Their home in the Williamsport area is one of the Pennsylvania Dutch sections of the state. The Arnolds had been visiting friends at Millerton, Dutchess County.

Elmer Pratt, High Street, Beacon resident who worked in the reservoir country for Central Hudson over 30 years ago, was a local caller Sunday. Pratt, now retired, is related to the Town of Olive Constable family.

A total of 775 fishing licenses were sold in neighboring Delaware County during March. Of the towns, Sidney led with 130, while Colchester, 116, and Walton, 120, were next. Money take by county treasurer was $3,310.

Peter J. Weider, Glenford real estate man who was brought up in Kingston, was a caller here Saturday.

Also here recently was B. W. Schwartz, Pine Bush young man who was scouting around for a copy of the "History of the Shawangunk Mountains."

To Raise $850,000

Ellenville Hospital Drive Planning Group Is Formed

Thirty nine members of the newly formed Planning Committee of Ellenville Hospital Fund Drive for $850,000, held an organizational meeting last week at Shawangunk Country Club.

Those attending are expected to constitute the executive nucleus of the general campaign committee, which will conduct the three phases of the community drive beginning in June: The door-to-door campaign, the in-plant campaign, and the commercial campaign.

Outline Purposes

The purpose of the meeting was three fold: To report on the progress of the special gift drive now going on; to develop a general understanding of how hospitals are financed and run, and to broaden the base of community participation in the fund raising drive.

Among the additional large gifts reported by the Special Gifts Committee was the announcement of pledges from two local industries totaling $100,000. Continued support from the resort industry was evident by the news that hotelman Jack Kramer will organize a summerlong drive to raise $50,000 from guests at hotels and bungalow colonies.

Harry Resnick, chairman of the meeting, revealed that several sites for the new building were already under consideration. Responding to questions, he explained that the present site is totally unsuitable for several reasons. "First," he said, "there's not enough land. Only 2¾ acres. We must have at least six acres to build the kind of plant that will qualify for federal funds. This would provide adequate access and parking, and room for future expansion.

"Second, state authorities insist on abandonment of the present building because it is outmoded and inefficient. Even if we add on to this building and try to modernize it, it could hardly be made to meet today's standards of efficiency and health care. Remember, we have to build a basic plant that will take care of the next 50 years. Third, there is insufficient drainage in the soil at the present site; and there are many more reasons," he said.

Questions Ownership

One questioner wanted to know who actually owned a voluntary hospital. Robert Stapleton, assistant chairman, answered that it is technically owned by the hospital board of trustees, who are holding it in trust for the community. However, the trustees are elected by the members of the Hospital Association — citizens who join for a modest membership fee. Hence, the control of the hospital is always in the hands of the people of the community.

If, however, a hospital is dissolved, all funds derived must—by State Law—be put into escrow, and can only be applied toward another hospital, or some similar non-profit health enterprise serving the community.

Different systems of hospital financing were also discussed. One community member asked about town and county hospitals, suggesting that this might be an easier way to build a new establishment for the Ellenville area.

Stapleton explained that he had investigated this subject thoroughly during the past few weeks. He said the law states that a county hospital must be situated in the area of greatest population. This would, of course, place it in Kingston—far removed from the area it is intended to serve.

Most Are Voluntary

Over 90 per cent of all hospitals in New York State are voluntary non-profit associations, meaning that funds are raised by voluntary contributions.

There is only one town hospital in the entire area. Town and County hospitals are usually not the best-run institutions, because they become deeply involved in local politics, since the Board is either elected or appointed. Also, a town, city, or village hospital can only be established by popular referendum. The outcome of this is always doubtful, and the process takes years. Finally, hospitals of this type must be supplied by taxes, usually real estate taxes.

"As we all know," Stapleton explained, "property ownership is not the key to the distribution of wealth in this area. Real estate taxes would not only be unfair, they would have to be so burdensome on low-income and middle-income home owners that the entire project would probably collapse. We have to go where the money really is. That's the fairest way. And you can only do that with a voluntary hospital. In this kind of situation, we truly are our brother's keepers."

Resnick reported that he had talked at great length to representatives of the medical profession in the Ellenville area, and had been assured of their unqualified enthusiasm for the new hospital. Furthermore, he said, local doctors strongly support the idea of a full-time resident physician on the hospital staff.

Require Resident

Evald Bors-Koefoed, hospital administrator, quickly pointed out that the matter of a resident physician was primarily an administrative one, where cost and availability of a qualified doctor were the decisive factors. He stated that "a good resident is very hard to find. But, the main point is that our new hospital will have all the facilities necessary to attract and accommodate a good resident physician."

"Our goal," said Resnick, "is to build a hospital that will be accredited by the Joint Commission on Accreditation of Hospitals. An accredited hospital is one that is certified as meeting the commission's high standards for quality of medical care. In the present institution the building alone has been enough to prevent the hospital from becoming accredited."

It was also reported at the meeting that Bors-Koefoed, Guy Davenport, and others had given generously of their time in traveling to other communities to inspect their hospitals; and in checking throughout this area for suitable hospital sites. An open invitation was made to the people of this area to come forward with additional suggestions for available sites.

Community leaders present at the meeting included:

Louis Berger, Irving Binder, Robert Bliden, Mrs. Everett Coty, Ben Cramer, Mr. and Mrs. Guy Davenport, George Dubner, Irving Esrig, Jules Ewig, Henry Fazzano, Dr. Martin Fields, Vincent Gillen, Harold Harris, Morris Kaufman, Sadye Katz, Jack Kramer, Francis Lathrop, Lawrence Levine, Sherman Loucks, Ellsworth McDole, Edwin Passmore, Meyer Regenbogen, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Resnick, Abbe Rogow, Daniel Roher, Sol Sashin, Joseph Schwartz, Ben Slutsky, William C. Smith, Mrs. Herman Solomon, Harold Stangle, Norman Tennenbaum, Katharine Terwilliger, Frederick R. Van Keuren, Mrs. Herman Weinbrot, and Morris Solomon.

Also serving on the committee, but unable to attend: Nick Coco, Donald DuBois, Jerome Rosenstock, Manuel Rosenstock, Frank Muller, Rev. Richard Elting, Charles Letter, Harry Quick and Louis Zipperman.

Rural Carriers Will Conduct Livestock Survey

Rural mail carriers out of the Kingston Post Office, and over the country generally, are participating in the June 1962 Rural Carrier Livestock survey. Cards are being distributed to farmers now, Postmaster O. V. Newkirk, said today.

A joint Federal-State project, this June survey gathers information on cattle and milk cows, and on numbers of calves, pigs and lambs born this winter and spring. Information on poultry and wool production is also sought.

Some 22,000 questionnaire cards are being distributed to farmers throughout New York State. The post office and rural mail carriers provide the contact with farmers for the survey. Rural carriers leave cards in mail boxes of a cross section of farmers. Completed cards from New York farmers are forwarded by the Post Office to the Federal-State New York Crop Reporting Service at Albany.

Financial and Commercial

NEW YORK (AP) — A brisk technical recovery put the stock market somewhat higher early this afternoon after two straight days of sharp decline.

The Associated Press average of 6 stocks at noon was up .70 at 232.50 with industrials up 1.80, rails unchanged and utilities off .10.

Gains of fractions to a point or so prevailed among most key stocks but scattered losers robbed the advance of much conviction.

Steels, motors, oils, chemicals, tobaccos, electrical equipments and mail order-retails were mostly higher.

IBM advanced 10¾ from Wednesday's low to 426, but as the market upswing began to falter it fell from its peak and made a new low for the year of 406, showing a net loss of 9¼.

Beckman Instruments was up more than 5. Litton Industries and Polaroid sharply cut gains of about 3 each. Xerox erased a gain of about 2 and showed a net loss of more than a point.

Gains of around a point or better were displayed by Ford, Texaco, Radio Corp., American Tobacco, Pfizer and U.S. Rubber.

U.S. Steel, AT&T, Du Pont, Standard Oil (New Jersey) and General Motors showed slight gains.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was up 3.59 at 630.11.

Prices were generally higher in moderately active trading on the American Stock Exchange.

lie Sol Estes investigation. They are trying to shift attention.

"I don't know anything about the Estes problem except what I have read in the papers. If they are trying to connect me with that situation, it is a great distortion. I never heard of the man until I saw his name in the paper."

The former president's brother said Fountain invited him to come to Washington a long time ago.

Had No Interest

"I told him on the telephone I wouldn't go," Eisenhower said. "Didn't have any interest in any grain storage and didn't see why I should pay my way back there to tell him so. I told him I didn't have at any time, and haven't now, a nickel's worth of interest in wheat storage or grain storage."

The House group, the subcommittee on intergovernmental relations, has jurisdiction over surplus grain storage and cotton allotments. It will look into Estes' profitable operations under both programs.

The House subcommittee's counsel James R. Naughton said no decision has been reached on whether it will investigate the Eisenhowers.

Estes Awaits Trial

Estes is awaiting trial on federal fraud charges and a Texas indictment accusing him of theft.

Another chapter of his from boom to bust story unfolded Wednesday in El Paso, Tex. The financier faced his creditors but would reveal nothing.

Pleading the Fifth Amendment's provisions against possible self-incrimination, Estes declined to answer when asked about his business interests and assets. He also declined to give his occupation or the location of his offices.

But he told District Judge R. E. Thomason at the federal receivership hearing he would file a detailed statement of his worth and operations by June 15.

Titan Destroyed As Silo Explodes

CHICO, Calif. (AP) — A Titan missile was destroyed in a blast today as its silo exploded at the missile complex near Chico.

Twenty-four persons were treated for smoke inhalation, the Air Force announced.

There were no fatalities.

The other two missiles and silos in the complex escaped damage, as did the control center, the announcement stated.

The explosion occurred as contractors were running a test before turning the base over to the Air Force.

The Air Force spokesman declined to say what caused the blast or to comment on whether it resulted while test fueling of the Titan missile was under way.

The blast was felt in Chico, eight miles south of the nearly completed Titan base. The missile installation has not yet been placed in operation.

A security guard at the missile base refused to permit news and cameramen to enter.

The Civil Defense dispatched a rescue truck from Redding, Calif.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING...

Competition, Groups, Earnings Affect Stock

Q—"Only a year ago, Universal Match was generally regarded as a good speculative investment with a future. The shares have sold off badly, however, and show little signs of recovery. Would you advise holding?" H. L.

A—It is disheartening to sustain a loss in a stock that the market formerly regarded as a promising situation.

The Street has very definitely downgraded the vending machine group. However, I have made a fairly detailed study of Match and I think that there is a good chance for at least partial recovery.

In addition to the bad group action, your shares were particularly hard hit because of a virtual collapse in earnings. The latter was due to sharp competition in the match business and also to a reduced demand for vending machines.

I am encouraged by resumption of dividends last month and now look for at least $0.75 a share in earnings—maybe a little higher—in 1962. I would definitely hold my shares at current levels.

Q—"I bought some shares of a company when a strike that had crippled the firm was settled. The stock hadn't done much during the strike, and I thought I'd make a few points. However, just the reverse happened and I lost. What was wrong with my idea?" C. B.

A—I'm afraid that you made a mistake in judgment which is common even among experienced investors—buying as soon as good news is released.

Stocks tend to hold up well during strikes, probably because the market recognizes that a settlement will eventually prevail. If the strike had been a severe one with your stock declining in price, then the news of a settlement might have brought a rebound in the shares. However, since the issue moved sideways, the market indicated that it had already fully allowed for—or discounted—the resumption of operations.

When temptations like this arise, you should stop and mull over that old adage: "Buy on bad news, sell on good." Recollection of this advice may prevent you from taking just the opposite—and often costly—course.

Change of Venue Is Denied for Trudeau's Trial

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — Charles E. Trudeau's new trial on a first-degree murder charge will be conducted in Onondaga County Court, the Appellate Division has ruled in rejecting a prosecution motion for a change of venue.

The court also rejected a motion Wednesday by Dist. Atty. Joseph A. Ryan of Onondaga County to restore three counts of forgery and grand larceny against Trudeau. The counts had been dismissed by County Judge Leo W. Breed.

Breed declared the first trial of Trudeau a mistrial earlier this month on grounds that Ryan asked "highly improper and prejudicial questions" of a defense witness.

Ryan then asked for the venue change.

The Appellate Division in rejecting the motion said the district attorney had failed to submit "proof to sustain" a claim "that a fair and impartial trial cannot be had in Onondaga County Court."

Trudeau is charged with strangling Mrs. Louise Temple of Auburn, a Syracuse real estate agent, last August. Her body was found in the trunk of her automobile Aug. 22 in a hospital parking lot.

Two Shots Successful

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) —The nuclear submarine Thomas Edison fired two Polaris missiles from below the Atlantic surface Wednesday. Both traveled more than 1,500 miles and both shots were declared successful.

The firings, about two hours apart, were the first for the Edison.

Bull Mkt. Will Put Emphasis on Kingston Stores

Closing of the Great Bull Markets Inc. store at 165 Smith Street, Poughkeepsie, will allow the concern to concentrate on the business at the Kingston markets, according to Harrison Muller, advertising manager.

Harrison told The Freeman that the closing of the Poughkeepsie store also is due to competition in that city and the fact that the market is not modernized.

"Basically," Harrison said, "the closing of Poughkeepsie's store is to give us an opportunity to push ahead and meet competition in Kingston and to improve service to our many customers in this area.

"The closing," Harrison said, "will give us an opportunity to concentrate on business at the Kingston stores.

The company closed another store which was located many years on Upper Main Street, in Poughkeepsie. The Smith Street market had been operated at the same location since the early 1930's.

Returns to Hear Appeal

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — Dr. Robert Servatius, Adolf Eichmann's West German lawyer, returned to Israel Wednesday night to hear the verdict on the former Nazi officer's appeal from the death sentence.

The Israeli Supreme Court will hand down its ruling Tuesday in the same court in Jerusalem where Eichmann was convicted last year for his role in the Nazi mass murder of Jews.

Open Thurs., Fri. & Tues., May 24, 25 & 29 Till 9 P.M.—Sat. Till 5:30 P.M.

Change of Venue Is Denied for Trudeau's Trial

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — Charles E. Trudeau's new trial on a first-degree murder charge will be conducted in Onondaga County Court, the Appellate Division has ruled in rejecting a prosecution motion for a change of venue.

The court also rejected a motion Wednesday by Dist. Atty. Joseph A. Ryan of Onondaga County to restore three counts of forgery and grand larceny against Trudeau. The counts had been dismissed by County Judge Leo W. Breed.

Breed declared the first trial of Trudeau a mistrial earlier this month on grounds that Ryan asked "highly improper and prejudicial questions" of a defense witness.

Ryan then asked for the venue change.

The Appellate Division in rejecting the motion said the district attorney had failed to submit "proof to sustain" a claim "that a fair and impartial trial cannot be had in Onondaga County Court."

Catalano-Leson Nuptials Are Announced; Ceremony Takes Place in Milton Church

MR. AND MRS. STANLEY V. LESON

Miss Margaret Theresa Catalano, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Catalano of Willow Tree Road, Milton, N. Y., wed Stanley Vincent Leson, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Leson of 19 DuBois Avenue, Poughkeepsie on May 12 at 1 p. m. in the St. James Church, Milton.

Officiating was the Rev. Francis X. Schwarz.

For the occasion, the church was decorated with two vases of mixed flowers. The pews were marked with white satin bows.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a pure silk organza gown with hand clipped chantilly lace, fitted lace bodice, scalloped Sabrina neckline and long pointed sleeves. Her bouffant lace skirt featured a full lace back which was chapel length. Her veil was fingertip of imported English silk illusion gathered to a double Swedish coronet of seed pearls and iridescents. She carried a cascade arrangements of white carnations and stephanotis centered with an orchid corsage.

Mrs. Louise Catalano of Lattintown Road, Milton, was matron of honor for her sister-in-law. She wore a ballerina gown of white organza over yellow taffeta styled with fitted basque waistline, scoop neckline, short sleeves and a tapered skirit accented with embroidered appliques. Her hat was horsehair and was worn with a short circular veil in matching color. She carried a cascade of yellow and blue carnations.

Miss Joyce Leson of 19 DuBois Avenue, Poughkeepsie, sister of the bridegroom, and Miss Grace Lofaro of Milton, were the bridesmaids. Their gowns were similar to that worn by the honor attendant except in romance blue with matching hats. They carried a cascade bouquet of yellow carnations.

Toni Ann Catalano of Milton, the bride's niece, served as the flower girl in a yellow organza dress with white lace collar and sleeves. She carried a colonial bouquet of yellow and blue carnations.

John Robinson of Poughkeepsie was best man. Ushering were Vincent Catalano of Milton, brother of the bride, and Raymond Dabrymple of Poughkeepsie.

A reception was given at The Capri in Port Ewen for approximately 150 guests.

The bride was graduated from Marlboro Central School with the class of 1950. She is employed by IBM. Her husband, an alumnus of Poughkeepsie High School, served two years with the U.S. Army in Korea and is now with Schaty Federal Building.

The couple will reside in Poughkeepsie.

MAY WIDOW HAVE MALE HOUSE GUEST?

Q: I am in the mid-forties. My husband died five years ago very suddenly and at the time I thought I would never care for another man. However, "time heals all wounds" and several months ago I met a very fine man while visiting relatives in another city. We saw a good deal of each other and when I left he said he would like to come and see me some time. I received a note from him this morning saying that he would like to come and visit me next weekend. Would it be proper to invite him to stay here in my house? I have a six-room house for just my son and me and I can put him up very easily here. The question is, Woud this cause gossip? I would appreciate your answering this question for me.

A: Whether his staying in your house will cause gossip depends on a number of things: your own reputation, whether you have a maid who sleeps in your house, the age of your son and finally on how apt your neighbors are to gossip. To be certain, however, it will be wise to have him go to a hotel.

Thanks For Shower Presents

Q: My sister and I were invited to a stork shower. We were unable to go but sent a present through another friend. The mother-to-be sent us a thank-you note for our present but did not write notes to those who were at the shower. Several of the girls are hurt about this and think they should have received written thanks, too. Should thank-you notes have been written to all?

A: It is not necessary for the person who has been showered to write notes of thanks to those whom she thanked personally at the party.

Showing Appreciation for Hospitality

Q: I have just returned from a trip which was primarily a business one for my husband. While he was busy with the husbands, many of their wives went all out to show me a good time. Should I write notes of thanks to them now and possibly send presents, or what?

A: Presents are not at all necessary, but notes of thanks will be polite and proper.

Jo-Ann Chase Weds Joseph John Moroney Before Nuptial Mass at St. Mary's Church

MR. AND MRS. JOSEPH J. MORONEY

Miss Jo-Ann Kathleen Chase, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John B. Chase of 228 South Wall Street, exchanged vows with Joseph John Moroney, nephew of Mr. and Mrs. John Rath of Yonkers before nuptial Mass on May 12 at St. Mary's Church. Officiating was the Rev. Edward I. Farrelly, assistant pastor. Theodore Riccobono was organist and Martin Kelly was the soloist.

The Papal Blessing was received by the couple and read by Father Farrelly.

White baskets of gladioli decorated the church. The Pews were marked with ribbon. The bride also dedicated a bouquet of flowers at the altar of the Blessed Mother.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a gown of imported silk organza over bridal taffeta. It was styled with a fitted bodice, full skirt with appliques of Swiss embroidered roses at the neckline and skirt. The skirt was chapel length. A crown, brought back from Germany by her sister, was made of illusion petals and pearl peeps with a traditional touch of green, and it held a triple tiered French imported silk illusion veil. She carried a prayer book with white roses and stephanotis.

Miss Margaret O'Neil of White Plains was the maid of honor. She wore a gown of blue nylon organza styled with floor length skirt and draped bodice. She wore a bow clip to match her gown. Attendants were Virginia Lee Chase, the bride's sister, Francis Keanna of Long Island, Nona Debrosky of Tillson, Elizabeth Moroney of Yonkers, Marrianne Marnell of Kingston, the bride's niece. Their gowns were identical in style and color to that worn by the honor attendant. Their flowers were cascades of blue and white daisies.

Peter Kenny of Yonkers was the best man. Ushers were John W. Chase, brother of the bride, Frank Hayes of Yonkers, Richard Grimalde, Yonkers, Arthur Closi of Lake Katrine and Bernard P. Jones, the bride's nephew, was the ringbearer.

Approximately 125 guests were entertained at a reception given in the Elks Club on Fair Street, this city.

The bride was graduated from Kingston High School and the Benedictine Hospital School of Nursing. She served on the Benedictine staff and is now on the staff of the Yonkers General Hospital. Her husband, an alumnus of Sacred Heart High School, Yonkers, is employed by the Metropolitan Insurance Company. He is a member of the U. S. Coast Guard in Groten, Conn.

After a wedding trip to Atlantic City, N. J., the couple will be at home at 208 Kimball Avenue, Yonkers.

However, "time heals all wounds" and several months ago I met a very fine man while visiting relatives in another city. We saw a good deal of each other and when I left he said he would like to come and see me some time. I received a note from him this morning saying that he would like to come and visit me next weekend. Would it be proper to invite him to stay here in my house? I have a six-room house for just my son and me and I can put him up very easily here. The question is, Woud this cause gossip? I would appreciate your answering this question for me.

A: Whether his staying in your house will cause gossip depends on a number of things: your own reputation, whether you have a maid who sleeps in your house, the age of your son and finally on how apt your neighbors are to gossip. To be certain, however, it will be wise to have him go to a hotel.

Thanks For Shower Presents

Q: My sister and I were invited to a stork shower. We were unable to go but sent a present through another friend. The mother-to-be sent us a thank-you note for our present but did not write notes to those who were at the shower. Several of the girls are hurt about this and think they should have received written thanks, too. Should thank-you notes have been written to all?

A: It is not necessary for the person who has been showered to write notes of thanks to those whom she thanked personally at the party.

Showing Appreciation for Hospitality

Q: I have just returned from a trip which was primarily a business one for my husband. While he was busy with the husbands, many of their wives went all out to show me a good time. Should I write notes of thanks to them now and possibly send presents, or what?

A: Presents are not at all necessary, but notes of thanks will be polite and proper.

Jo-Ann Chase Weds Joseph John Moroney Before Nuptial Mass at St. Mary's Church

(Pennington photo)

Miss Jo-Ann Kathleen Chase, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John B. Chase of 228 South Wall Street, exchanged vows with Joseph John Moroney, nephew of Mr. and Mrs. John Rath of Yonkers before nuptial Mass on May 12 at St. Mary's Church. Officiating was the Rev. Edward I. Farrelly, assistant pastor. Theodore Riccobono was organist and Martin Kelly was the soloist.

The Papal Blessing was received by the couple and read by Father Farrelly.

White baskets of gladioli decorated the church. The Pews were marked with ribbon. The bride also dedicated a bouquet of flowers at the altar of the Blessed Mother.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a gown of imported silk organza over bridal taffeta. It was styled with a fitted bodice, full skirt with appliques of Swiss embroidered roses at the neckline and skirt. The skirt was chapel length. A crown, brought back from Germany by her sister, was made of illusion petals and pearl peeps with a traditional touch of green, and it held a triple tiered French imported silk illusion veil. She carried a prayer book with white roses and stephanotis.

Miss Margaret O'Neil of White Plains was the maid of honor. She wore a gown of blue nylon organza styled with floor length skirt and draped bodice. She wore a bow clip to match her gown. Attendants were Virginia Lee Chase, the bride's sister, Francis Keanna of Long Island, Nona Debrosky of Tillson, Elizabeth Moroney of Yonkers, Marrianne Marnell of Kingston, the bride's niece. Their gowns were identical in style and color to that worn by the honor attendant. Their flowers were cascades of blue and white daisies.

Peter Kenny of Yonkers was the best man. Ushers were John W. Chase, brother of the bride, Frank Hayes of Yonkers, Richard Grimalde, Yonkers, Arthur Closi of Lake Katrine and Bernard P. Jones, the bride's nephew, was the ringbearer.

Approximately 125 guests were entertained at a reception given in the Elks Club on Fair Street, this city.

The bride was graduated from Kingston High School and the Benedictine Hospital School of Nursing. She served on the Benedictine staff and is now on the staff of the Yonkers General Hospital. Her husband, an alumnus of Sacred Heart High School, Yonkers, is employed by the Metropolitan Insurance Company. He is a member of the U. S. Coast Guard in Groten, Conn.

After a wedding trip to Atlantic City, N. J., the couple will be at home at 208 Kimball Avenue, Yonkers.

Elected President By Baptist Women For Valley Assoc.

MRS. ARTHUR T. PEDERSEN

Announcement was made today of the recent election of Mrs. Arthur T. Pedersen of Hurley Heights as president of the Hudson River Central Women's Association of American Baptist Women.

Installing officer was Mrs. Herbert E. Hinton, retiring president. Mrs. Hinton is the wife of the Rev. Herbert E. Hinton, DD, retired missionary and minister of New City. Dr. Hinton appeared in Kingston last June as guest pastor at First Baptist Church.

The installation ceremonies took place at Ossining Baptist Church, one of the 10 churches which comprise the HRCA.

Mrs. Pedersen, who is the choir director and organist of First Baptist Church this city, posts which she has held for six years, served as president of the local Baptist Church women's work for two years and presently is vice president of missions at the local church. In 1961 she was association chairman of mission area interpreters.

Before coming to Kingston Mrs. Pedersen was organist at First Baptist Church in Endicott and served as president of the Endicott P-TA for two terms. She also served on several school boards in the Broome County city for curriculum evaluation and report card committees.

Mr. and Mrs. Pedersen have two children, Arthur J., a premed student at Rutgers University and Alan S., a freshman at Kingston High School.

Arthur T. Pedersen, an employe of the Kingston IBM, is chairman of the board of trustees of First Baptist Church.

Local Secretaries Attend Annual State Conference

This past weekend the 10th annual meeting of the New York State Division of the National Secretaries Association (International) was held at Niagara Falls, and more than 300 secretaries attended.

Under the direction of J. Bruce Buckler, staff instructor for Rogers, Slade and Hill of New York City, the conference opened on Friday afternoon with a workshop entitled "The Imprints We Leave." The workshop was divided into four parts. First under discussion was "The Understanding of Ourselves as a Basis for Better Cooperation." This was followed by a "Self Appraisal Exercise on Individual Differences" which appraisals were summarized and commented on by Mr. Buckler. Following the appraisal exercise, a presentation was made on the delegating of responsibility in an office as well as cooperation when placed in charge of any form of committee work. The workshop was terminated with a thought provoking film "Project 5118" which concerned effective communication as it affects our everyday life.

Friday evening, members were the guests of the Niagara Falls Chapter at an open house at Niagara Hotel where they were entertained by the Ga-No-Cho-We Indian Dancers.

Saturday morning, after the presentation of colors and the singing of the National Anthems of both the United States and Canada as well as words of welcome by the Mayor, a memorial service was held. This was followed by the official call to order. During the conference, in addition to the routine convention business, annual reports were received, election of state officers was held, bids were accepted for the 1963 convention which will be held at Rochester and the 1963 bowling tournament which will be held at Syracuse. The morning portion ended with a luncheon at Victoria Ballroom of the Park Hotel, Niagara Falls, Ontario, Canada.

At the luncheon, W. L. Eggert, vice president and general manager of Moore Business Forms Inc., spoke on "Footprints Bridging the World," covering the various aspects and importance of creating a good image of North America, especially when traveling abroad.

Saturday evening, a special banquet was held at the Niagara Falls Hotel. During the banquet the annual New York State Secretary of the Year Contest was held. Miss Lillian M. Styles represented the Kingston-Poughkeepsie Chapter. A Buffalo woman, Miss Elaine T. Devine, was crowned. In addition, the new state officers were announced. They are Mrs. Frances M. Austin, Syracuse, president; Miss Venera Rizzo, Albany, vice president; Miss Bertha Stronach, New York City, corresponding secertary; Mrs. Florence Heath, Binghamton, recording secretary; and Miss Hazel Rodriquiz, Schenectady, treasurer.

On Sunday a program with the theme "Footprints to the Future" was introduced. Unfinished business was also concluded.

Area secretaries attending this conference were Mrs. Gloria Starling, local chapter president and delegate, of the Rondout Valley School District; Miss Lela Buckley of Poughkeepsie; Mrs. Beatrice Edwards; Miss Margaret Zilnik; and the Misses Blanche Cartier, Regina Czelusniak and Lillian Styles, vice president and alternate delegate.

Valda Lapo of Shady Weds Kingston Man, H. Phillips Eighmey at Methodist Church

Valdo Irene Lapo of Shady and H. Phillips Eighmey of Kingston exchanged nuptial vows on Sunday, May 20 at 2:30 p. m. in the Methodist Church of Shady. Officiating was the Rev. H. Chase Page. It was a double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harrison Lapo of Shady. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry P. Eighmey of 94 Highland Avenue, this city.

Mrs. Arthur MacDaniel was organist.

White gladioli decorated the church for the occasion.

Harrison Lapo gave his daughter in marriage. She wore a ballerina length gown of white lace styled with scalloped neckline, long tapered sleeves and bouffant skirt. Her full veil of silk illusion was gathered to a coronet of seed pearls. She carried a cascade of white roses and pompons.

The bride's sister, Patricia, was the maid of honor. She wore a lavender chiffon gown and carried a cascade of yellow roses with yellow pompons. Bridesmaids were Miss Mary Keefe of Shady, the bride's cousin, Miss Virginia Carnright of Lake Hill, and Miss Mae MacDaniel of Shady. The girls were attired in pink, green and yellow chiffon respectively. They carried roses and pompons.

The bridegroom's brother, David, served as best man. Ushering were Douglas Eighmey, brother of the bridegroom, Frank Mundy of Warrensburgh, and Richard Kullman of Woodstock.

A reception was given immediately afterwards in the Methodist Church hall in Shady.

The bride was graduated from Onteora Central School and is now employed as a cashier at Grand Union in Woodstock. Her husband is an alumnus of Kingston High School and is in his senior year at Hudson Valley Community College. His major study is automotive technology.

Mr. and Mrs. Eighmey will reside in Shady.

The maid of honor wore a street lngth gown of violet silk organza over taffeta. Her matching short veil was held by a cluster of matching roses and she carried a cascade of yellow carnations. The junior bridesmaid was attired in a street length gown of nile green silk. Her flowers were yellow carnations.

Raymond J. Reilly, the bride's brother, of Kingston, served as best man. Ushering were Raymond Proia, Carl Shonberg, both of Clearwater, Fla.

The bride attended Tomlinsen's School of Cosmotology and the bridegroom attended St. Petersburg Junior College, St. Petersburg, Fla.

The couple plan to live in Chicago, Ill.

Elected President By Baptist Women For Valley Assoc.

MRS. ARTHUR T. PEDERSEN

Announcement was made today of the recent election of Mrs. Arthur T. Pedersen of Hurley Heights as president of the Hudson River Central Women's Association of American Baptist Women.

Installing officer was Mrs. Herbert E. Hinton, retiring president. Mrs. Hinton is the wife of the Rev. Herbert E. Hinton, DD, retired missionary and minister of New City. Dr. Hinton appeared in Kingston last June as guest pastor at First Baptist Church.

The installation ceremonies took place at Ossining Baptist Church, one of the 10 churches which comprise the HRCA.

Mrs. Pedersen, who is the choir director and organist of First Baptist Church this city, posts which she has held for six years, served as president of the local Baptist Church women's work for two years and presently is vice president of missions at the local church. In 1961 she was association chairman of mission area interpreters.

Before coming to Kingston Mrs. Pedersen was organist at First Baptist Church in Endicott and served as president of the Endicott P-TA for two terms. She also served on several school boards in the Broome County city for curriculum evaluation and report card committees.

Mr. and Mrs. Pedersen have two children, Arthur J., a premed student at Rutgers University and Alan S., a freshman at Kingston High School.

Arthur T. Pedersen, an employe of the Kingston IBM, is chairman of the board of trustees of First Baptist Church.

Local Secretaries Attend Annual State Conference

This past weekend the 10th annual meeting of the New York State Division of the National Secretaries Association (International) was held at Niagara Falls, and more than 300 secretaries attended.

Under the direction of J. Bruce Buckler, staff instructor for Rogers, Slade and Hill of New York City, the conference opened on Friday afternoon with a workshop entitled "The Imprints We Leave." The workshop was divided into four parts. First under discussion was "The Understanding of Ourselves as a Basis for Better Cooperation." This was followed by a "Self Appraisal Exercise on Individual Differences" which appraisals were summarized and commented on by Mr. Buckler. Following the appraisal exercise, a presentation was made on the delegating of responsibility in an office as well as cooperation when placed in charge of any form of committee work. The workshop was terminated with a thought provoking film "Project 5118" which concerned effective communication as it affects our everyday life.

Friday evening, members were the guests of the Niagara Falls Chapter at an open house at Niagara Hotel where they were entertained by the Ga-No-Cho-We Indian Dancers.

Saturday morning, after the presentation of colors and the singing of the National Anthems of both the United States and Canada as well as words of welcome by the Mayor, a memorial service was held. This was followed by the official call to order. During the conference, in addition to the routine convention business, annual reports were received, election of state officers was held, bids were accepted for the 1963 convention which will be held at Rochester and the 1963 bowling tournament which will be held at Syracuse. The morning portion ended with a luncheon at Victoria Ballroom of the Park Hotel, Niagara Falls, Ontario, Canada.

At the luncheon, W. L. Eggert, vice president and general manager of Moore Business Forms Inc., spoke on "Footprints Bridging the World," covering the various aspects and importance of creating a good image of North America, especially when traveling abroad.

Saturday evening, a special banquet was held at the Niagara Falls Hotel. During the banquet the annual New York State Secretary of the Year Contest was held. Miss Lillian M. Styles represented the Kingston-Poughkeepsie Chapter. A Buffalo woman, Miss Elaine T. Devine, was crowned. In addition, the new state officers were announced. They are Mrs. Frances M. Austin, Syracuse, president; Miss Venera Rizzo, Albany, vice president; Miss Bertha Stronach, New York City, corresponding secertary; Mrs. Florence Heath, Binghamton, recording secretary; and Miss Hazel Rodriquiz, Schenectady, treasurer.

On Sunday a program with the theme "Footprints to the Future" was introduced. Unfinished business was also concluded.

Area secretaries attending this conference were Mrs. Gloria Starling, local chapter president and delegate, of the Rondout Valley School District; Miss Lela Buckley of Poughkeepsie; Mrs. Beatrice Edwards; Miss Margaret Zilnik; and the Misses Blanche Cartier, Regina Czelusniak and Lillian Styles, vice president and alternate delegate.

Valda Lapo of Shady Weds Kingston Man, H. Phillips Eighmey at Methodist Church

Valdo Irene Lapo of Shady and H. Phillips Eighmey of Kingston exchanged nuptial vows on Sunday, May 20 at 2:30 p. m. in the Methodist Church of Shady. Officiating was the Rev. H. Chase Page. It was a double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harrison Lapo of Shady. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry P. Eighmey of 94 Highland Avenue, this city.

Mrs. Arthur MacDaniel was organist.

White gladioli decorated the church for the occasion.

Harrison Lapo gave his daughter in marriage. She wore a ballerina length gown of white lace styled with scalloped neckline, long tapered sleeves and bouffant skirt. Her full veil of silk illusion was gathered to a coronet of seed pearls. She carried a cascade of white roses and pompons.

The bride's sister, Patricia, was the maid of honor. She wore a lavender chiffon gown and carried a cascade of yellow roses with yellow pompons. Bridesmaids were Miss Mary Keefe of Shady, the bride's cousin, Miss Virginia Carnright of Lake Hill, and Miss Mae MacDaniel of Shady. The girls were attired in pink, green and yellow chiffon respectively. They carried roses and pompons.

Gale Hafele was the flower girl in a lavendar organdy dress. She carried a princess basket of pompons and rose petals.

The bridegroom's brother, David, served as best man. Ushering were Douglas Eighmey, brother of the bridegroom, Frank Mundy of Warrensburgh, and Richard Kullman of Woodstock.

A reception was given immediately afterwards in the Methodist Church hall in Shady.

The bride was graduated from Onteora Central School and is now employed as a cashier at Grand Union in Woodstock. Her husband is an alumnus of Kingston High School and is in his senior year at Hudson Valley Community College. His major study is automotive technology.

Mr. and Mrs. Eighmey will reside in Shady.

Wesleyan Service Guild Elects New Officers, Chairman

Officers for the coming year were elected at the Tuesday supper meeting of the Wesleyan Service Guild of St. James Methodist Church.

Mrs. Evelyn Thomas was named president. Other officers are Mrs. Edna Hardwick, vice president; Miss Matilda Martin, treasurer; Mrs. Miriam Riseley, secretary - publicity, and Mrs. Anna Harrison, promotion secretary.

Chairmen are Mrs. Beatrice Van Keuren, Spiritual Life; Mrs. Hilda Black, special concerns and local church activities; Mrs. Beatrice Van Keuren, missionary education and service. Mrs. C. Pershing Hunter is co-ordinator.

Mrs. Hazel VanWagenen, the retiring president, was presented with a special membership certificate and pin in the Wesleyan Service Guild.

Miss Martin, Miss Waterman and Mrs. VanWagenen gave a report on the Sixth Wesleyan Service Guild Assembly they had attended the weekend of May 19 at Atlantic City, N. J. This conference followed a meeting of the Woman's Society of Christian Service, which had been attended by approximately 10,000 women.

The Guild members were asked to attend a District Spiritual Life Retreat to be held at Maple Crest June 8 and 9.

Miss Waterman outlined plans for the coming Guild Conference to be held at Sarah Lawrence College, Bronxville, June 13, 14 and 15. Several members of the Guild plan to attend the conference.

Following the business meeting the members made their pledges for the coming year. During the impressive service Miss Sharon Green was soloist, accompanied by Miss Patricia Massman.

The June 19 meeting will be the annual picnic supper, after which Mrs. C. Pershing Hunter will install the newly elected officers.

Officers Installed By Republican Club

The annual meeting of the Rosendale Republican Club was held Tuesday 8 p. m. at the Grange Hall, Rosendale.

John Tyler was installed as president; Raymond LeFever, vice president; Henry Hartman, secretary and George Erts, treasurer. Charles Markle was appointed membership chairman, Cordelia Feltman program chairman and Elsie Ingram publicity chairman.

Miss Feltman introduced attorney Ward Ingalsbe as the speaker for the evening. His topic was the MORE program. The new program was well outlined as a program working in cooperation with the Republican State Committee, the Republican National Committee and the Republican Senatorial and Congressional committees. It is hoped that new workers may be obtained to work at the local election districts in cooperation with the local committeemen in the local election districts. It is hoped that this might bring out a bigger vote and interest MORE people in the Republican Party.

Bettie Taylor spoke briefly about the recent meetings she had attended in Kingston where she had obtained information on the new program. Bettie Taylor, Kenneth Taylor, Kevin Reynolds and D. J. McMonagle, all of the Town of Rosendale, have been appointd as workers for the program. Refreshments were served after the meeting.

Girl Scouts Invite Sponsors to Court

Word has been received from Mrs. Herman Miller, Gorl Scout leader, that the Woman's Club of Rosendale, sponsors of the Rosendale troop, has been invited to the Court of Awards to be held Saturday, June 9, at 7:30 p. m. at the Rosendale Grange. Since there will be no meeting of the Women's Club until June 14, members are being urged by this means to attend the Court of Awards.

Says Writer Misinformed

Editor, The Freeman

In order to answer the much misinformed writer of the Monday, May 21st article in your column, regarding the police being called to School Six yard last Thursday evening, would you please give me an eighth the space that this writer received from you.

The police were not called because of an innocent game of ball as the writer stated.

The teenagers both boys and girls knew why they were ordered out, this parents also know, and the writer of the article will be informed by the time he reads these few lines in your column, which I hope will be in your next edition, if possible.

Thanking you very much.

Manhattan Balls to Roll in State Pin Tourney This Weekend

Local Aces Set For Friday Shift At Bowlero Lanes

Manhattan Bowling Balls squad of Kingston will make an assault in the Class A team division of the State Women's Bowling tournament this weekend. The local gals will roll Friday, 9:30 p. m., on Lanes 12 and 13 at the Bowlero. They will be aiming for the 2797, hit several weeks ago by Pasquale's Restaurant of New York.

This is practically the same Manhattan team which won Hudson Valley Women's League titles for two straight years. The roster includes Rose Schatzel, Sis Balash, Dot Rawding, Rosemary Pillsworth and Nellie Alverson, five of the top female keglers in the area.

Action in this 29th annual tournament will conclude on Sunday, with the final team event scheduled for 2 p. m. and the last singles and doubles squad listed to roll at 3 p. m.

A total of 2508 team, the second largest in the history of the tourney, will have completed their shooting when the final ba'l is thrown Sunday afternoon.

Most of the keglers on weekend squads are from the Syracuse, Sidney and New York City area.

Philadelphia's flip-flop Phillies, rejoining the National League's more respected members for the 1962 campaign, have continued San Francisco's skid and cut another length off the Giants bulge in that tightening pennant race.

Playing solid ball after shaking off the effects of last year's disastrous 23-game losing streak and a last-place finish 46 games back, the Phillies thumped the league-leading Giants 10-7 Wednesday night.

It was the third consecutive loss for the Giants who up until a week ago were pulverizing the opposition with 17 victories in 20 games and had built a 4½-game lead.

Now the Phils, striving to climb into the first division of the expanded 10-club circuit, have cut the Giants edge to 1½ games while moving into a virtual tie for sixth place.

The Los Angeles Dodgers moved into second place with a 3-1 triumph over the New York Mets behind Don Drysdale's four-hitter. St. Louis, its six-game victory string ended by a 6-3 loss to Pittsburgh, dropped into third, 2½ back.

Houston blanked fourth-place Cincinnati 2-0 on Ken Johnson's five-hitter and Milwaukee beat the Chicago Cubs 4-2 as Warren Spahn posted the 314th triumph of his career with a five-hitter.

Tony Taylor and rookie Ted Savage each stroked a double and two singles, scoring three runs apiece, to pace the Phillies' 13-hit outburst against Mike McCormick (1-2) and four successors. Art Mahaffey (4-5) started for the Phils, allowed only four hits through six innings, but had to leave when his arm stiffened. The Giants battled back with three runs each off relievers Frank Sullivan and Jack Baldschun but fell short.

Craig Bows

The Dodgers cracked a 1-1 tie in the eighth. Ron Fairly's sacrifice fly knocked in the winner before Frank Howard's grounder added an insurance run. The victory was Drysdale's sixth against three losses. Roger Craig (2-5) went the distance, allowing 11 hits.

The Pirates jumped on Larry Jackson (4-5) for four first inning runs. Ken Boyer homered for the Cards and Bill White went 4-for-4 but it wasn't enough. Harvey Haddix (3-2) got the victory with relief help from Tom Sturdivant and Diomedes Olivo.

Cleveland Ace Benefits From Home Run Attack

By JIM HACKLEMAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

Remember the hard-luck Dick Donovan of just a year ago, with that disheartening string of five successive one-run losses? His luck is a little better this season and so's his record—8-0.

The big right-hander became the first eight-game winner in the majors Wednesday night when the Cleveland Indians cut loose with another eleventh-hour home run attack and overpowered the Chicago White Sox 5-4. Pinch hitting rookie Al Luplow and Chuck Essegian connected back-to-back in the ninth inning as the Tribe won for the third time in a week with ninth inning homers.

Pepitone Hits Pair

By winning the squeaker, Cleveland remained a half game behind the top-place Yankees, who buried Kansas City 13-7 with a nine-run eighth inning triggered and capped by rookie Joe Pepitone's home run blasts. Boston beat Minnesota 6-1 dropping the Twins to third, one game back. Washington whipped Los Angeles 7-2, while Detroit and the Orioles were rained out at Baltimore.

Donovan was tagged for 10 hits, one a two-run homer by Al Smith in the first, but singled in one run himself as the Indians stayed close to the White Sox all the way.

Dom Zanni, who had pitched strongly in relief of Juan Pizarro, was the victim of Cleveland's uprising in the ninth. Luplow led off with his score-tying homer into Comiskey Park's lower left field deck and Essegian promptly zeroed in on the same sector.

Pepitone and fellow rookie Phil Linz, both fill-ins for the injury-hobbled Yankees, produced handsomely in the explosive rout of the A's. Held to four hits by Dan Pfister and trailing 7-4 going into the last of the eight, the Yanks sent 12 men to bat in the inning.

Pepitone kicked off the rally with a homer and climaxed it with another with two aboard, becoming the 15th major leaguer to homer twice in one inning. Linz took over at third after Clete Boyer was hit on the wrist by a pitch in the third, homered in the seventh with one on for his first hit in the majors, and sent the Yanks ahead with a two-run single in the big ninth.

Tex Clevenger, called up from the minors Tuesday was the winner with one inning of relief and Diego Segui took the loss. Jimenez whacked a homer for the A's.

Sox Halt Skid

The Red Sox put a halt to their eight-game skid behind the seven-hit pitching of Earl Wilson and Dick Radatz. Gary Geiger had a homer and double in Boston's 13-hit offensive against Don Lee and two Minnesota relievers. Ed Bressoud also homered. Rich Rollins' homer accounted for the Twins' lone run.

Pete Burnside pitched a nine-hitter for the last-place Senators, who broke away from the Angels in the first three innings with seven runs—four of them unearned. Ted Bowsfield was the losing pitcher.

Trail Sweepers Club Holds Annual Banquet

Ninety-six members and guests of the Trail Sweepers Ski Club of Kingston attended the club's annual banquet Saturday night at Deanie's in Woodstock.

Officers who were introduced and installed were Walter Gilman, Kingston, president; Ronald Hill, Saugerties, vice president; Barbara Tice, Saugerties, recording secretary; Philis Sior, Port Ewen, corresponding secretary and Tim Moore, High Woods, treasurer.

Elected to the board of directors were Ralph Smith, John Clark, Joe Shapiro. Dot Wright was elected to fill the one year remaining in the term of retiring member Jim Fuller.

Dot Wright won a pair of head skiis, a door prize donated by John McGrath of the Four Seasons shop in Phoenicia.

Laugh prize winners included Don VanKleeck, miniature toboggan; Barbara Clark, needle and thread for sewing up slit seams in ski pants; Bill Langenstein, Bill Philips and Nick Reis, ski instruction medals for meritorious service at Williams Lake; Don Dekoskie, iron glue to help stay in his bindings and Sara Gofreddi, den mother award at Highmount.

Speed Scherer and his combo provided excellent after dinner dance music.

Chris Gallo Leader In Invitational Loop

Chris Gallo was the individual leader in the Invitational Classic League with an average of 204.20 in 96 games. He also had the most 700 triples, blasting three of them.

Others above the 200 bracket were Jack Ferraro, 203.69; Larry Petersen, 201.83 and Buster Ferraro, 201. Petersen bombed the most 200 games, hitting 63 and he had 23 triples above 600.

700 shooters in the league included Vince Carpino, 742; Herb Petersen, 741; Mike Rienzo, 729; Gallo, 726 and a pair of 711s; Buster Ferraro, 714; Jack Ferraro, 705; Jack Schatzel, 710 and Ridge Tremper, 702.

Cablevision won team honors, beating Big Scot by a half game on the final night of the season. Individual highs were Carpino's 742 and 300 games by Schatzel and Gallo. Team highs were Garraghan Oil with 3190 and Smith-Parish Roofing with 1140.

Monticello Raceway to Open Season a Week From Tonight

MONTICELLO, May 22 — Monticello Raceway opens its fifth season of harness racing one week from tonight on May 31 with a record summer meeting of 101 dates, a banner program of 39 early closing events and an ambitious invitational schedule for the fastest class horses.

Post time remains the same at 9 p. m. for the 99 racing nights. The daily double closes 10 minutes earlier. Two matinees are slated for July 28 and September 1.

By the time the meet winds up on September 22, it is guessed that 625,000 fans will have passed the turnstiles. They will have seen such outstanding attractions as the $10,375 Harness Tracks of America Pace and Grand Circuit fixtures as the $20,000 (est.) F. E. Devlin Challenge Trophy Trot and General Sullivan Pace; the $15,000 (est.) Goldsmith Maid Trot, Green Mountain Maid Pace, Elbridge T. Gerry Pace and George M. Levy Pace. And $10,000 (est.) events as the Senators James J. Crawford and John J. Dunnigan Pace and Trot, respectively.

Grand Circuit week runs for six nights from July 9 to 14.

Augmenting these events will be six championship dashes for two, three and aged horses of both gaits for a total of $45,000. The grand sum for the early closing calendar is expected to exceed $275,000.

The inaugural feature will be the $5,000 Sixty-Two Trot. The Fifth Season Pace is another $5,000 test and has been slated to help Monticello mark its fifth racing campaign on June 5.

To Salute 15 Towns

Monticello will swing into its program of honoring area cities and towns on July 4 with the $5,000 Goshen Pace. Fifteen towns will be saluted before the meet ends.

The New York Sires Stakes will stop at the Mighty M during the first afternoon card. Three-year-old pacers will tangle in a $3,000 event and juvenile trotters will face the barrier in a $2,000 dash.

Monticello will be shooting to better last year's record season which found marks erased in almost every major department. A total of $27,852,286 was wagered which was more than double over the first season. The figure skyrocketed Monticello into fifth place among all tracks in the nation in handle.

Attendance and purses increased by 11.8 per cent. The crowd figure rose some 58,146 to 548,830 or a daily average of 6,167. The big jump was instrumental in hiking wagering 12.4 per cent over 1960. The average bet was $312,947.

Lois Runge Paces Rotron With 524

Lois Runge was the best hitter in the Rotron Pioneer Women's League with 186, 161 and 177 for 524. Maude Lasher was a close second, shooting 521. Others, Janet Snyder 436, Barbara Dixon 400, Patti Walker 458, Ethel VanWagner 431, Ruth Stoutenberg 400, Delores Russell 430, Esther Hendricks 435 and Mabel Chapman 402. Results: Alley Oops 2, Kool Kats 1; Grasshoppers 2, Winders 1; Muffinettes 2, Nightengales 1; Perry Winkles 3, Satellites 0; Lasherettes 2, Dial Tones 1.

New Upstate Race Track Has Successful Day for Opener

CANANDAIGUA, N.Y. (AP) — "We couldn't have handled anymore people," said Luke O'Brien, general manager of the nation's newest thoroughbred racing plant, as he faced the future with obvious relish.

The racing fan, his love-affair with the pari-mutuel ticket ever strong, turned out enmass Wednesday as the new Finger Lakes Race Track at Canandaigua opened in startlingly successful style. The attendance was more than 12,000 and the handle was $383,661—better by 10 or 15 percent than the optimists figured.

The hardships were many, including a serious shortage of horses and a drenching and deafening electrical storm that kept the final race of the inaugural eight-race card a virtual secret. The field disappeared around the first turn and wasn't seen again until the stretch run.

Five Winners

But rain or no, jockey George Gibb was a happy man. He rode five winners and three place horses in eight races. The 27-year-old veteran of 10 seasons whipped home the winner in both divisions of the $3,000 Finger Lakes Inaugural, a six-furlong event for three-year-olds and upward.

Gibb rode Verna Wasta's 4-year-old bay gelding, Thynk Again, home a $7.40 winner in 1:16 2-5 in the first heat and led all the way on Leonard A. Wein's Volborg in the second half to establish the track record at 1:15 4-5 and pay $6.50.

The shortage of horses developed despite a huge volume of reservations for space among the 832 stalls. There were fewer than 275 ready to go Wednesday morning. Today's card was cut to seven races with a total of 46 horses entered.

But racing secretary Charles J. Mc Lennan, fresh in from Pimlico, figured the owners and trainers wanted proof that the new track actually would go. With the 100-day meeting underway and purses averaging $15,000 a day, he said, the horsemen will produce.

Manhattan Balls to Roll in State Pin Tourney This Weekend

Local Aces Set For Friday Shift At Bowlero Lanes

Manhattan Bowling Balls squad of Kingston will make an assault in the Class A team division of the State Women's Bowling tournament this weekend. The local gals will roll Friday, 9:30 p. m., on Lanes 12 and 13 at the Bowlero. They will be aiming for the 2797, hit several weeks ago by Pasquale's Restaurant of New York.

This is practically the same Manhattan team which won Hudson Valley Women's League titles for two straight years. The roster includes Rose Schatzel, Sis Balash, Dot Rawding, Rosemary Pillsworth and Nellie Alverson, five of the top female keglers in the area.

Action in this 29th annual tournament will conclude on Sunday, with the final team event scheduled for 2 p. m. and the last singles and doubles squad listed to roll at 3 p. m.

A total of 2508 team, the second largest in the history of the tourney, will have completed their shooting when the final ba'l is thrown Sunday afternoon.

Most of the keglers on weekend squads are from the Syracuse, Sidney and New York City area.

Phils Beat Slumping Giants; Dick Donovan Wins 8th Game

SF Margin Is Cut to 1½ Games By Los Angeles

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

Philadelphia's flip-flop Phillies, rejoining the National League's more respected members for the 1962 campaign, have continued San Francisco's skid and cut another length off the Giants bulge in that tightening pennant race.

Playing solid ball after shaking off the effects of last year's disastrous 23-game losing streak and a last-place finish 46 games back, the Phillies thumped the league-leading Giants 10-7 Wednesday night.

It was the third consecutive loss for the Giants who up until a week ago were pulverizing the opposition with 17 victories in 20 games and had built a 4½-game lead.

Now the Phils, striving to climb into the first division of the expanded 10-club circuit, have cut the Giants edge to 1½ games while moving into a virtual tie for sixth place.

The Los Angeles Dodgers moved into second place with a 3-1 triumph over the New York Mets behind Don Drysdale's four-hitter. St. Louis, its six-game victory string ended by a 6-3 loss to Pittsburgh, dropped into third, 2½ back.

Houston blanked fourth-place Cincinnati 2-0 on Ken Johnson's five-hitter and Milwaukee beat the Chicago Cubs 4-2 as Warren Spahn posted the 314th triumph of his career with a five-hitter.

Tony Taylor and rookie Ted Savage each stroked a double and two singles, scoring three runs apiece, to pace the Phillies' 13-hit outburst against Mike McCormick (1-2) and four successors. Art Mahaffey (4-5) started for the Phils, allowed only four hits through six innings, but had to leave when his arm stiffened. The Giants battled back with three runs each off relievers Frank Sullivan and Jack Baldschun but fell short.

Craig Bows

The Dodgers cracked a 1-1 tie in the eighth. Ron Fairly's sacrifice fly knocked in the winner before Frank Howard's grounder added an insurance run. The victory was Drysdale's sixth against three losses. Roger Craig (2-5) went the distance, allowing 11 hits.

The Pirates jumped on Larry Jackson (4-5) for four first inning runs. Ken Boyer homered for the Cards and Bill White went 4-for-4 but it wasn't enough. Harvey Haddix (3-2) got the victory with relief help from Tom Sturdivant and Diomedes Olivo.

Remember the hard-luck Dick Donovan of just a year ago, with that disheartening string of five successive one-run losses? His luck is a little better this season and so's his record—8-0.

The big right-hander became the first eight-game winner in the majors Wednesday night when the Cleveland Indians cut loose with another eleventh-hour home run attack and overpowered the Chicago White Sox 5-4. Pinch hitting rookie Al Luplow and Chuck Essegian connected back-to-back in the ninth inning as the Tribe won for the third time in a week with ninth inning homers.

Pepitone Hits Pair

By winning the squeaker, Cleveland remained a half game behind the top-place Yankees, who buried Kansas City 13-7 with a nine-run eighth inning triggered and capped by rookie Joe Pepitone's home run blasts. Boston beat Minnesota 6-1 dropping the Twins to third, one game back. Washington whipped Los Angeles 7-2, while Detroit and the Orioles were rained out at Baltimore.

Donovan was tagged for 10 hits, one a two-run homer by Al Smith in the first, but singled in one run himself as the Indians stayed close to the White Sox all the way.

Dom Zanni, who had pitched strongly in relief of Juan Pizarro, was the victim of Cleveland's uprising in the ninth. Luplow led off with his score-tying homer into Comiskey Park's lower left field deck and Essegian promptly zeroed in on the same sector.

Pepitone and fellow rookie Phil Linz, both fill-ins for the injury-hobbled Yankees, produced handsomely in the explosive rout of the A's. Held to four hits by Dan Pfister and trailing 7-4 going into the last of the eight, the Yanks sent 12 men to bat in the inning.

Pepitone kicked off the rally with a homer and climaxed it with another with two aboard, becoming the 15th major leaguer to homer twice in one inning. Linz took over at third after Clete Boyer was hit on the wrist by a pitch in the third, homered in the seventh with one on for his first hit in the majors, and sent the Yanks ahead with a two-run single in the big ninth.

Tex Clevenger, called up from the minors Tuesday was the winner with one inning of relief and Diego Segui took the loss. Jimenez whacked a homer for the A's.

Sox Halt Skid

The Red Sox put a halt to their eight-game skid behind the seven-hit pitching of Earl Wilson and Dick Radatz. Gary Geiger had a homer and double in Boston's 13-hit offensive against Don Lee and two Minnesota relievers. Ed Bressoud also homered. Rich Rollins' homer accounted for the Twins' lone run.

Pete Burnside pitched a nine-hitter for the last-place Senators, who broke away from the Angels in the first three innings with seven runs—four of them unearned. Ted Bowsfield was the losing pitcher.

Trail Sweepers Club Holds Annual Banquet

Ninety-six members and guests of the Trail Sweepers Ski Club of Kingston attended the club's annual banquet Saturday night at Deanie's in Woodstock.

Officers who were introduced and installed were Walter Gilman, Kingston, president; Ronald Hill, Saugerties, vice president; Barbara Tice, Saugerties, recording secretary; Philis Sior, Port Ewen, corresponding secretary and Tim Moore, High Woods, treasurer.

Elected to the board of directors were Ralph Smith, John Clark, Joe Shapiro. Dot Wright was elected to fill the one year remaining in the term of retiring member Jim Fuller.

Dot Wright won a pair of head skiis, a door prize donated by John McGrath of the Four Seasons shop in Phoenicia.

Laugh prize winners included Don VanKleeck, miniature toboggan; Barbara Clark, needle and thread for sewing up slit seams in ski pants; Bill Langenstein, Bill Philips and Nick Reis, ski instruction medals for meritorious service at Williams Lake; Don Dekoskie, iron glue to help stay in his bindings and Sara Gofreddi, den mother award at Highmount.

Speed Scherer and his combo provided excellent after dinner dance music.

Monticello Raceway to Open Season a Week From Tonight

MONTICELLO, May 22 — Monticello Raceway opens its fifth season of harness racing one week from tonight on May 31 with a record summer meeting of 101 dates, a banner program of 39 early closing events and an ambitious invitational schedule for the fastest class horses.

Post time remains the same at 9 p. m. for the 99 racing nights. The daily double closes 10 minutes earlier. Two matinees are slated for July 28 and September 1.

By the time the meet winds up on September 22, it is guessed that 625,000 fans will have passed the turnstiles. They will have seen such outstanding attractions as the $10,375 Harness Tracks of America Pace and Grand Circuit fixtures as the $20,000 (est.) F. E. Devlin Challenge Trophy Trot and General Sullivan Pace; the $15,000 (est.) Goldsmith Maid Trot, Green Mountain Maid Pace, Elbridge T. Gerry Pace and George M. Levy Pace. And $10,000 (est.) events as the Senators James J. Crawford and John J. Dunnigan Pace and Trot, respectively.

Grand Circuit week runs for six nights from July 9 to 14.

Augmenting these events will be six championship dashes for two, three and aged horses of both gaits for a total of $45,000. The grand sum for the early closing calendar is expected to exceed $275,000.

The inaugural feature will be the $5,000 Sixty-Two Trot. The Fifth Season Pace is another $5,000 test and has been slated to help Monticello mark its fifth racing campaign on June 5.

To Salute 15 Towns

Monticello will swing into its program of honoring area cities and towns on July 4 with the $5,000 Goshen Pace. Fifteen towns will be saluted before the meet ends.

The New York Sires Stakes will stop at the Mighty M during the first afternoon card. Three-year-old pacers will tangle in a $3,000 event and juvenile trotters will face the barrier in a $2,000 dash.

Monticello will be shooting to better last year's record season which found marks erased in almost every major department. A total of $27,852,286 was wagered which was more than double over the first season. The figure skyrocketed Monticello into fifth place among all tracks in the nation in handle.

Attendance and purses increased by 11.8 per cent. The crowd figure rose some 58,146 to 548,830 or a daily average of 6,167. The big jump was instrumental in hiking wagering 12.4 per cent over 1960. The average bet was $312,947.

Lois Runge Paces Rotron With 524

Lois Runge was the best hitter in the Rotron Pioneer Women's League with 186, 161 and 177 for 524. Maude Lasher was a close second, shooting 521. Others, Janet Snyder 436, Barbara Dixon 400, Patti Walker 458, Ethel VanWagner 431, Ruth Stoutenberg 400, Delores Russell 430, Esther Hendricks 435 and Mabel Chapman 402. Results: Alley Oops 2, Kool Kats 1; Grasshoppers 2, Winders 1; Muffinettes 2, Nightengales 1; Perry Winkles 3, Satellites 0; Lasherettes 2, Dial Tones 1.

New Upstate Race Track Has Successful Day for Opener

CANANDAIGUA, N.Y. (AP) — "We couldn't have handled anymore people," said Luke O'Brien, general manager of the nation's newest thoroughbred racing plant, as he faced the future with obvious relish.

The racing fan, his love-affair with the pari-mutuel ticket ever strong, turned out enmass Wednesday as the new Finger Lakes Race Track at Canandaigua opened in startlingly successful style. The attendance was more than 12,000 and the handle was $383,661—better by 10 or 15 percent than the optimists figured.

The hardships were many, including a serious shortage of horses and a drenching and deafening electrical storm that kept the final race of the inaugural eight-race card a virtual secret. The field disappeared around the first turn and wasn't seen again until the stretch run.

Five Winners

But rain or no, jockey George Gibb was a happy man. He rode five winners and three place horses in eight races. The 27-year-old veteran of 10 seasons whipped home the winner in both divisions of the $3,000 Finger Lakes Inaugural, a six-furlong event for three-year-olds and upward.

Gibb rode Verna Wasta's 4-year-old bay gelding, Thynk Again, home a $7.40 winner in 1:16 2-5 in the first heat and led all the way on Leonard A. Wein's Volborg in the second half to establish the track record at 1:15 4-5 and pay $6.50.

The shortage of horses developed despite a huge volume of reservations for space among the 832 stalls. There were fewer than 275 ready to go Wednesday morning. Today's card was cut to seven races with a total of 46 horses entered.

But racing secretary Charles J. Mc Lennan, fresh in from Pimlico, figured the owners and trainers wanted proof that the new track actually would go. With the 100-day meeting underway and purses averaging $15,000 a day, he said, the horsemen will produce.

NBA Approves Sale of Philly Club to San Francisco People

NEW YORK (AP)—San Francisco is in, but still faces a fight; Philadelphia is out, only after a fight; and no one seems to know about Batlimore.

That's the situation in the National Basketball Association today after the league's board of directors spent another all day session discussing sales, transfers and expansion.

The major development was league approval of the sale and transfer of the Philadelphia Warriors to San Francisco for the 1962-63 season. It leaves Philadelphia, long an NBA stronghold, without a professional team.

The status of Baltimore, which has applied for a franchise and been given tentative approval, remained in a maybe so, maybe no status. NBA officials are known to have privately expressed discontent with the league's present nine-team makeup, but whether Baltimore will be granted a franchise apparently depends on a suitable arena.

The sale of the Warriors to a group which plans to move it to San Francisco was vigorously opposed by representatives from Boston and New York both Wednesday and in a two-day meeting earlier this month.

Announcement that the NBA had approved the transfer brought an immediate announcement from the San Francisco Saints of the rival American Basketball League that they will fight the move.

City Baseball League Meeting Slated Monday

The City Baseball League meeting, originally scheduled for tonight at City Hall, has been postponed until Monday, May 28.

Four clubs are set to play in the league and other teams or individuals interested are asked to attend Monday's meeting.

Rondout Valley Beats Fallsburgh

Pounding out 16 assorted base hits, Rondout Valley walloped Fallsburgh, 16-3, yesterday at the Sullivan County diamond.

George Boisvert went the distance for the Ganders, allowing seven hits. He aided his cause with a single, double and triple in as many trips to the dish. First baseman Lynn Johnson pounded out a double and three singles.

The Rondout jayvees won a 7-3 contest from the Fallsburgh club.

Yallum, Nadler Clubs Also Record Victories In City League Tilts

Champ Holstein delivered a triple in the last of the ninth inning to give Subway a 2-1 triumph over the 35 Club as play in the City Softball League started last night.

In other contests, Yallum's Kings unloaded 11 hits to bury Bloomington Inn, 13-4, and Nadler Motors whitewashed White Eagle, 11-0.

Bob Lasher outdueled Bill Costello in the Subway-35 Club duel. Both sides scored in the fourth frame and the next run came on Holstein's triple in the ninth.

The Amato boys — Joe Jr., Richie, Mike and Tony all had two hits in leading Yallum's to victory. The Kings scored seven runs in the opening inning and five more in the second to coast home behind the hurling of Mike Amato. Joe and Mike as well as Ron Ferraro stroked doubles.

W. C. Lindsley halted White Eagle with two hits while his mates pounded out 11. Bob Martin had three singles to pace the winners and Leo Bechtold slammed a double.

Little Leaguers

Jaycee Wrens Gain 5-3 Win

Although outhit 6-4, the Jaycee Little League Wrens beat the Eagles, 5-3, at Forsyth Park last night.

The winners jumped to a 4-0 lead in the third inning, thanks to several Eagle errors. The losers countered with three markers in the fifth but the rally fell short.

Russ Supples led the Wren attack with a pair of doubles and a single. Jerry Corrado had the other hit, a double. Dale VanGaasbeck hit a two-bagger and Mike Andrews rapped a pair of singles in a losing cause.

Bob Buchanan fanned nine and walked only three but was charged with the defeat.

Kangaroos, Japanese Giants Disqualified in Mat Match

Referee Johnny Garan stopped last night's tag team feature bout at 2:35 after the second fall and disqualified both the Fabulous Kangaroos and Baba and Susuki, the Japanese Giants. Since both sides were credited with one fall, the bout ended in a draw.

The tag team feature was the highlight of another good show, held before a slim crowd at the Municipal Auditorium.

Baba, a 319 pound giant and Susuki, who tips the scales at 265, were pinned in 15:20 by the Kangaroos but the came back to win the second fall in 6:55. However ,both sides had utter disregard for the rules from then on, forcing Garan to disqualify them and call the match a draw.

Preliminary bout results:

Fred Atkins, 250, Australia, won in 17:42 over Frank Morgan, 230, San Francisco.

Tony Manousos, 220, Sparta, Greece, won in 18:12 over Lou Albany, 240, Mt. Vernon.

Buddy Rogers, 240, Camden, N. J., overpowered Pompero Firpo, 235, Buenos Aires, in 6:50. This was a fight to the finish and Rogers, making his initial appearance in the area, was too much for Firpo.

Eduardo Carpentier, 225, Paris, France, won in 10:52 over Tony Altamar, 235, Stamford, Conn. This was the semi-final match.

Judges for the show were Bill Zelick, New York City and Ben Murrell, Hudson. Henry Taylor, Spring Valley, was the timekeeper and the referees were Anthony Malfi and John Garan of Yonkers. The very popular Dick McCarthy, Kingston's own, was the announcer.

NBA Approves Sale of Philly Club to San Francisco People

NEW YORK (AP)—San Francisco is in, but still faces a fight; Philadelphia is out, only after a fight; and no one seems to know about Batlimore.

That's the situation in the National Basketball Association today after the league's board of directors spent another all day session discussing sales, transfers and expansion.

The major development was league approval of the sale and transfer of the Philadelphia Warriors to San Francisco for the 1962-63 season. It leaves Philadelphia, long an NBA stronghold, without a professional team.

The status of Baltimore, which has applied for a franchise and been given tentative approval, remained in a maybe so, maybe no status. NBA officials are known to have privately expressed discontent with the league's present nine-team makeup, but whether Baltimore will be granted a franchise apparently depends on a suitable arena.

The sale of the Warriors to a group which plans to move it to San Francisco was vigorously opposed by representatives from Boston and New York both Wednesday and in a two-day meeting earlier this month.

Announcement that the NBA had approved the transfer brought an immediate announcement from the San Francisco Saints of the rival American Basketball League that they will fight the move.

City Baseball League Meeting Slated Monday

The City Baseball League meeting, originally scheduled for tonight at City Hall, has been postponed until Monday, May 28.

Four clubs are set to play in the league and other teams or individuals interested are asked to attend Monday's meeting.

Rondout Valley Beats Fallsburgh

Pounding out 16 assorted base hits, Rondout Valley walloped Fallsburgh, 16-3, yesterday at the Sullivan County diamond.

George Boisvert went the distance for the Ganders, allowing seven hits. He aided his cause with a single, double and triple in as many trips to the dish. First baseman Lynn Johnson pounded out a double and three singles.

The Rondout jayvees won a 7-3 contest from the Fallsburgh club.

Yallum, Nadler Clubs Also Record Victories In City League Tilts

Champ Holstein delivered a triple in the last of the ninth inning to give Subway a 2-1 triumph over the 35 Club as play in the City Softball League started last night.

In other contests, Yallum's Kings unloaded 11 hits to bury Bloomington Inn, 13-4, and Nadler Motors whitewashed White Eagle, 11-0.

Bob Lasher outdueled Bill Costello in the Subway-35 Club duel. Both sides scored in the fourth frame and the next run came on Holstein's triple in the ninth.

The Amato boys — Joe Jr., Richie, Mike and Tony all had two hits in leading Yallum's to victory. The Kings scored seven runs in the opening inning and five more in the second to coast home behind the hurling of Mike Amato. Joe and Mike as well as Ron Ferraro stroked doubles.

W. C. Lindsley halted White Eagle with two hits while his mates pounded out 11. Bob Martin had three singles to pace the winners and Leo Bechtold slammed a double.

Grayson's Scoreboard

Belinsky Is a Personality, But Also Quite a Pitcher

By HARRY GRAYSON
Newspaper Enterprise Sports Editor

NEW YORK — (NEA) — Robert Belinsky further demonstrated that his no-hit, no-run performance against the Baltimore Orioles was anything but a fluke when he shut out the Boston Red Sox, 1-0, with two hits to make his record with the Angels, 6-1.

Lovers of the bizarre in baseball, who may be thinking they have discovered an odd-ball in the 25-year-old Belinsky, had better start looking around again.

"Bo's not a character; he's a personality," said Manager Bill Rigney, as the Los Angeles club checked into New York on its first eastern swing. "I'd like to have about nine more pitching characters just like him, for he's strictly a strong one when he throws the ball."

The New York City-born, Trenton-reared Belinsky came out of the Venezuelan Winter League to be the most talked of pitcher in baseball. With Pampero of that circuit, Bo won 13 while losing 5 and led the wheel in strikeouts with 157 in 156 innings.

Why the sudden change after staggering around the minors for a half dozen years?

"I discovered that there was money in this business," said Belinsky, a pleasant, good-looking young man who knows how to say precisely what he thinks. "I went to Venezuela the lowest paid player in the league, left as the best paid, what with bonuses and all."

Has Five Pitches

Belinsky has five pitches— fast ball, curve, slider, screwball and change-up.

"And I had a helluva spitball in the Southern Association (Little Rock) last season," Bo supplemented.

Who taught the majors' newest phenom most about pitching?

"No one," replied the brash Bo. "All Paul Richards told me in the Baltimore training camp in Miami in 1960 was, 'Maybe I'll see you again.' All the other managers ever told me was, 'Do your running.'

"I have a great arm for picking up pitches. I got the screwball by hearsay. I heard about the reverse twist of the wrist and simply tried it. So far in the American League I've been getting them out with the fast ball and the screwball. I rarely use the slider. I use the curve as little as possible, chiefly against left-hand batters. I'd prefer not to use the curve much until I know the hitters and they me."

Belinsky was belted hard only once this season, the Orioles knocking him out in the third inning in Baltimore.

"I was emotionally upset," explained Bo. "I wasn't mentally alert. A dozen magazine writers were on my tail after the no-hitter. I didn't even have time for a rubdown before starting the game in which I was knocked out. So, I had my telephone cut off and slept 12 hours before my next start in Boston."

Belinsky broke his pitching hand socking a guy who stole his raincoat in Vancouver, B. C., two years ago.

"Why didn't you hit him with your right hand?" asked his manager.

"You know left-handers don't think so well," answered the young pitcher.

But American League batters who have faced him will tell you that Bo Belinsky is thinking very well now.

And they'll add that a pitcher with his stuff who gets a piece of the plate with the ball doesn't have to think too much.

KHS Golfers Lose, 6½-5½, In Poughkeepsie

Despite shooting 300, five less strokes than the hosts, Kingston High golfers lost, 6½-5½, Tuesday at Poughkeepsie. A 69 by Bob Stauderman of the winners offset Lauren Beaver's 71 to give the Pioneers three points from the first slot.

Paul Gaffney was low medalist for Kingston with 37-33—70.

Spahn Seeking 20 Win Season For 13th Time

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Warren Spahn, the Milwaukee Braves' southpaw wonder, packed away victory ball No. 314 today while setting his sights on another 20-game season.

"I won't settle for anything less than 20," Spahn said after stopping the Chicago Cubs on a five-hitter, 4-2, Wednesday night for his fifth victory against four defeats this season.

"I still think I get paid for winning at least 20," the $75,000 a year left-hander said. "And I don't feel any differently now than I did last year when I won 21—although I don't consider 1961 a good season as I lost 13 games. I'm in good shape physically."

Spahn, who won his first National League game in 1946 at the age of 25, is shooting for his 13th 20-victory campaign, which would tie him with Christy Mathewson. Only Cy Young, with 16 such years, has more.

Still the Braves' "stopper," Spahn snapped the club's four-game losing streak in closing in on his next immediate objective.

Rebounding Golf Ball Blinds Man

PERTH, Australia (AP) — A young Australian golfer lost the sight of his right eye when struck by his own rebounding golf ball.

Rex Bentley, 24, was playing in a foursome with his parents and a friend in his home town of Carnamah, 200 miles north of Perth.

NFL Heads Vote To Raise Salary Of Pete Rozelle

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The National Football League has extended another solid vote of confidence in Commissioner Pete Rozelle by voting him a $10,000 bonus and boosting his salary $10,000 to $60,000 a year for five years.

In less than two years, the successor to the late Bert Bell has led the league to a clear cut court victory over the rival American Football League and helped clear the way for a new $9.3 million 2-year single network (CBS) television deal.

As a result of the court victory the league no longer lives under the shadow of a huge damage action. Under the new TV contract each club is expected to get $320,000 a year from the TV rights.

"We have no further expansion moves in mind until our two newest clubs (Minnesota and Dallas) are soundly well off the ground," said Rozelle, when asked about the future.

The league set the date of Sunday, Dec. 30 for the 1962 championship game to be played in the home park of the Eastern Conference winner. The Playoff Bowl game (between the two second-place teams) will be moved back from Saturday to Sunday, Jan. 6 at Miami's Orange Bowl. This move was made possible by the cooperation of the Pro Bowl promoters in Los Angeles who will permit players to report the night of Jan. 6 for their Jan. 13 All-Star Game.

Grayson's Scoreboard

Belinsky Is a Personality, But Also Quite a Pitcher

By HARRY GRAYSON
Newspaper Enterprise Sports Editor

NEW YORK — (NEA) — Robert Belinsky further demonstrated that his no-hit, no-run performance against the Baltimore Orioles was anything but a fluke when he shut out the Boston Red Sox, 1-0, with two hits to make his record with the Angels, 6-1.

Lovers of the bizarre in baseball, who may be thinking they have discovered an odd-ball in the 25-year-old Belinsky, had better start looking around again.

"Bo's not a character; he's a personality," said Manager Bill Rigney, as the Los Angeles club checked into New York on its first eastern swing. "I'd like to have about nine more pitching characters just like him, for he's strictly a strong one when he throws the ball."

The New York City-born, Trenton-reared Belinsky came out of the Venezuelan Winter League to be the most talked of pitcher in baseball. With Pampero of that circuit, Bo won 13 while losing 5 and led the wheel in strikeouts with 157 in 156 innings.

Why the sudden change after staggering around the minors for a half dozen years?

"I discovered that there was money in this business," said Belinsky, a pleasant, good-looking young man who knows how to say precisely what he thinks. "I went to Venezuela the lowest paid player in the league, left as the best paid, what with bonuses and all."

Has Five Pitches

Belinsky has five pitches– fast ball, curve, slider, screwball and change-up.

"And I had a helluva spitball in the Southern Association (Little Rock) last season," Bo supplemented.

Who taught the majors' newest phenom most about pitching?

"No one," replied the brash Bo. "All Paul Richards told me in the Baltimore training camp in Miami in 1960 was, 'Maybe I'll see you again.' All the other managers ever told me was, 'Do your running.'

"I have a great arm for picking up pitches. I got the screwball by hearsay. I heard about the reverse twist of the wrist and simply tried it. So far in the American League I've been getting them out with the fast ball and the screwball. I rarely use the slider. I use the curve as little as possible, chiefly against left-hand batters. I'd prefer not to use the curve much until I know the hitters and they me."

Belinsky was belted hard only once this season, the Orioles knocking him out in the third inning in Baltimore.

"I was emotionally upset," explained Bo. "I wasn't mentally alert. A dozen magazine writers were on my tail after the no-hitter. I didn't even have time for a rubdown before starting the game in which I was knocked out. So, I had my telephone cut off and slept 12 hours before my next start in Boston."

Belinsky broke his pitching hand socking a guy who stole his raincoat in Vancouver, B. C., two years ago.

"Why didn't you hit him with your right hand?" asked his manager.

"You know left-handers don't think so well," answered the young pitcher.

But American League batters who have faced him will tell you that Bo Belinsky is thinking very well now.

KHS Golfers Lose, 6½-5½, In Poughkeepsie

Despite shooting 300, five less strokes than the hosts, Kingston High golfers lost, 6½-5½, Tuesday at Poughkeepsie. A 69 by Bob Stauderman of the winners offset Lauren Beaver's 71 to give the Pioneers three points from the first slot.

Paul Gaffney was low medalist for Kingston with 37-33—70. The scoring:

Rebounding Golf Ball Blinds Man

PERTH, Australia (AP) — A young Australian golfer lost the sight of his right eye when struck by his own rebounding golf ball.

Rex Bentley, 24, was playing in a foursome with his parents and a friend in his home town of Carnamah, 200 miles north of Perth.

Spahn Seeking 20 Win Season For 13th Time

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Warren Spahn, the Milwaukee Braves' southpaw wonder, packed away victory ball No. 314 today while setting his sights on another 20-game season.

"I won't settle for anything less than 20," Spahn said after stopping the Chicago Cubs on a five-hitter, 4-2, Wednesday night for his fifth victory against four defeats this season.

"I still think I get paid for winning at least 20," the $75,000 a year left-hander said. "And I don't feel any differently now than I did last year when I won 21—although I don't consider 1961 a good season as I lost 13 games. I'm in good shape physically."

Spahn, who won his first National League game in 1946 at the age of 25, is shooting for his 13th 20-victory campaign, which would tie him with Christy Mathewson. Only Cy Young, with 16 such years, has more.

Still the Braves' "stopper," Spahn snapped the club's four-game losing streak in closing in on his next immediate objective.

NFL Heads Vote To Raise Salary Of Pete Rozelle

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The National Football League has extended another solid vote of confidence in Commissioner Pete Rozelle by voting him a $10,000 bonus and boosting his salary $10,000 to $60,000 a year for five years.

In less than two years, the successor to the late Bert Bell has led the league to a clear cut court victory over the rival American Football League and helped clear the way for a new $9.3 million 2-year single network (CBS) television deal.

As a result of the court victory the league no longer lives under the shadow of a huge damage action. Under the new TV contract each club is expected to get $320,000 a year from the TV rights.

"We have no further expansion moves in mind until our two newest clubs (Minnesota and Dallas) are soundly well off the ground," said Rozelle, when asked about the future.

The league set the date of Sunday, Dec. 30 for the 1962 championship game to be played in the home park of the Eastern Conference winner. The Playoff Bowl game (between the two second-place teams) will be moved back from Saturday to Sunday, Jan. 6 at Miami's Orange Bowl. This move was made possible by the cooperation of the Pro Bowl promoters in Los Angeles who will permit players to report the night of Jan. 6 for their Jan. 13 All-Star Game.

Hercules Announces Management Changes

WILMINGTON, Del. — G. Fred Hogg, general manager of Hercules Powder Company's Pine and Paper Chemicals Department, acting upon the advice and recommendations of his doctors, has asked to be relieved of his responsibilities and has requested early retirement, it was announced today by Albert E. Forster, president.

Hogg will remain with the company as a member of the board of directors and as special assistant to the president until his retirement, about November 1. He will be succeeded as general manager of Pine and Paper Chemicals Department by Edward G. Crum, presently general manager of the Cellulose and Protein Products Department.

E. L. Jones, assistant general manager of Synthetics Department, will become general manager of the Cellulose and Protein Products Department, replacing Mr. Crum.

J. G. Copeland Jr., manager of Hercules' Parlin, New Jersey plant, will become assistant general manager of the Synthetics Department, replacing Jones.

Ryan Resigns His Post on Kingston Planning Board

The resignation of James K. Ryan, 25 Van Deusen Street, as a member of the City Planning Board was announced today by Mayor John J. Schwenk effective May 31.

Ryan was appointed to the board Dec. 27, 1961, by Mayor Edwin F. Radel to fill the unexpired term of Edwin L. Davey, 105 Wilson Avenue, manager of J. J. Newberry Company store.

At the time of his appointment Ryan was serving as Democratic Alderman of the 10th Ward. He resigned that position to accept the planning board appointment.

Ryan said in his letter of resignation to Mayor Schwenk that he is resigning because business commitments do not allow him to dedicate the necessary time to planning board activities.

"Due to business commitments, it has been impossible for me to attend most of the meetings of the Kingston planning board during the past two months. As you know, the amount of work facing this body is too great and too complex for any member to perform his task properly if he is unable to attend most of the meetings. Since work sessions have been averaging about two per week, I am already behind in my knowledge and would only delay the other members," his letter said.

Mayor Schwenk expressed regret that Ryan was leaving the board in a letter to the former alderman:

"I deeply regret having received your letter of resignation as a member of the city planning board, for I value the dedication and capability with which you have served the people of the city in this capacity.

"However, I realize that you must have thought quite deeply before making the decision to tender your resignation and, as always, you are doing what you feel is best for the city," the Mayor said.

Ryan is an employe of IBM.

Rockefeller Not For Medical Plan Of State Doctors

Not for JFK Plan Either

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP) — Gov. Rockefeller rejected today a compromise plan the New York State Medical Society offered in the current controversy over medical care for the aged.

The governor told a meeting of 75 doctors that their society's plan, providing for tax deductions and subsidies for the elderly to buy private insurance, was "not an equitable way to give assistance."

Under the plan the society is backing, an elderly person would receive a federal subsidy of one-third the cost of a private health-insurance policy, and children or others who help pay the balance could deduct the cost in figuring income taxes.

Good for Rich

"It would be a lovely thing for those with high incomes," the Republican governor said. But, he continued, those in the low-income brackets "would have damn little to deduct."

Rockefeller again pressed for support for his own plan for providing medical care for the aged through the social security system but with provisions for cash payments from the government to those wishing to purchase their own health policies.

The governor noted that, under the social security system, workers would pay a higher social security tax to finance the program. Any later extension of coverage or benefits could mean higher worker contributions, the governor said, and this fact could deter demands for any expanded benefits.

Not for JFK Plan Either

In advocating the social security approach, Rockefeller specified his own plan, not that of Democratic President Kennedy The Democratic plan does not provide for any cash grants to buy private policies.

Rockefeller's plan, embodied in a bill introduced by U.S. Rep. John Lindsay, R-N.Y., also calls for protection for persons not under social security and also would require that medical-care funds be isolated in an account separate from other social security funds.

New dwelling units constructed between 1950 and 1959 totaled 15 million, while 2 million old units were demolished, according to census statistics.

Probe Continues Of Disorder Near Ellenville School

Ellenville police and school officials today continued investigation of a student incident which occurred Tuesday afternoon near Ellenville Central School. A school official said four youths were subsequently charged with disorderly conduct, and three juveniles will be petitioned into Children's Court.

According to reports, one youth was beaten during the fighting which was witnessed by some 500 students. At the height of the disturbance, school bells were sounded and students returned to their classrooms ahead of schedule.

Says He Was Threatened

An unconfirmed report said brass knuckles were used, but there was no official confirmation.

Morris Kaufman, school principal, said he was threatened by some of the youths involved. He said some "trespassers, including truants and students who stayed out of school" were involved. The principal said the cause of the fighting was not determined.

Asked about the report of fighting, the principal said, "there was some fighting."

Four youths involved in the incident appeared today before Ellenville Village Police Justice Frank Decker. They were identified as Richard Kuhlman, Ralph Wynkoop, Nelson Evans and Wayne Mitchell, all 16.

Kuhlman pleaded guilty to disorderly conduct. Sentencing was deferred. The other three youths pleaded innocent and their cases were adjourned by Justice Decker until 6:30 p. m. Monday. They were released.

Assistant District Atorned James Murray said that he is investigating the case with Ellenville police. He said a "thorough investigation will be made." The assistant prosecutor said he didn't know what started the fighting.
